SACHEIN LOVES SHALINI

Miracle of Love...

We at Vijay Fans Online Consortium (VFOC) bring to you our first comic release "Sachein Loves Shalini". This comic is hopefully the first of its kind in India - a fans group releasing a comic for their favorite actor

However, this is not all; this is just a beginning of many similar activities we are planning to do in coming days.

What started as a spark couple of years back has taken shape into a complete comic today, thanks to the efforts put in by those behind the scenes and the encouragement from our friends and fellow fans.

Sachein is definitely an unforgettable film from Vijay and we have tried to recreate the magic through this comic to our best possible efforts. Vijay in romantic avatar is any day a delight for us.

This work is completely dedicated to our beloved Ilayathalapathy Vijay, who has been the driving force for us and inspiring us everyday to do more and more such activities and also to all fans of Ilayathalapathy Vijay, all over. And we look forward to keep up this momentum for our forthcoming releases.

We thank God Almighty for staying with us all along this journey and expecting the encouragement and support of all Vijay fans in making this release a grand success.

A misty December morning...

VFOC

Company Bus

Sachin was in the company bus on his way to work, as usual trying to catch up with his sleep.

VFOC

On this particular day, a girl got on the bus, came to his seat and sat down. "Good Morning," she said.

He looked back at her through half closed eyes, replied "Good Night," and then proceeded to return to his half hour nap before the bus reached the office.

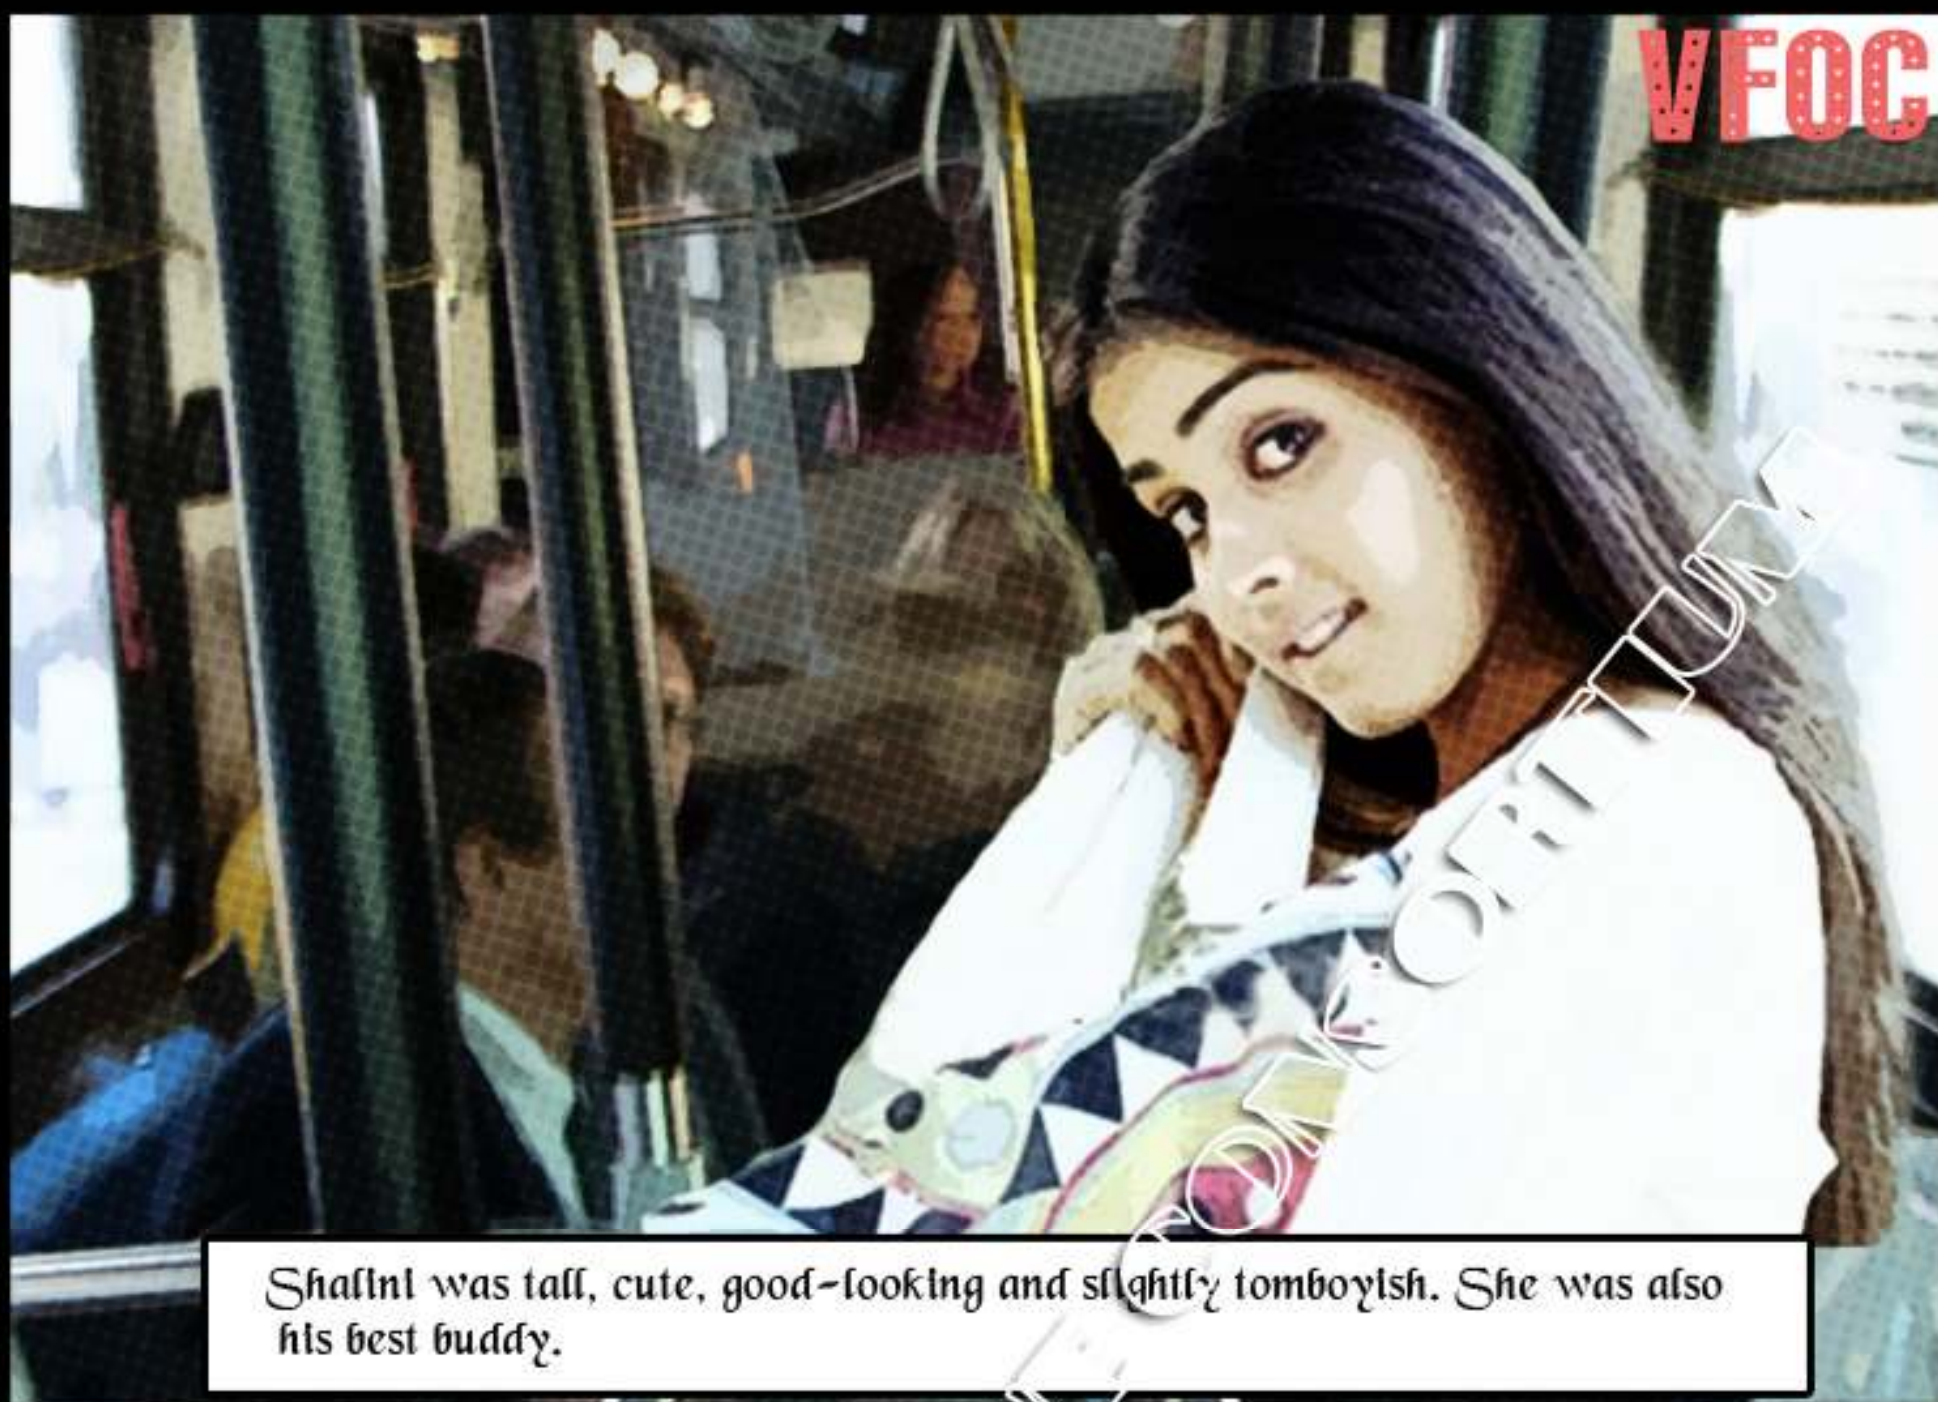

Unfortunately, he was woken up by a punch in the arm. "Wake up, bozo!" She was looking at him with a big smile on her face. "I'm not sitting next to you to listen to you snore."

Half-heartedly, he opened his eyes and turned to her. "What's up Shashini?" Sachin asked.

VFOC

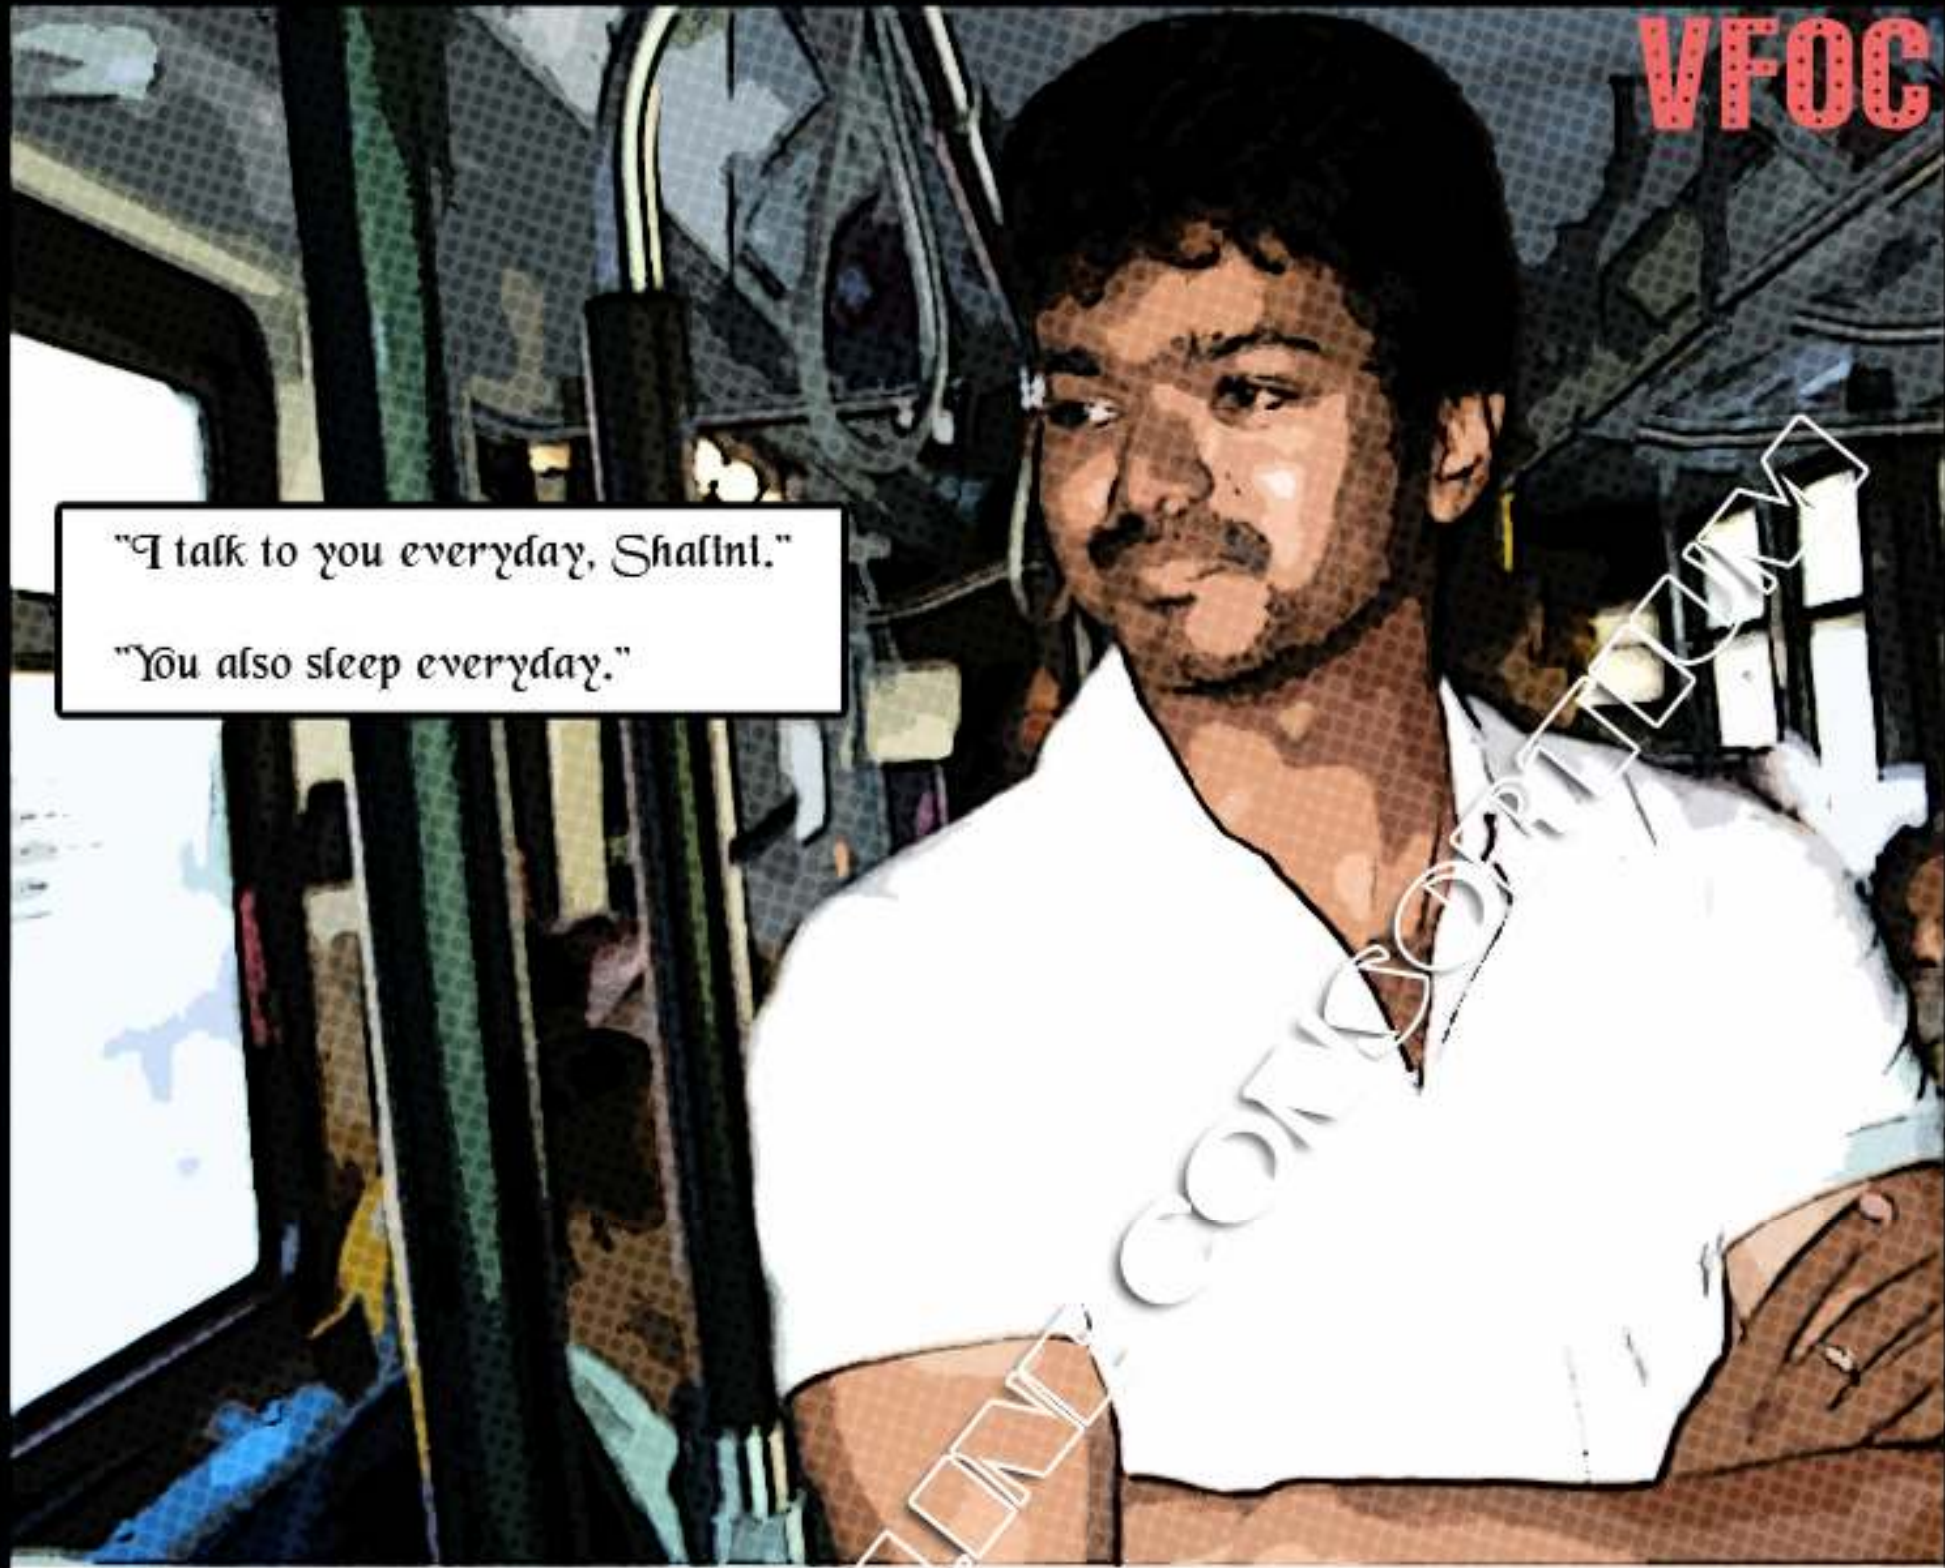

Shafni was tall, cute, good-looking and slightly tomboyish. She was also his best buddy.

"Come on," she said. "Don't look so disappointed. You'd rather sleep than talk to me?"

VFOC

"I talk to you everyday, Shalini."

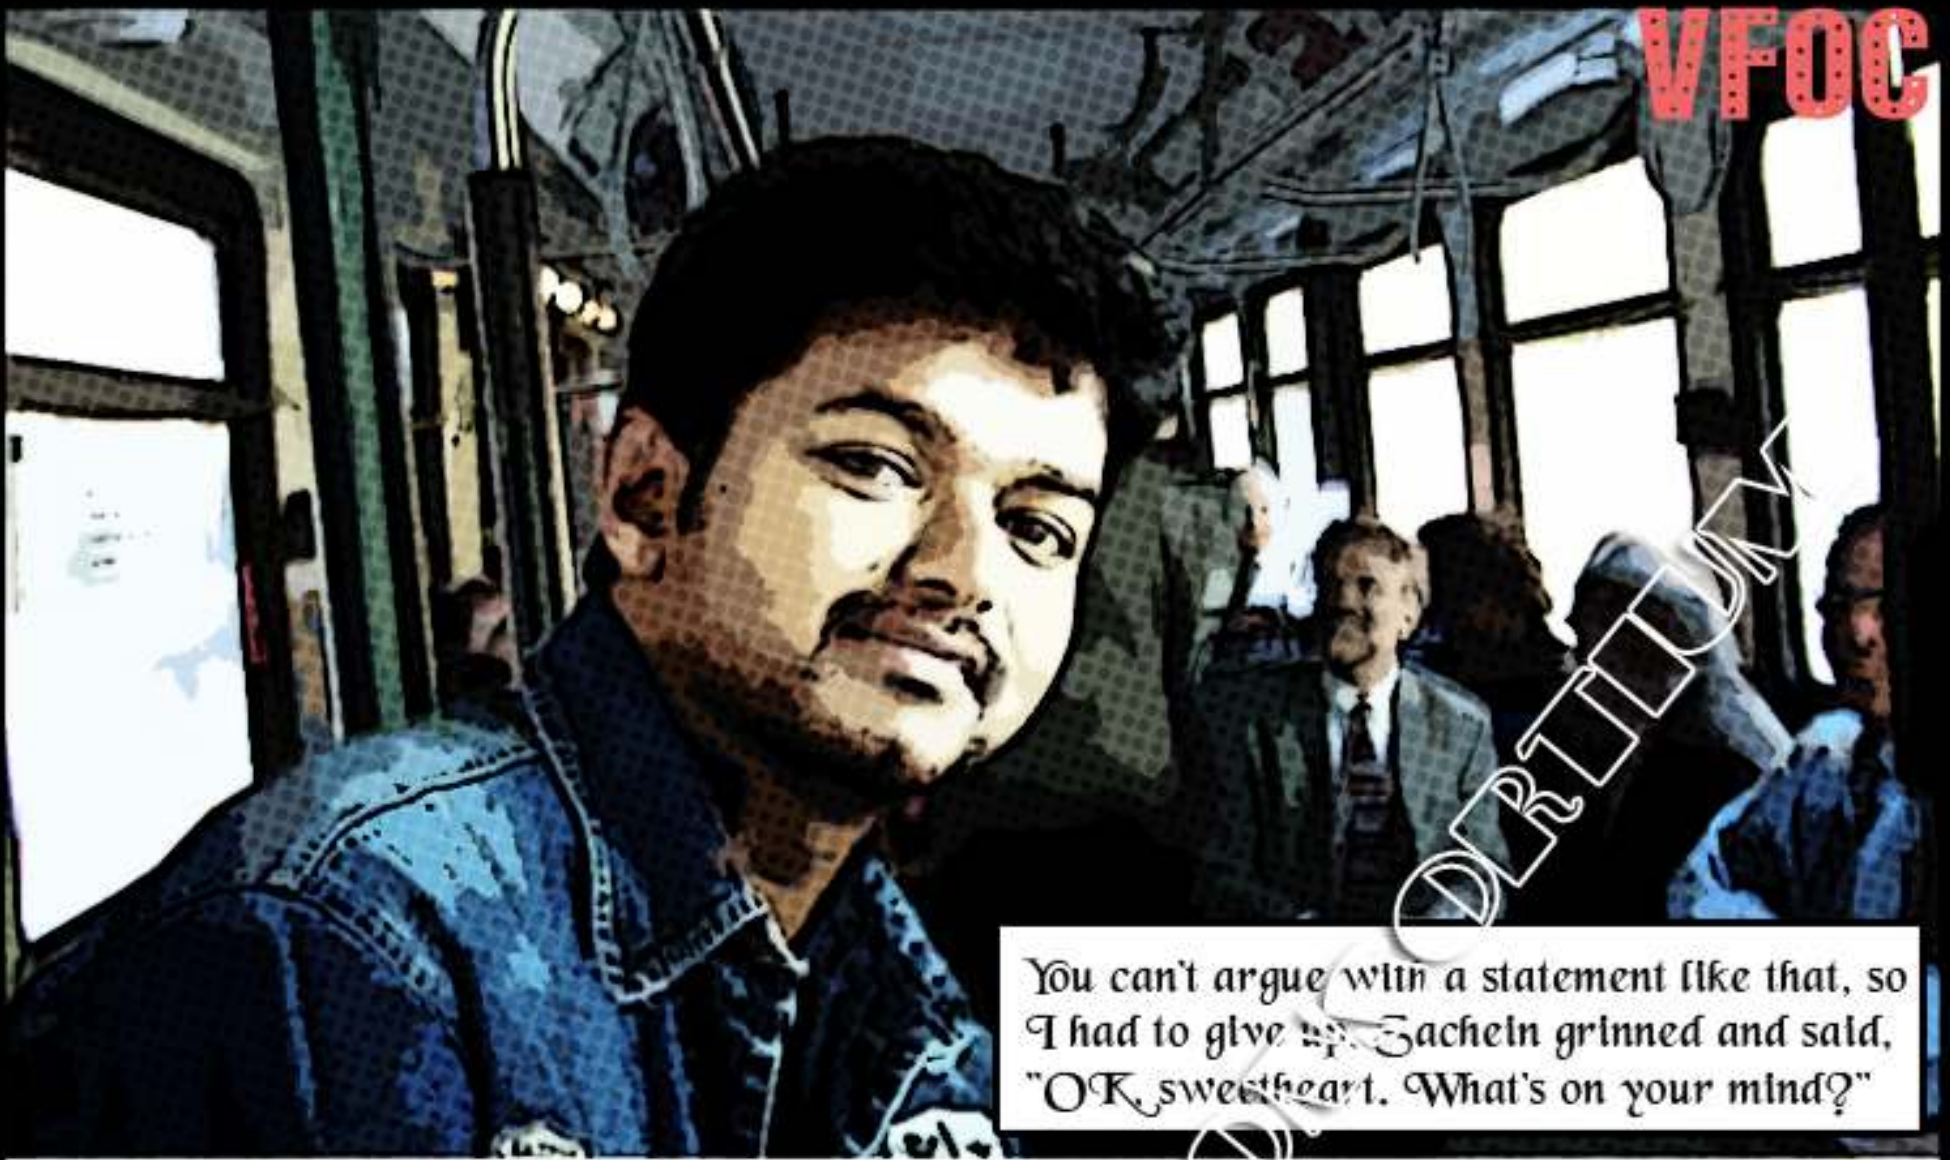

"You also sleep everyday."

"It's not enough."

"So you've had enough of talking to me, eh?"

VFOC

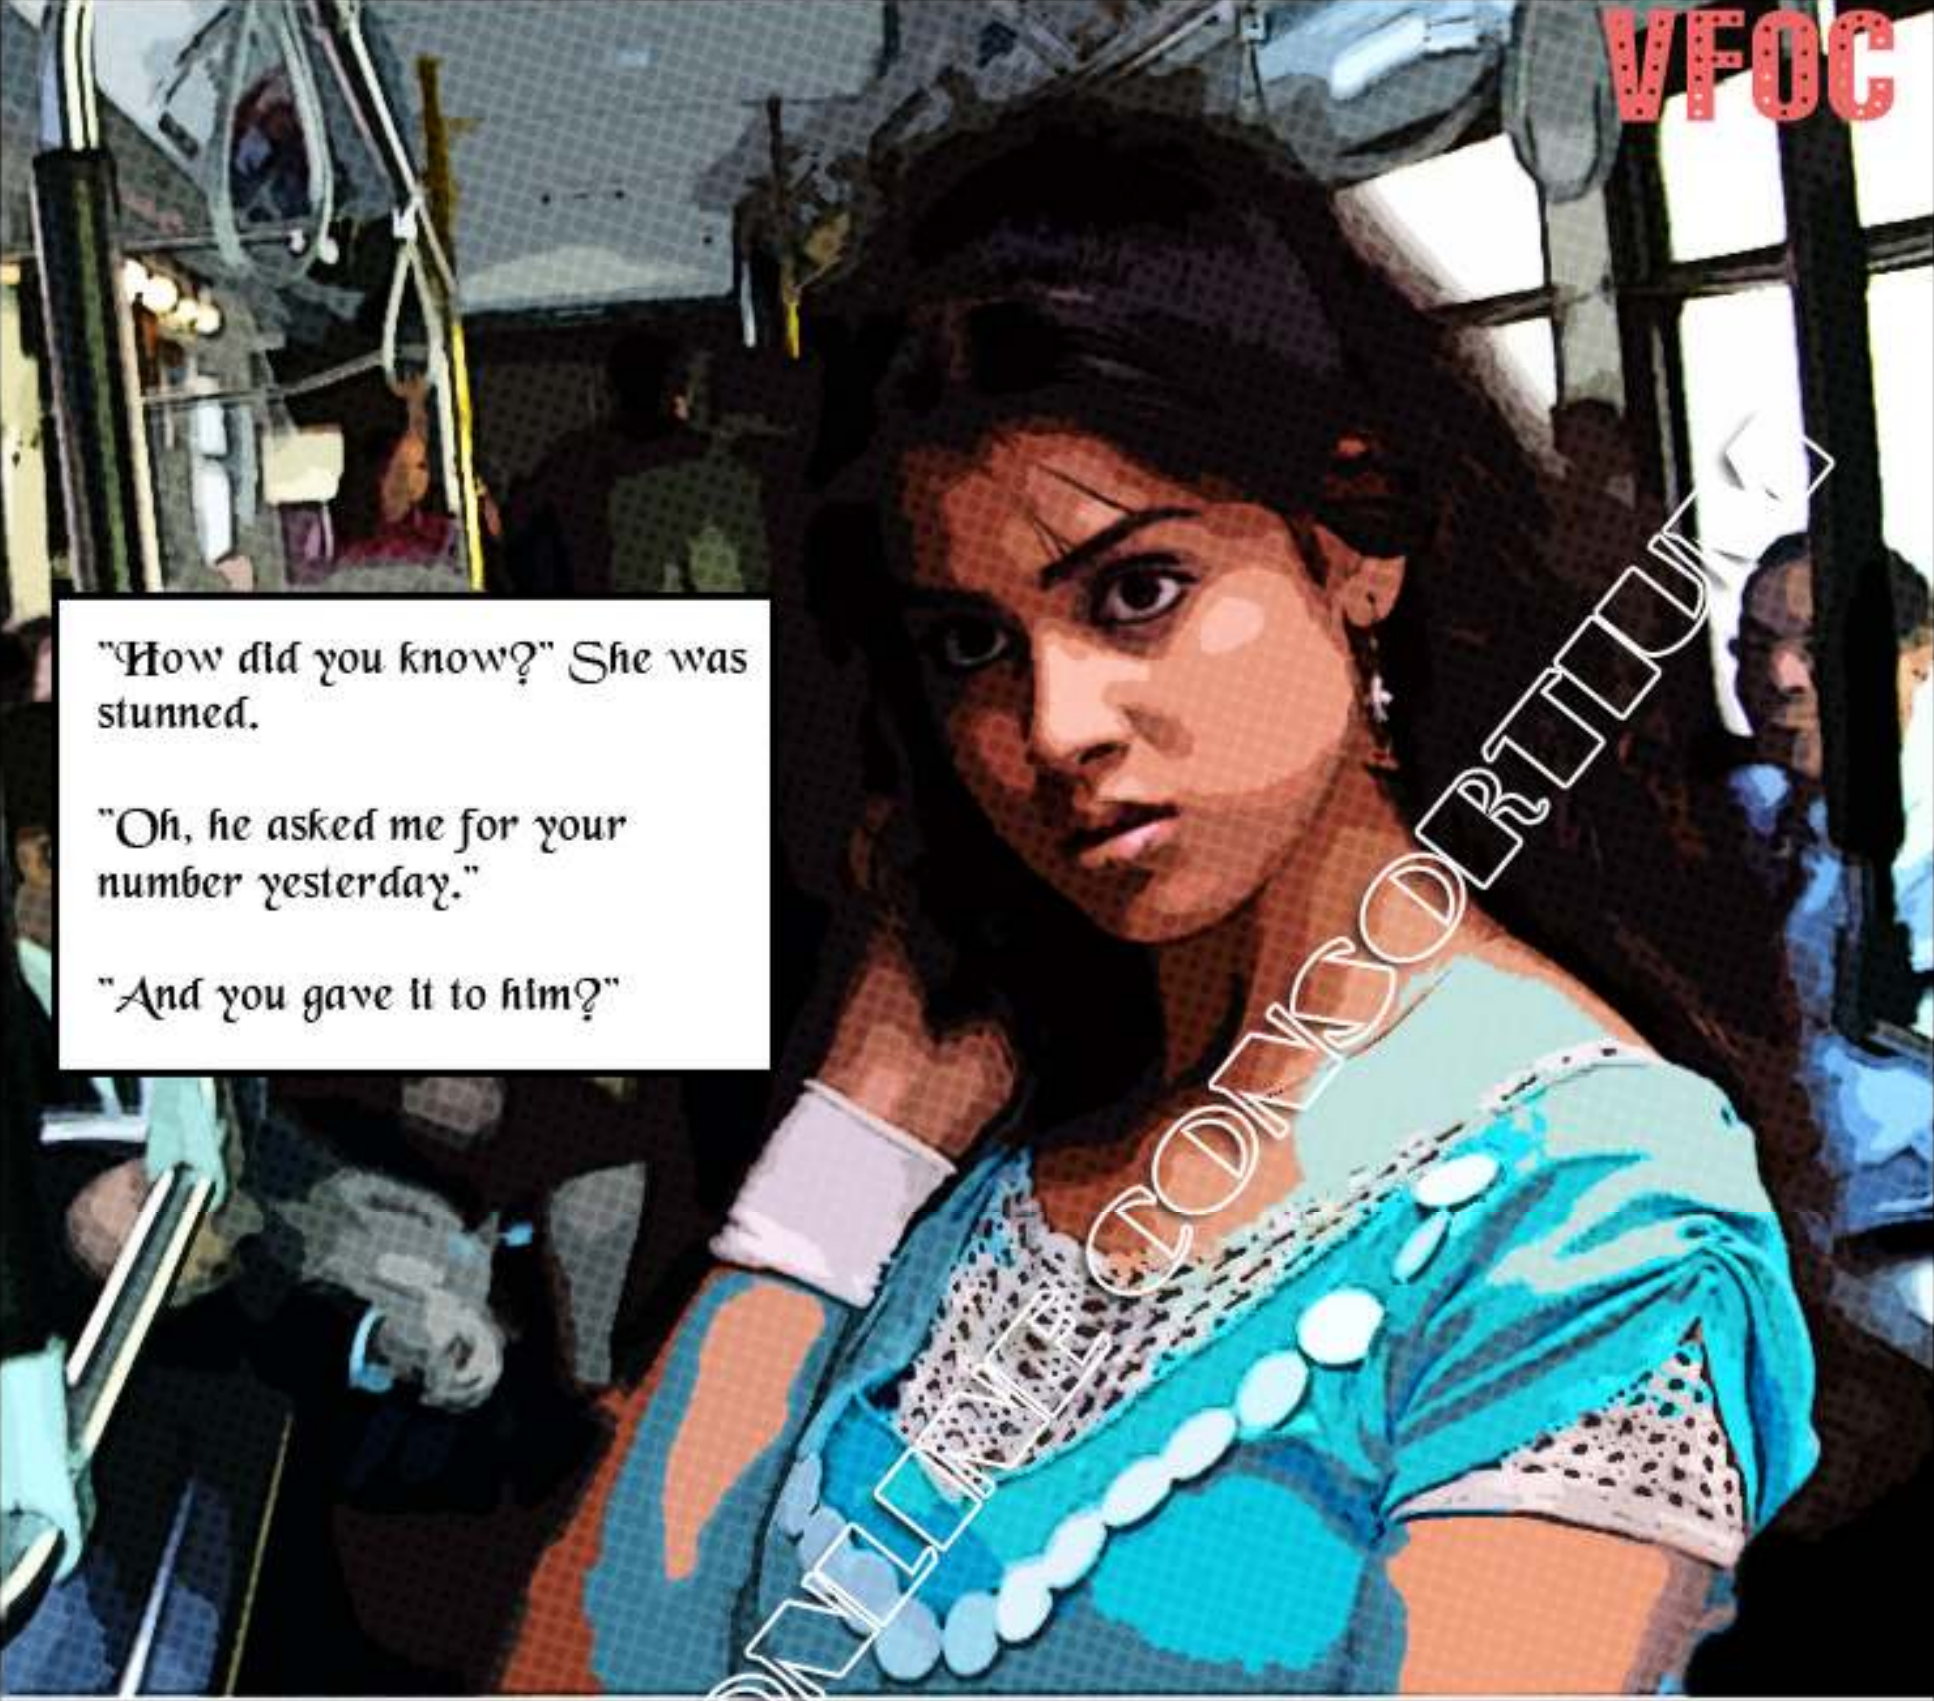

You can't argue with a statement like that, so I had to give up. Sachin grinned and said, "OK, sweetheart. What's on your mind?"

"I wanted to tell you what happened yesterday. Can you guess?"

"Aynash called you last night."

VFOC

"How did you know?" She was stunned.

"Oh, he asked me for your number yesterday."

"And you gave it to him?"

"What else could I do? And stop complaining. You've been dressing over him for weeks now. He must have thought he had a chance."

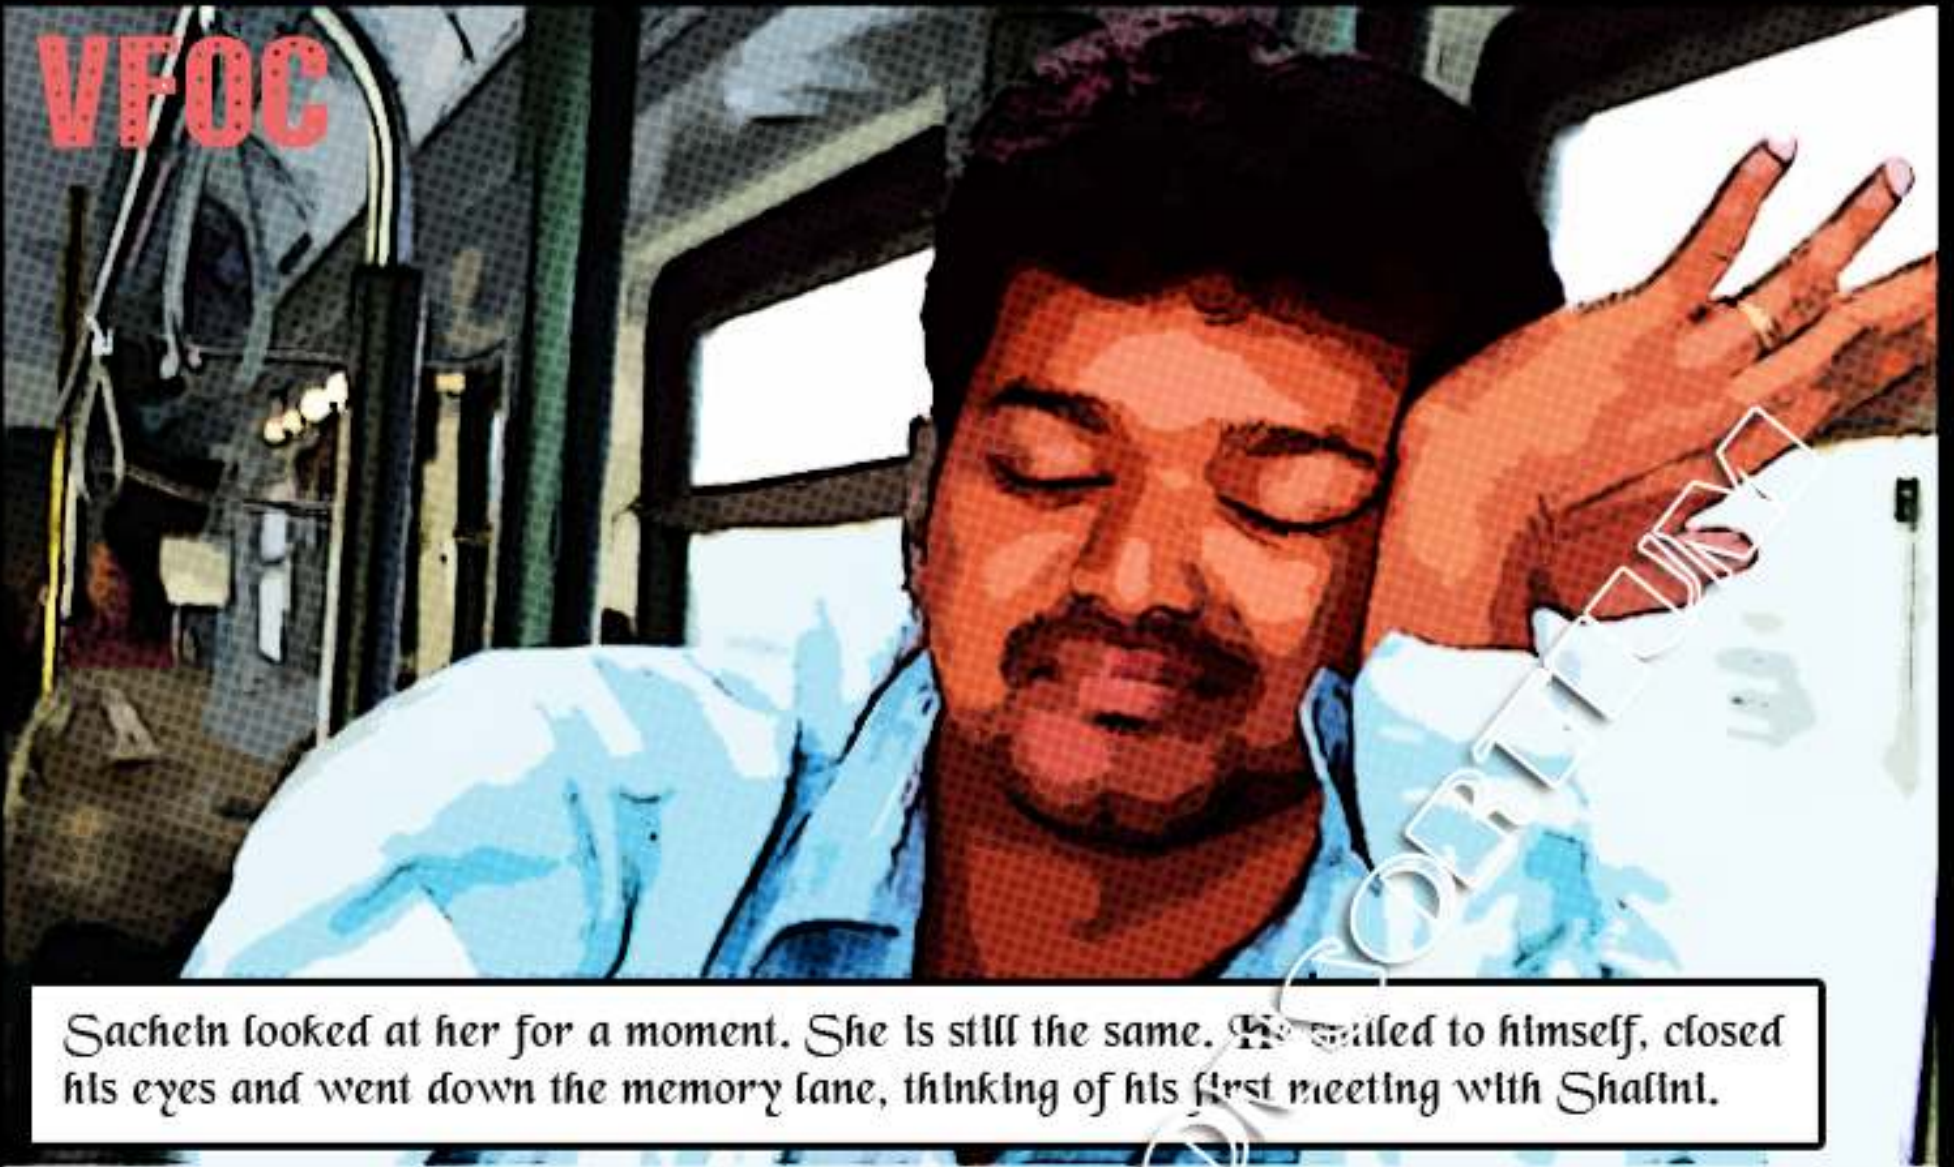

VFOC

Shalini was the kind of girl who would openly ogle at every other guy she saw. And yet, she would not respond to any advances of a romantic nature.

"You like putting me in these situations, don't you?" she said.

"No. That's not true. I love putting you in these situations!" That invited another punch in the arm.

As Shalini got busy with her iPod, "

Sachin looked at her for a moment. She is still the same. He smiled to himself, closed his eyes and went down the memory lane, thinking of his first meeting with Shalini.

Sachin, the cool and fun loving guy, had got newly transferred from Chennai branch of his company to Bangalore

He lived in a simple colony close to office occupied by families and bachelors. He was a good friend for kids in neighborhood too.

One Sunday, Sachin took his bike out for a ride; bike failed to start, so he took his cycle and started moving around enjoying the misty weather.

But his usual way was blocked by traffic, by minister's visit, construction work et al, so he finally had to drive through the flower market...

Just then it started raining...Sachin parked his cycle and took shelter in a shop for rain

VFOC

In the opposite rose shop amidst bunches of flowers a red rose enters... Its Shalini, who also took shelter there for rain...

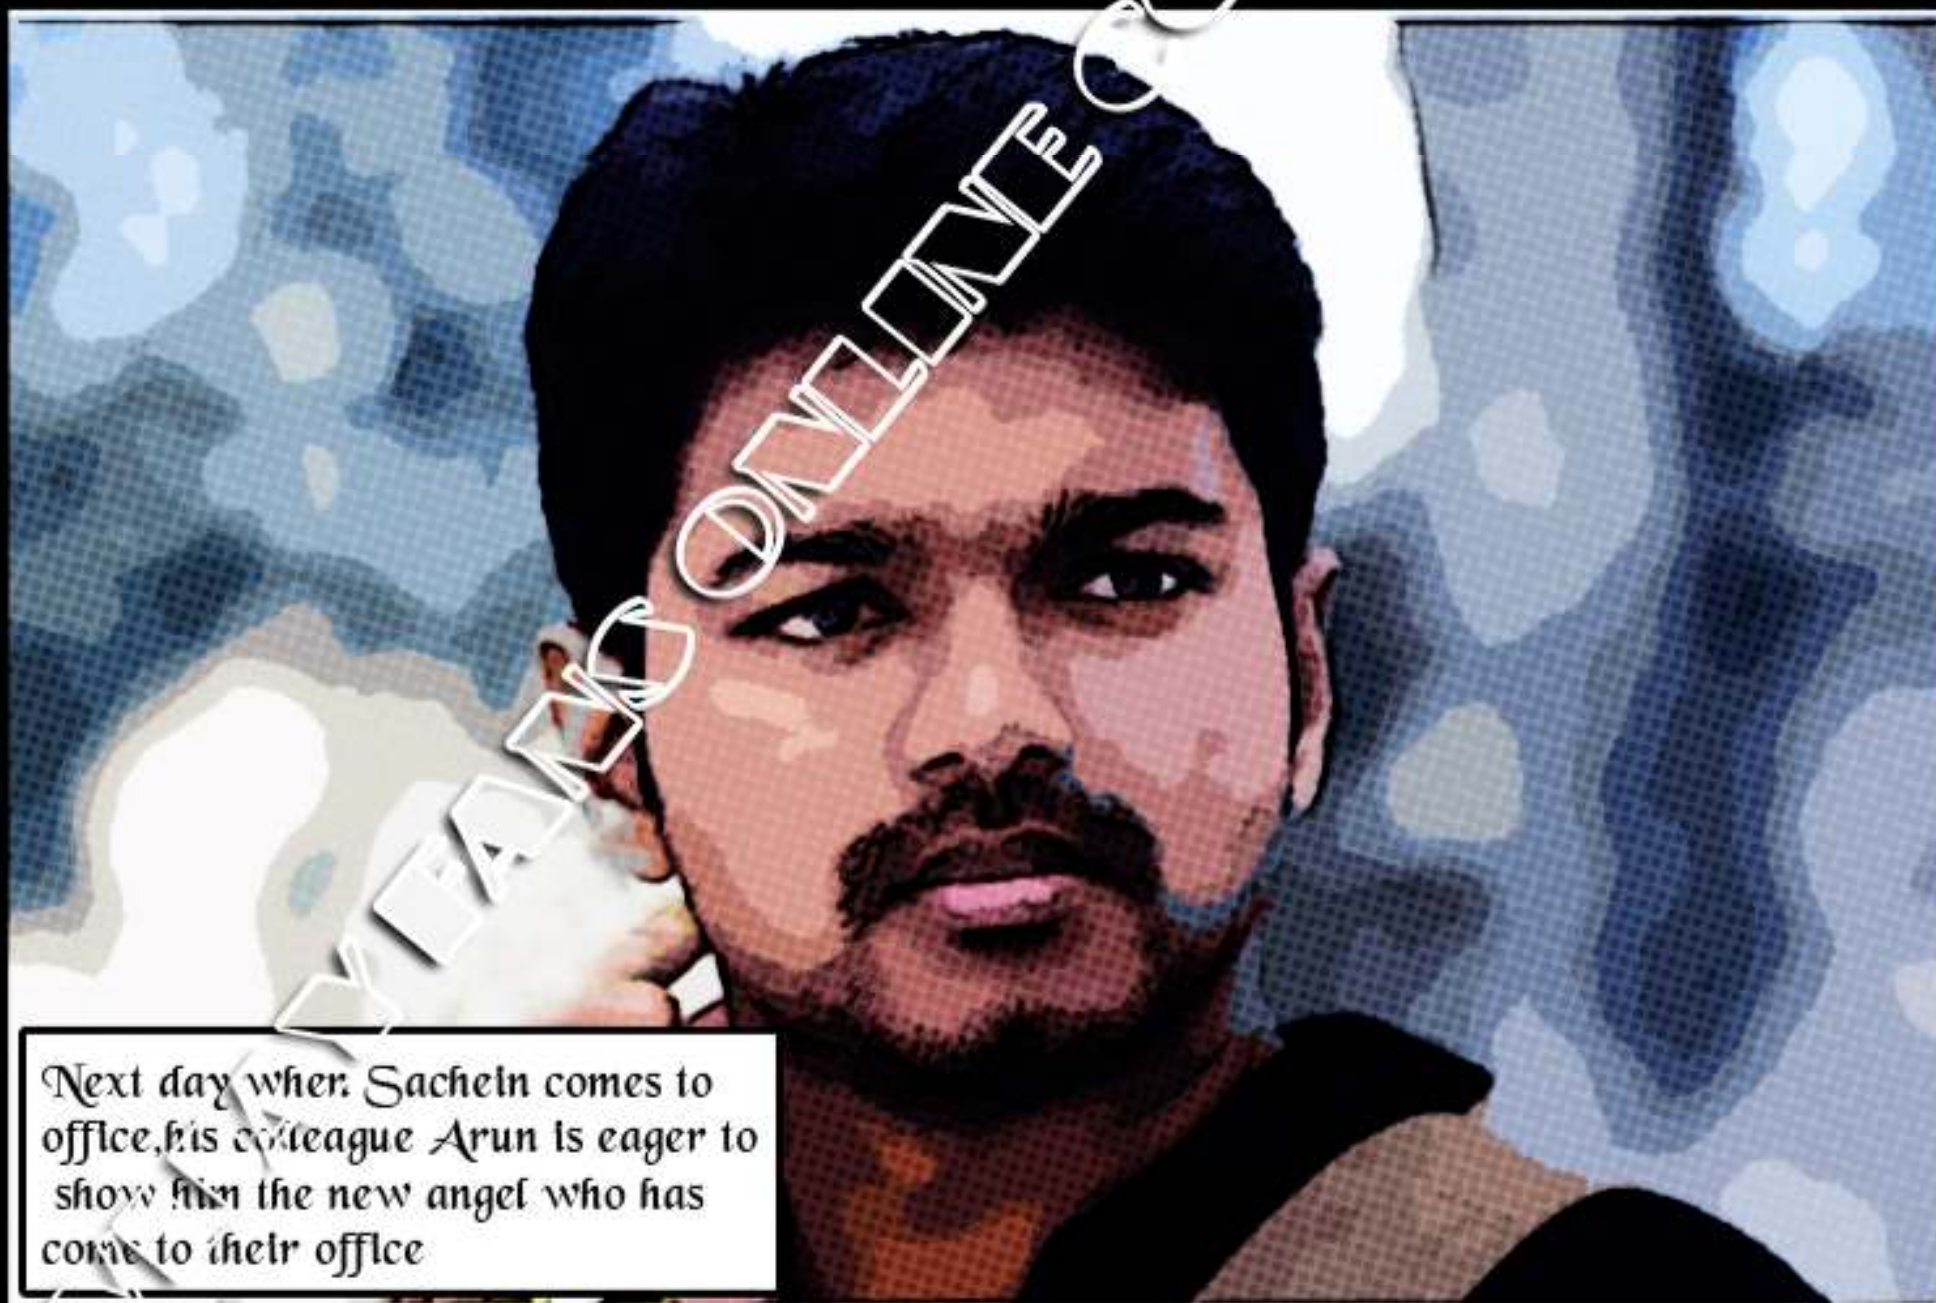

Sachin was stunned by her, .

wondering if all traffic diversions and rain had brought him here to see her. It was love at first sight for him.

VFOC

It was love at first sight for him.

Next day when Sachin comes to office, his colleague Arun is eager to show him the new angel who has come to their office

"She won the dream girl contest in the corporate fashion show last week" he said and pestered Sachin to come with him

When Sachin was refusing his offer saying excuses, he set his eyes on the same angel he saw in flower market the previous day. He rushed towards her to introduce himself.

VFOG

His friend Arun seeing him go to her, came in between and said "Sachin, meet our office angel Shalini"

Surprised for a moment, Sachin quickly recovered and said, "Is she the girl you mentioned? What is there in her that you gave such a huge build up?"

VFOC

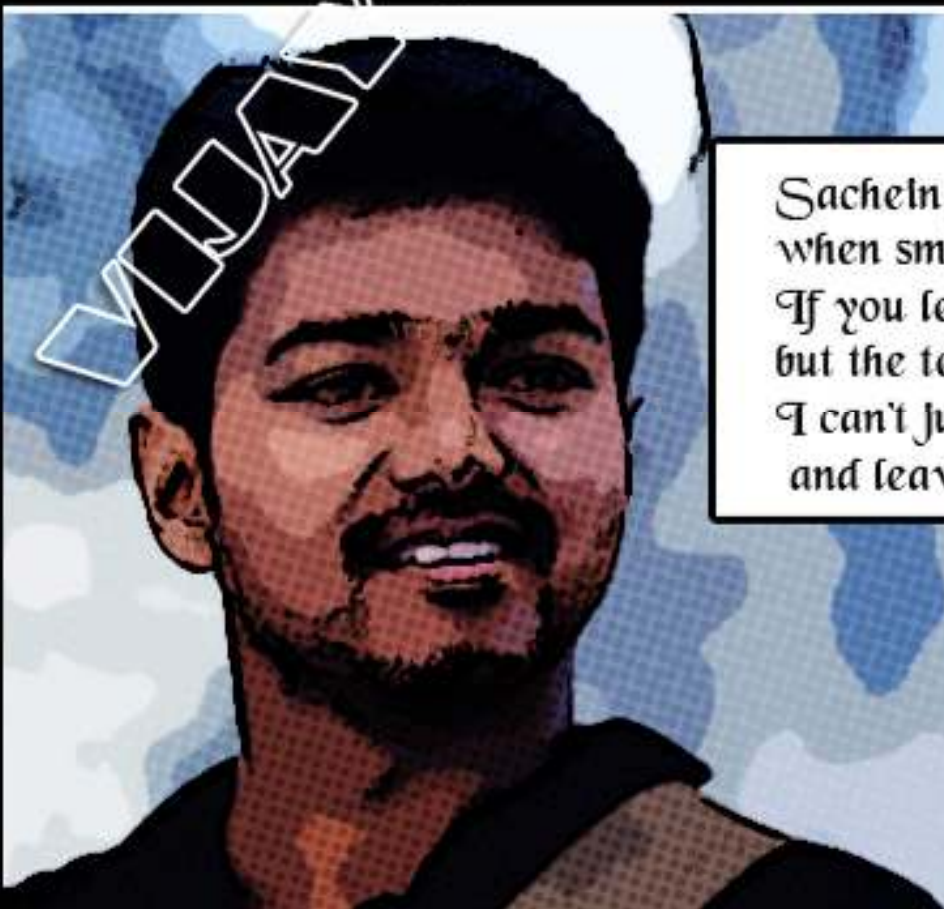

Arun, who did not expect this, was also shocked.

Shafni, who was beaming with pride till then, was startled for a moment Sachin continued saying "Ok.. Eyes are beautiful when smiling, lips are like rose buds...

If you let me watch, I will watch for the whole day, but the term office angel is just too much for her...
I can't just understand what makes you drool for her" and leaves the place.

VFOC

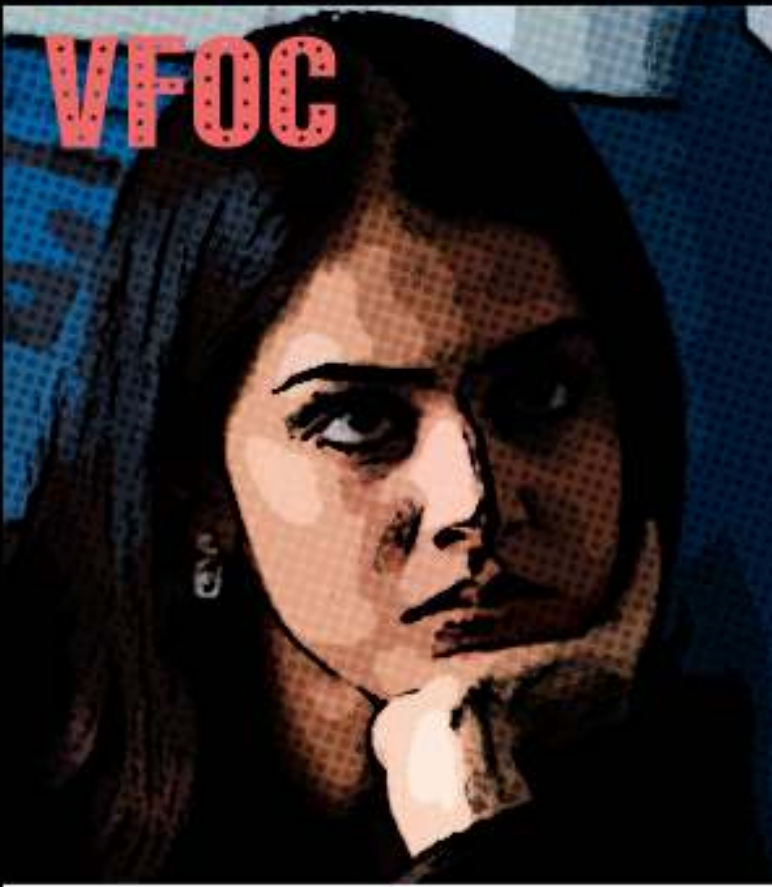

Totally upset and full of fury Shalini reached home that day totally upset and started yelling at her parents. Knowing her temper, her parents were amused that she has drawn yet another fight that day.

Seeing that her parents were not reacting to her cries, she went inside her room and threw away her bag.

She said to herself standing in front of the mirror, "Am I just okay? Please!!! But still you will watch me for the whole day? A smile for everything, I hate you, I hate your smile"

VFOC

Days passed by and Sachin kept meeting

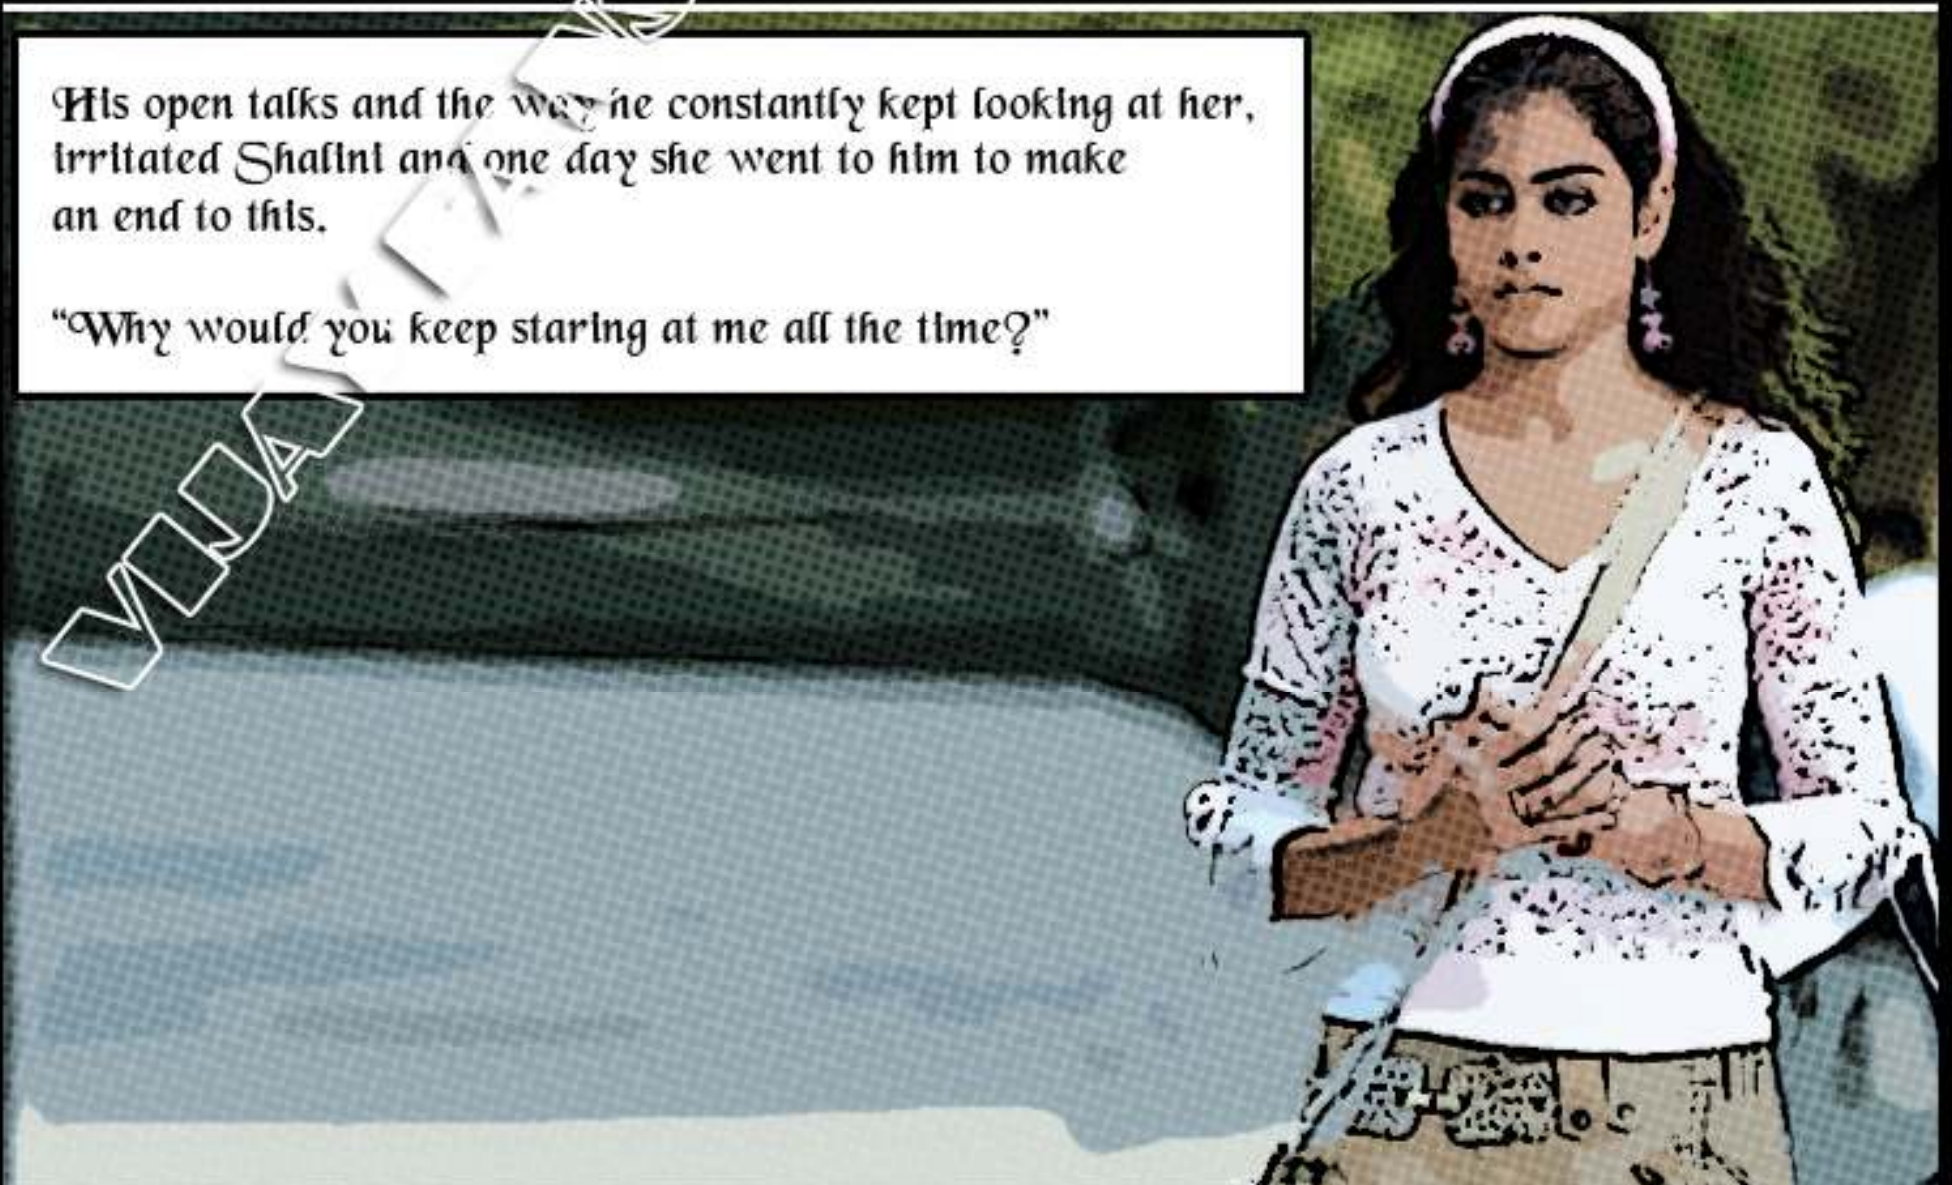

Shalini during breaks since they worked in the same building and in the same floor.

His open talks and the way he constantly kept looking at her, irritated Shalini and one day she went to him to make an end to this.

"Why would you keep staring at me all the time?"

VFOC

"You have any problem?
Did I come to you and tell anything or do any mischief?
I love to see cute things and I love your cute actions."

"But I don't like you doing that"

"Ok, If you do not want me to stare at you, better wear a veil and come to office"

Shalini was again full of anger and walks away from the place.

Next day, Shalini was having her coffee when Sachin came over to her.

"Now what?" she asked disinterestedly.

VFOC

"Your father had an accident and is in the hospital"

"Then?"

"Aren't you worried? You father had an accident damn it!".

"And you understand that I don't give a damn for your fake stories. You would take me out now and then ask me for a coffee, and then..."

Sachin gestured her to stop talking.

"Ha... As if you are Mouna Ragam Revathy and I am calling you for a date to say I love you! You girls... Go and see your father if you don't trust me, why should I be bothered?" and he walked away to his place

VFOC

Shalini was still not ready to believe his words. In the afternoon, she received a call from home and her mom said that her father had a minor bike accident and was admitted in hospital by her colleague Sachin and asked her to thank him.

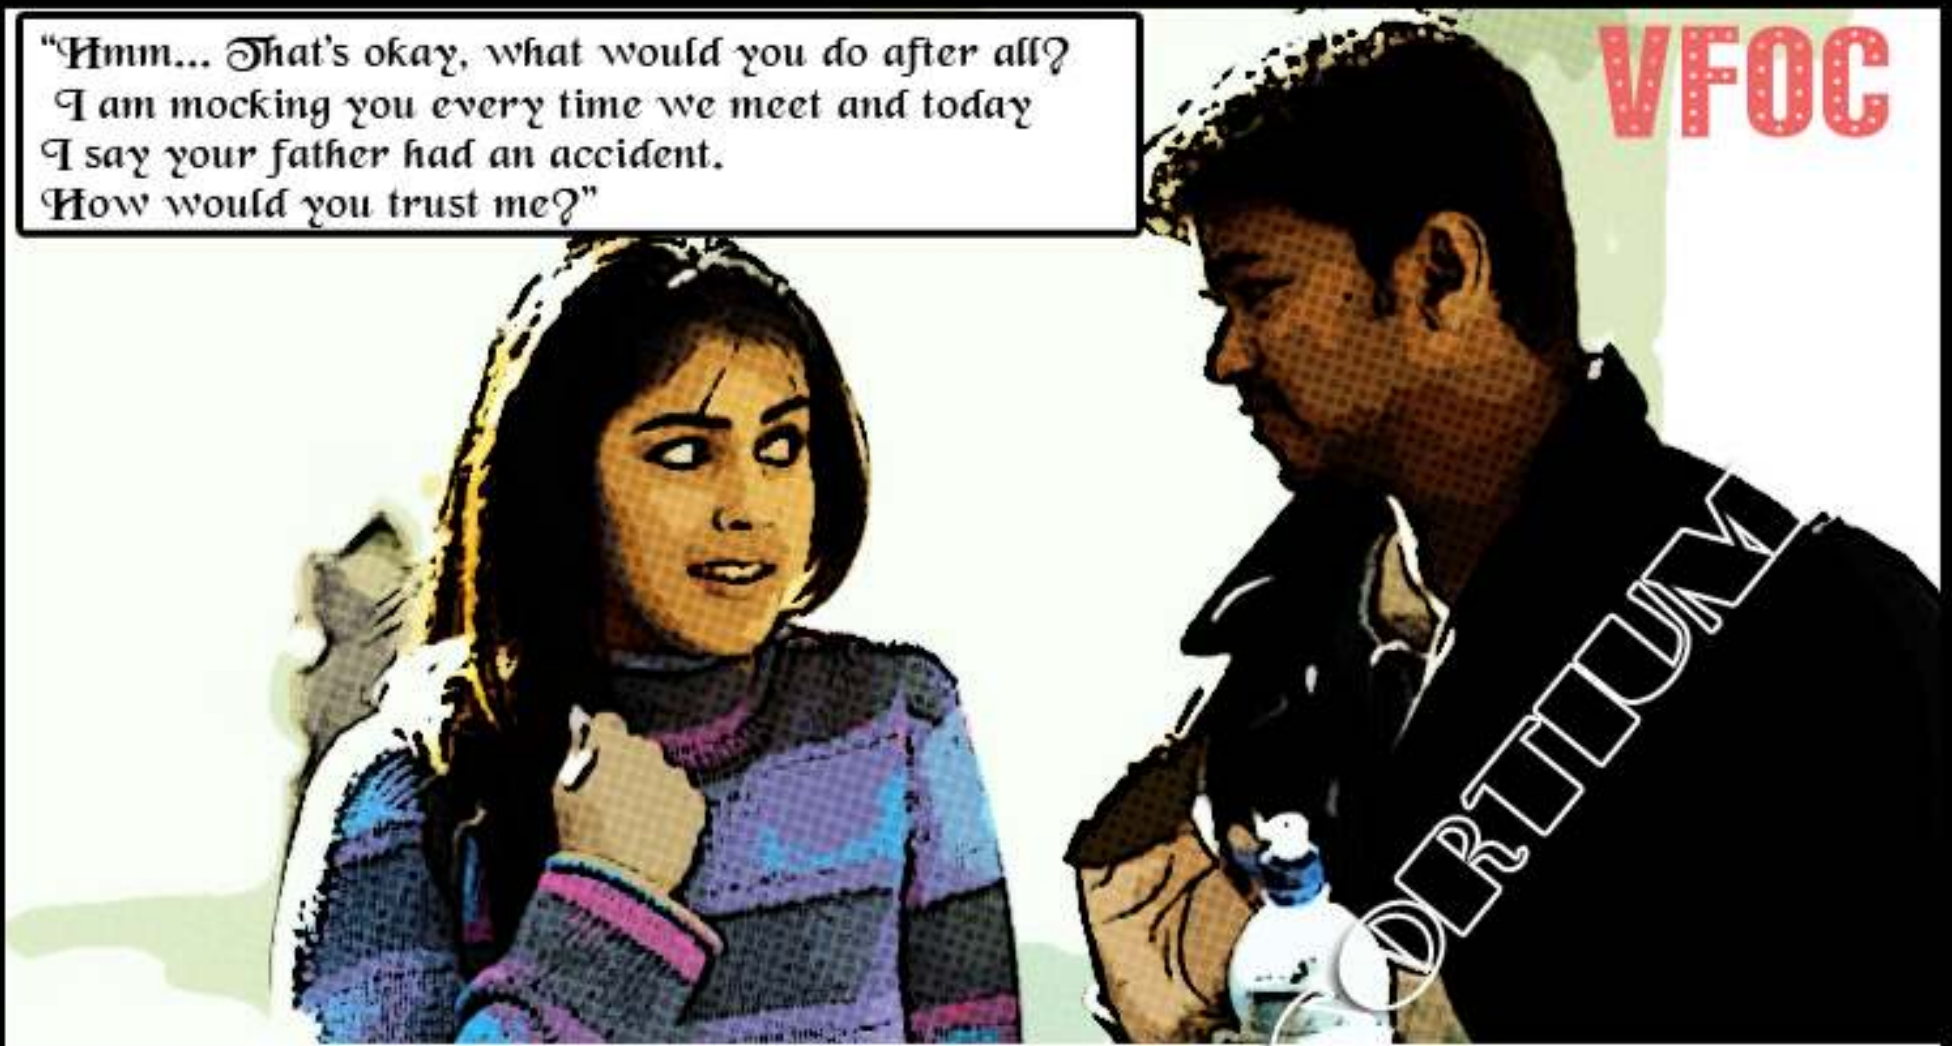

Shalini ran across the office to find Sachin, and met him at the lawn.

"Thanks Sachin, thank you so much! And sorry, I had hurt you in the morning"

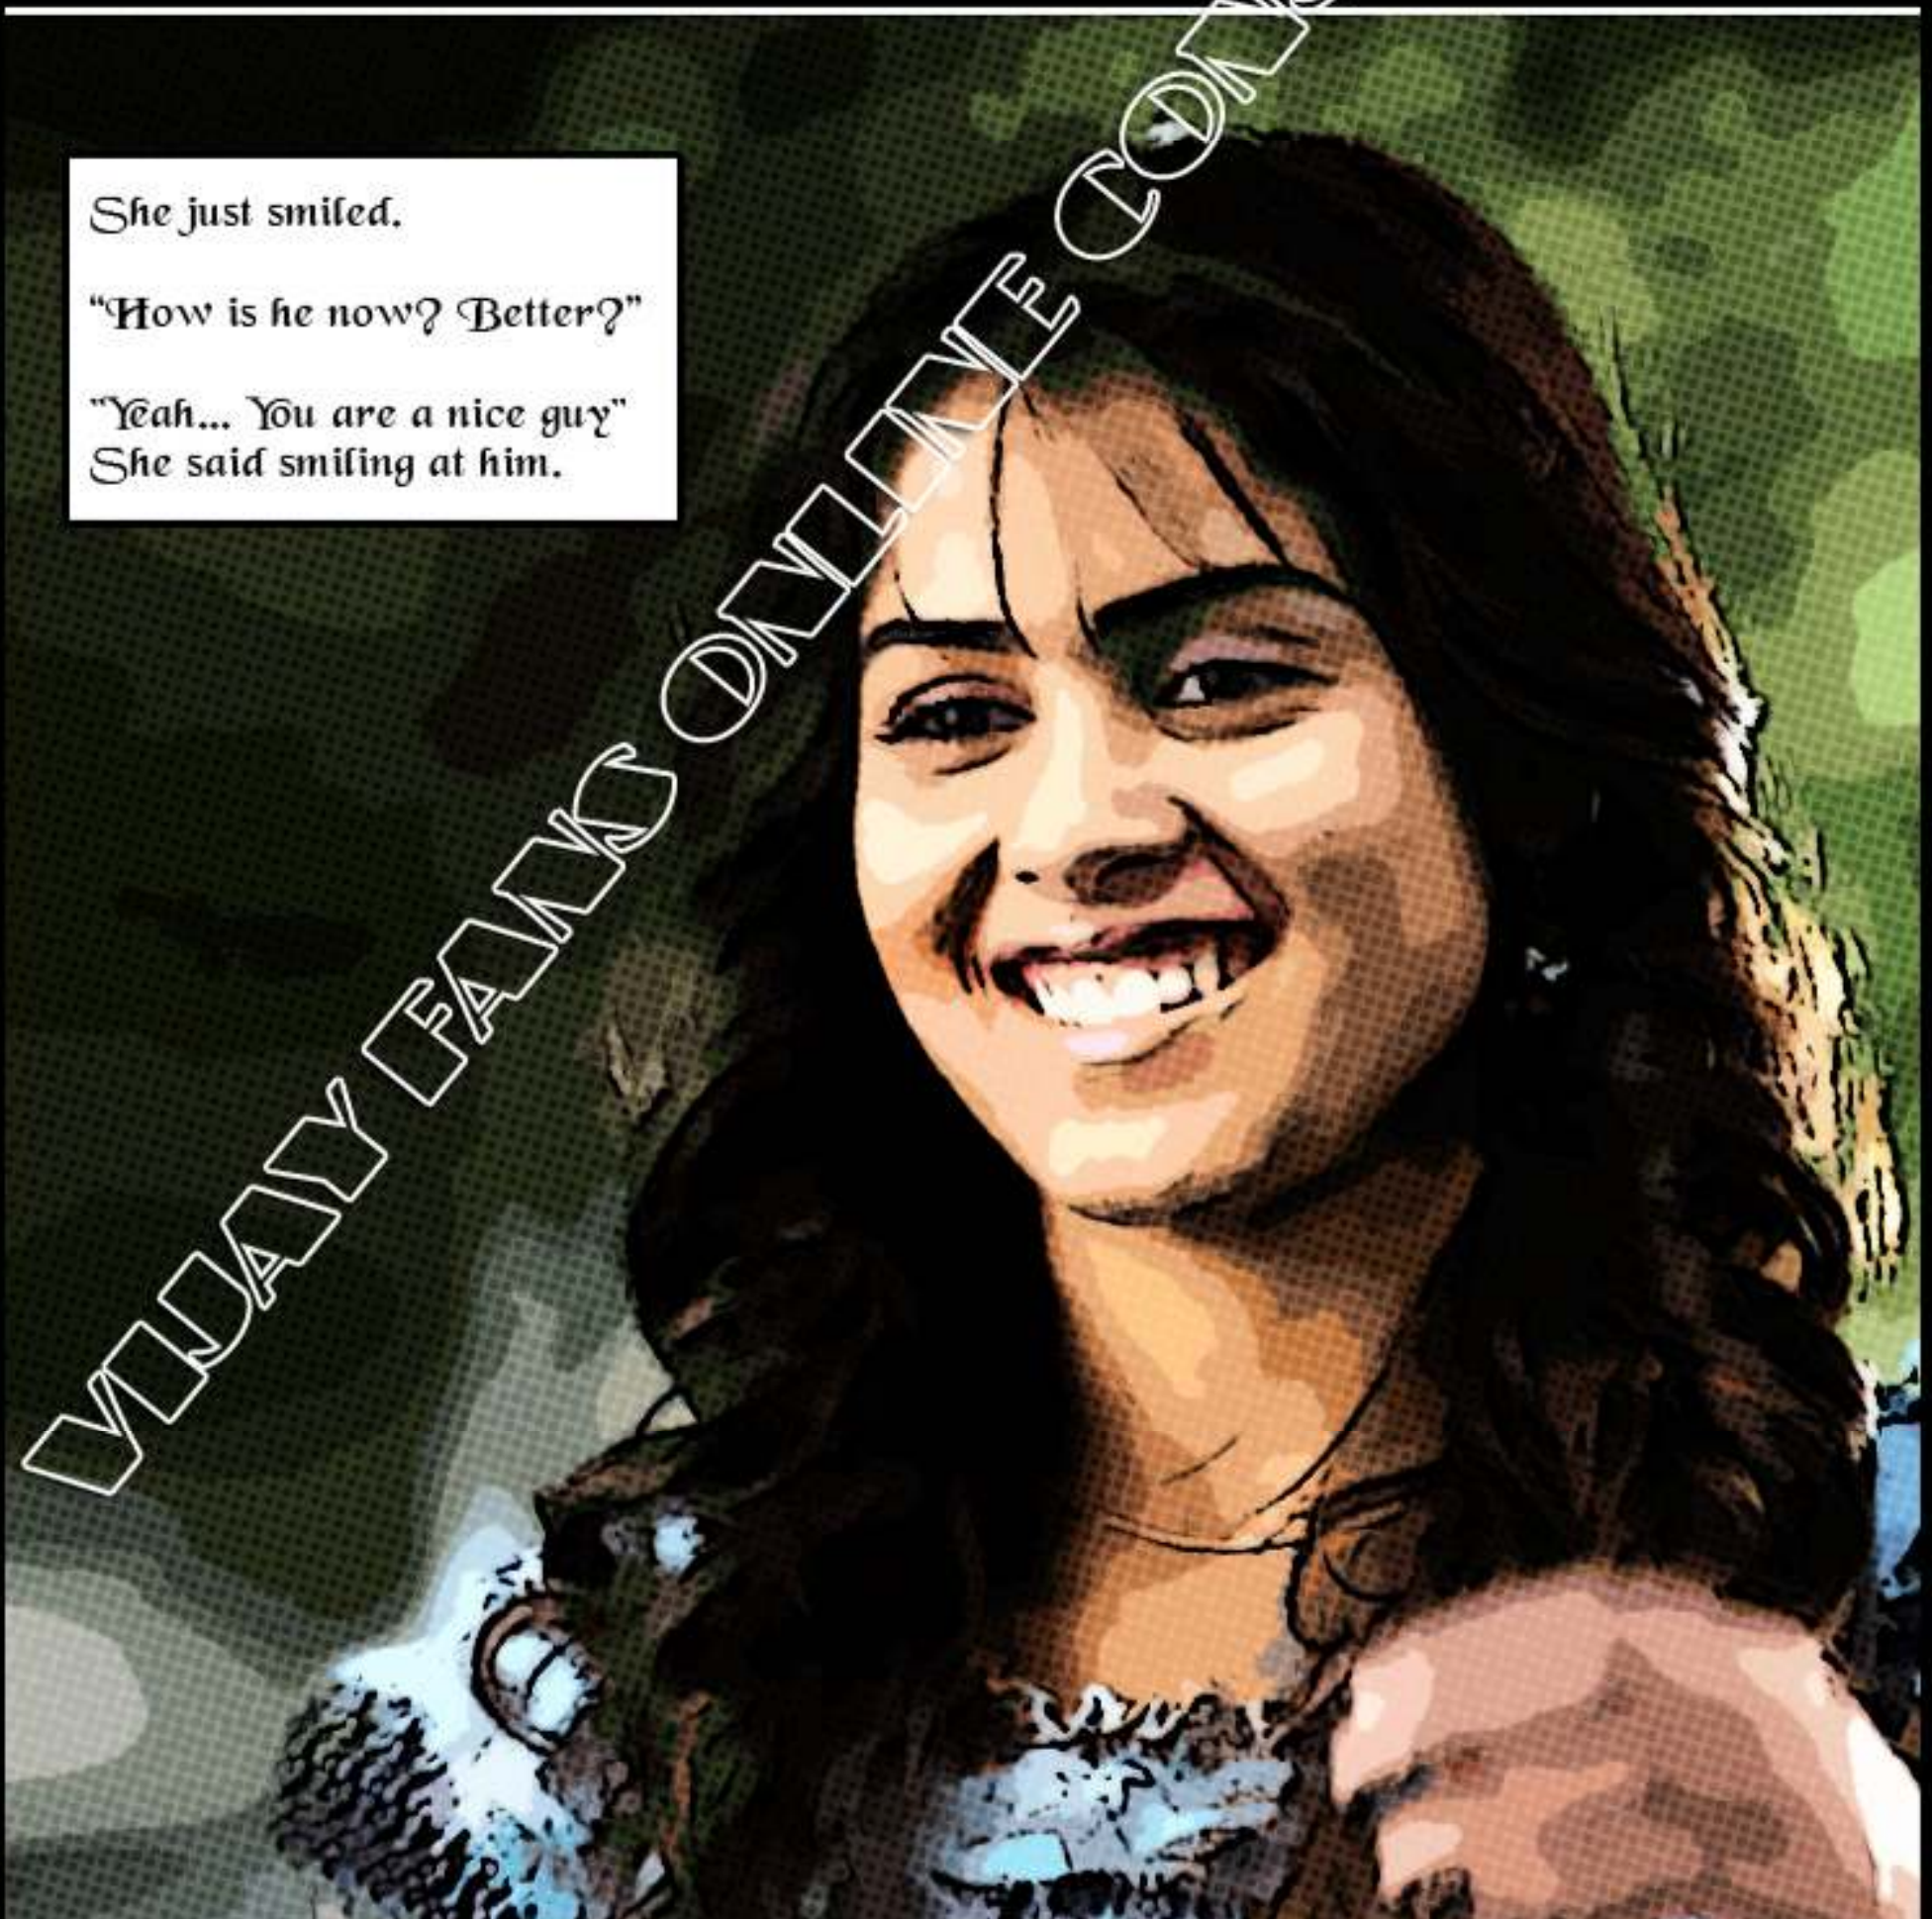

"Hmm... That's okay, what would you do after all?
I am mocking you every time we meet and today
I say your father had an accident.
How would you trust me?"

VFOC

She just smiled.

"How is he now? Better?"

"Yeah... You are a nice guy"
She said smiling at him.

VFOC

"Hmmm... or just acting like a nice guy?".

She laughs.

"By the way
I am Sachin..."

"I am Shalini..."

"Oh Shalini... The office angel"

She blushes and says "Shut up!"

"The dream girl Shalini!"

"Shut up!"
she couldn't stop smiling.

"Oh that smile,
when u smile..."

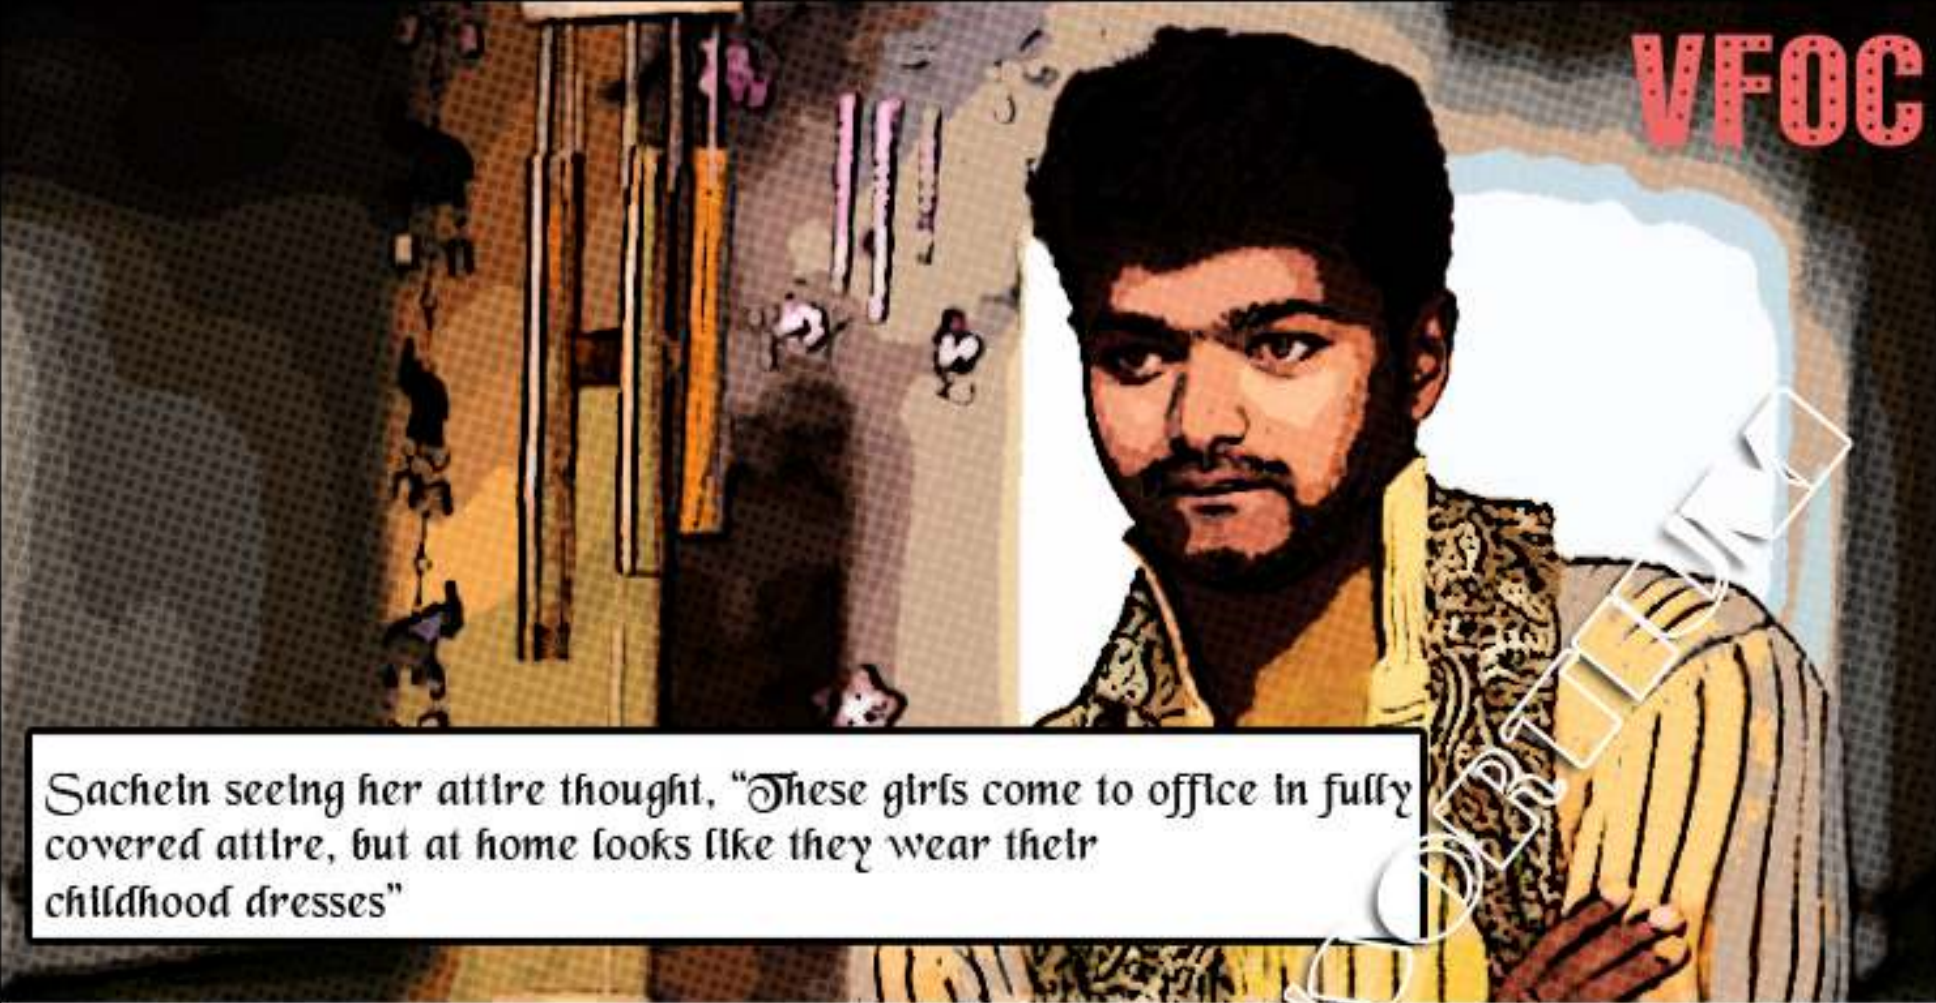

"Enough Sachin, bye!" she smiles and walks away.

VFOC

After this formal introduction for fun they become friends. She invited him home on Sunday for a lunch

That Sunday when Sachin arrived early for lunch, Shalini's parents were out of home for shopping and Shalini was in her home made facial pack treatment, dancing for Vaseegara song wearing a mini skirt.

VFOC

Sachin seeing her attire thought, "These girls come to office in fully covered attire, but at home looks like they wear their childhood dresses"

He kept watching her dance in a state where she had forgotten everything around her. Suddenly while dancing Shalini made a turn around and saw Sachin.

She screamed at this shocking presence of Sachin, grabbed a towel, wrapped it around her and shouted "Get out, now"

VFOC

Sachin said "No I won't, you only invited me for lunch"

"For that... er... When did you come in?"

COMICBOOKS

"When you were shaking your hip few minutes back. By the way, couldn't get to see much of your dance since you were turned to the other side, can you do it once more for me?"

Shalini was highly irritated and embarrassed and rushed inside to clean up herself. She came back 10 minutes later in a new dress.

VFOC

"Come let's go for lunch", she said. Shalini's parents arrived shortly and after the lunch, Sachin was getting ready to leave.

When he was about to leave Shalini stopped him saying "Just a minute, If you let a word about that Vaseegara incident in office tomorrow, I will kill you Sachin replied "Till now I didn't think about it, just now I am seeing how people would react in office if I tell this scene to them...

"Let's see" and walked away amidst Shalini's hues and cries.

When Shalini entered cafeteria in office the next day, she saw Sachin and a few guys dancing for Vaseegara song. She got highly tensed and gestured everyone to listen to her.

She bursted out saying
 "Hey people, listen now.
 I was dancing for this song yesterday in my home.
 I was wearing a mini skirt...
 I had hair coloring...
 I had facial pack on my face..."

VFOC

"Anything else you wanna know?" Sachin's attempts to control her went in vain.

Her friend seeing her shouting came over and asked

"What's your problem now? We were planning New Year celebrations and Sachin suggested this song for dance. What are you telling about yourself now?"

Sachin looked at Shalini with a mischievous smile. Shalini realizing her blunder was totally embarrassed and asked sorry to Sachin many times. She couldn't just help laughing at herself.

VFOC

Sachin's flashback came to an abrupt end by a punch in his arm once again. "Come on weirdo... Dreaming? Get down, we have reached office".

Now Sachin had known Shallni for a year. They'd tell each other about their joys and sorrows, victories and defeats. He'd tell her about all his crushes and she'd scold him for being silly

She'd drag him to classical music concerts and he'd add them to the list of things she 'owed him' for. And though he never let it show, he always felt that she punched pretty hard.

VFOC

Sachein's love at first sight has grown over him like anything that he cannot imagine a day in his life without Shalini.
But he wouldn't tell it to her because he knew her well.

She'd happily join a group of boys to go to a cricket match, but if asked out to a movie, dinner, or even coffee, she'd never say yes. She defined
'Hard-To-Get'.

VFOC

It was 12:00 am and Sachin's phone was ringing. "Hello," Sachin said, as he picked it up.

"Happy Birthday!"
It was her.

"You're supposed to throw me a surprise party, sweetheart. Not just call to say Happy Birthday."

"Well then open your door, dumbo!"

So he did and found her, cake in hand, at his doorstep -- with what seemed like half the population of his company.

His roommates were supposed to be working late that night. Now he knew why.

SACHIN

VFOC

He blew a lot of candles (seemed like much more than 25), cut his cake, got kicked in the behind, and got painted with the cake's icing. If Shalini had had her way, she'd probably have preferred to use a paintbrush and a can of paint.

But he had bribed her with a promise to get a copy of the book "Lord of the Rings". She'd borrowed it from him three times already. I thought it was about time he gifted a copy for herself.

VFOC

Sachin and Shalini chatted for an hour after everyone had gone. "I think it's time I left," she said finally, trying to stifle a yawn.

He nodded and dropped her home in his bike. As she was getting down, he stopped her "

"Hey, Shalini."

"What?"

"Thanks."

VFOC

"Hey, don't get senti on me now!" she smiled. "Are you trying to worm out of that gift you promised me?"

"You know, it's interesting how I'm getting you a gift on my birthday."

"That's just because you're stupid," she grinned. "And you better get me that book, or I won't return your copy."

"Hey, that copy was a gift to me from my dear friend Shakti. I can't let you keep that."

She wasn't falling for that. "Your dear friend? And what about me? Am I not dear to you?"

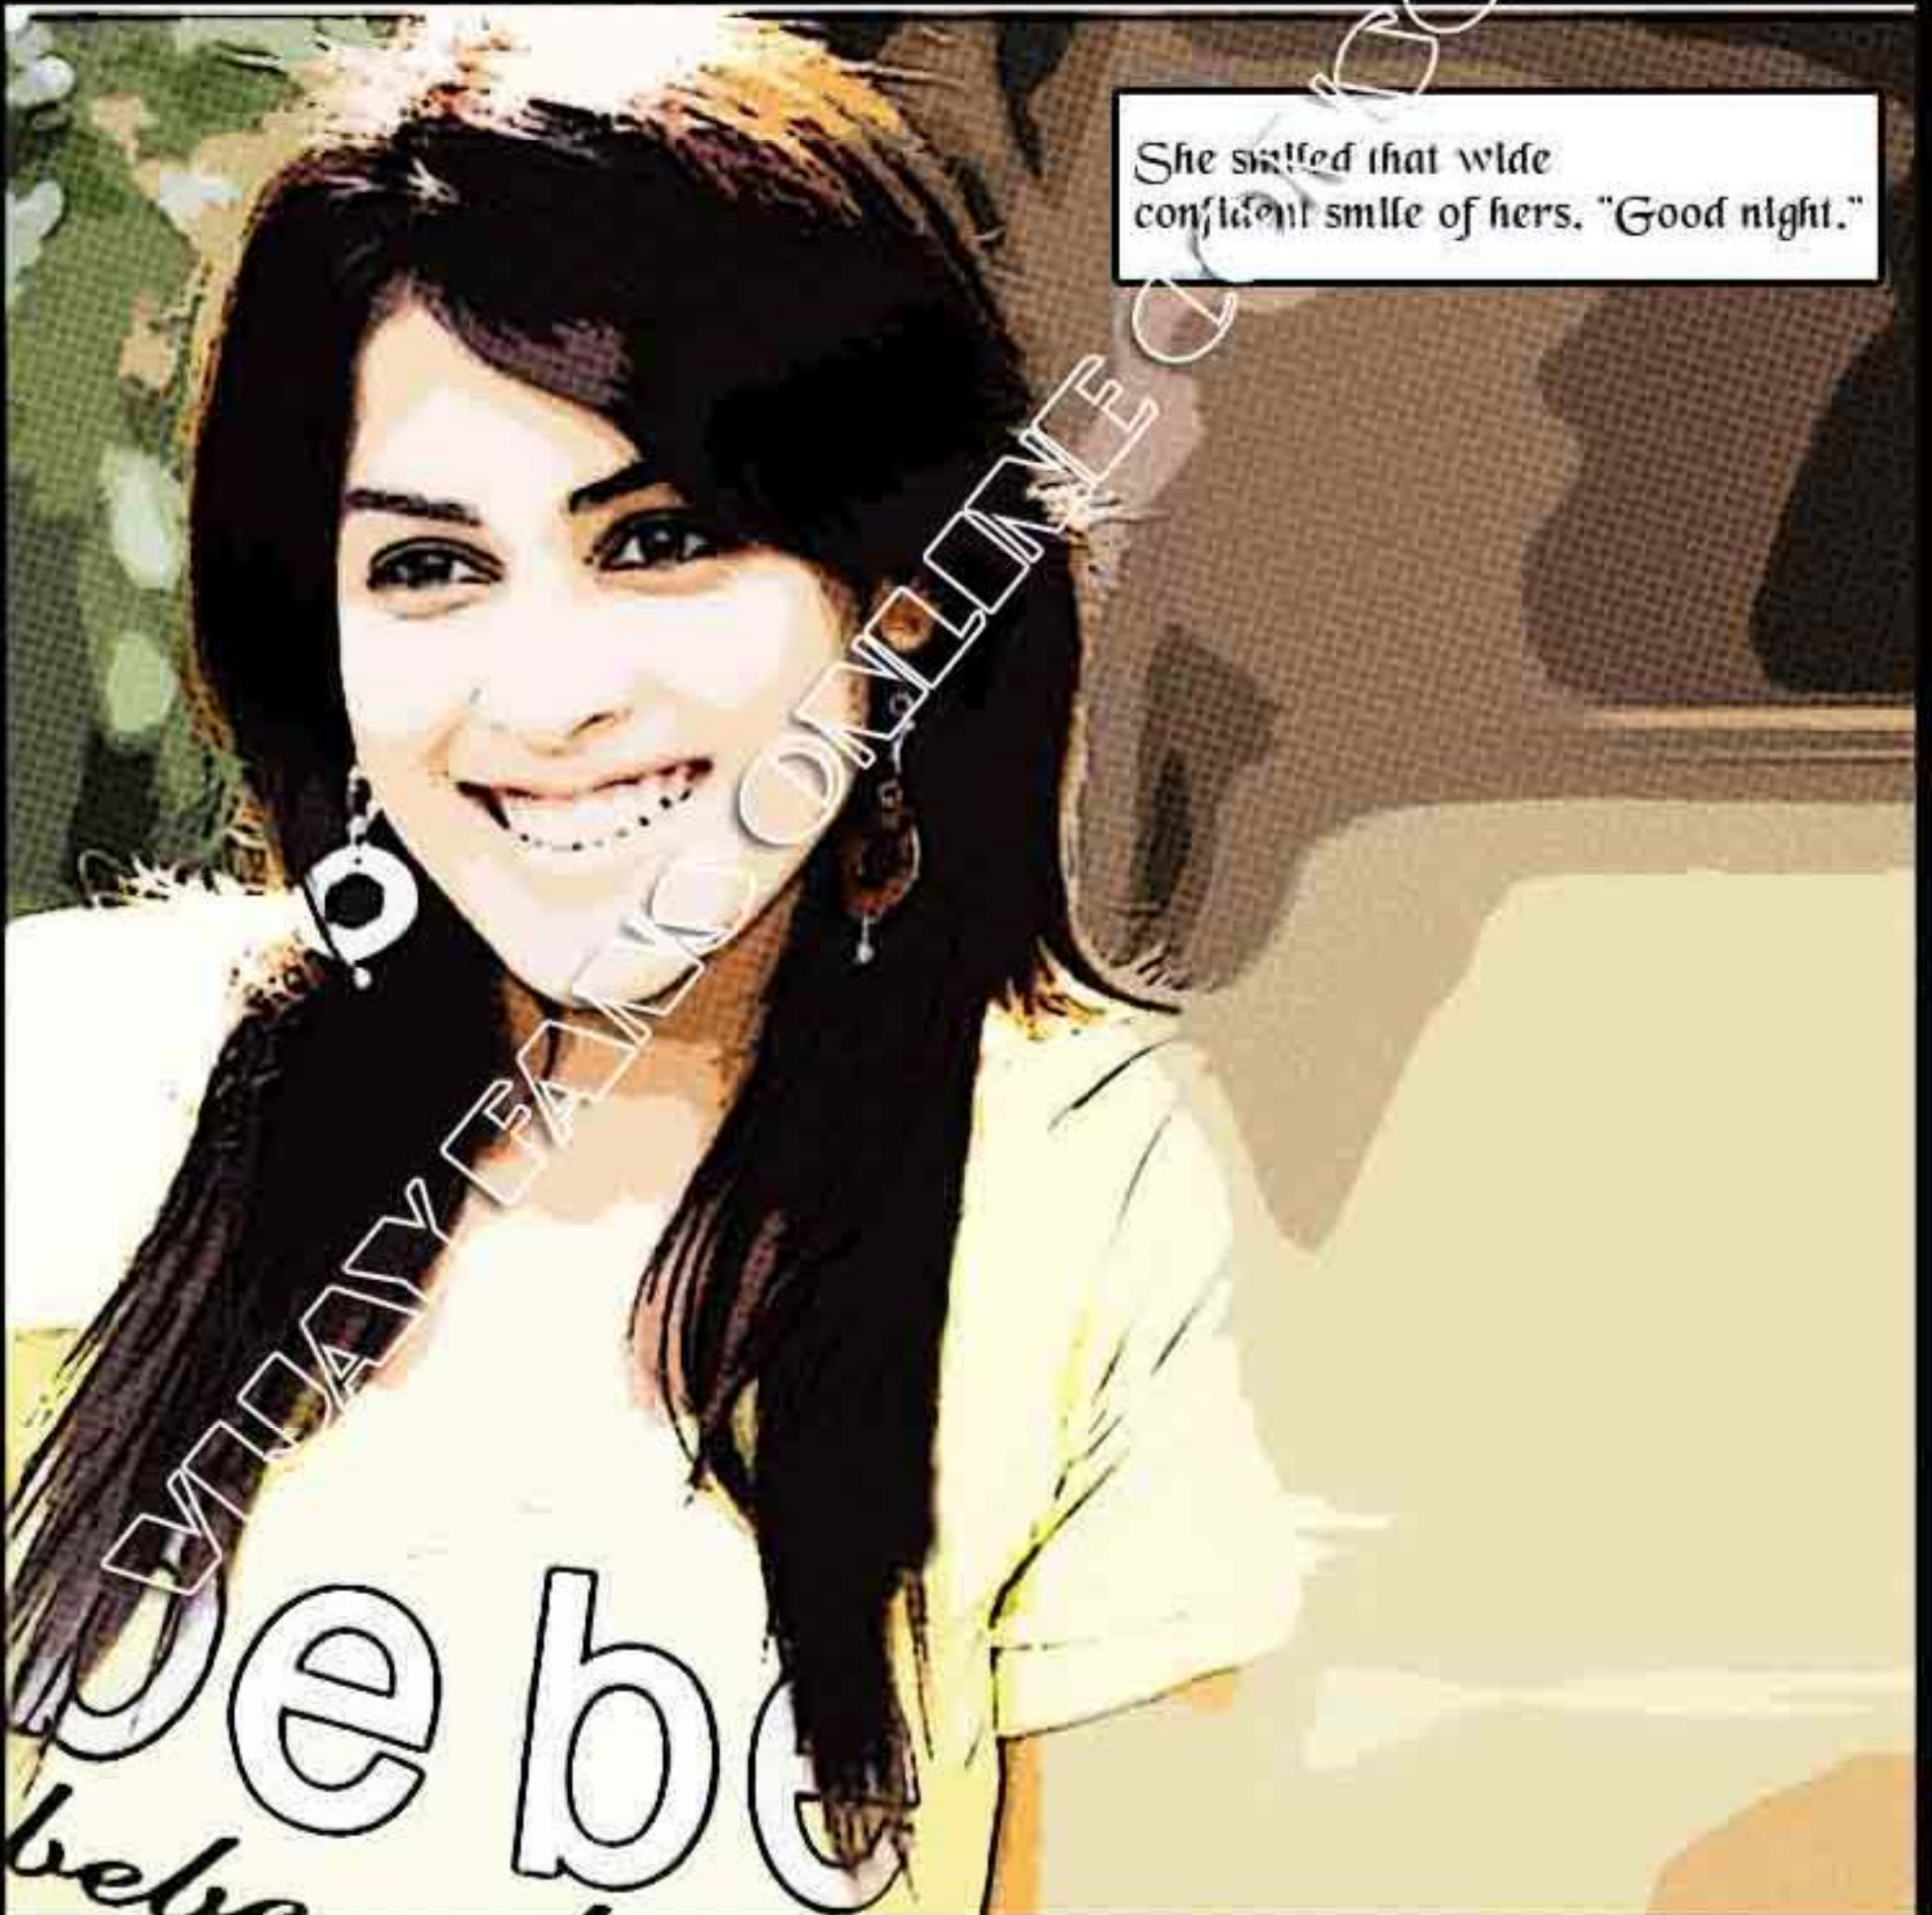

"Very smart. That won't work with me. I'm not one of your Love Crazy sultors. Why do you need the book anyway? You've read it umpteen times already."

"That is besides the point. You are getting me the book. We both know that"

VFOG

She smiled that wide confident smile of hers. "Good night."

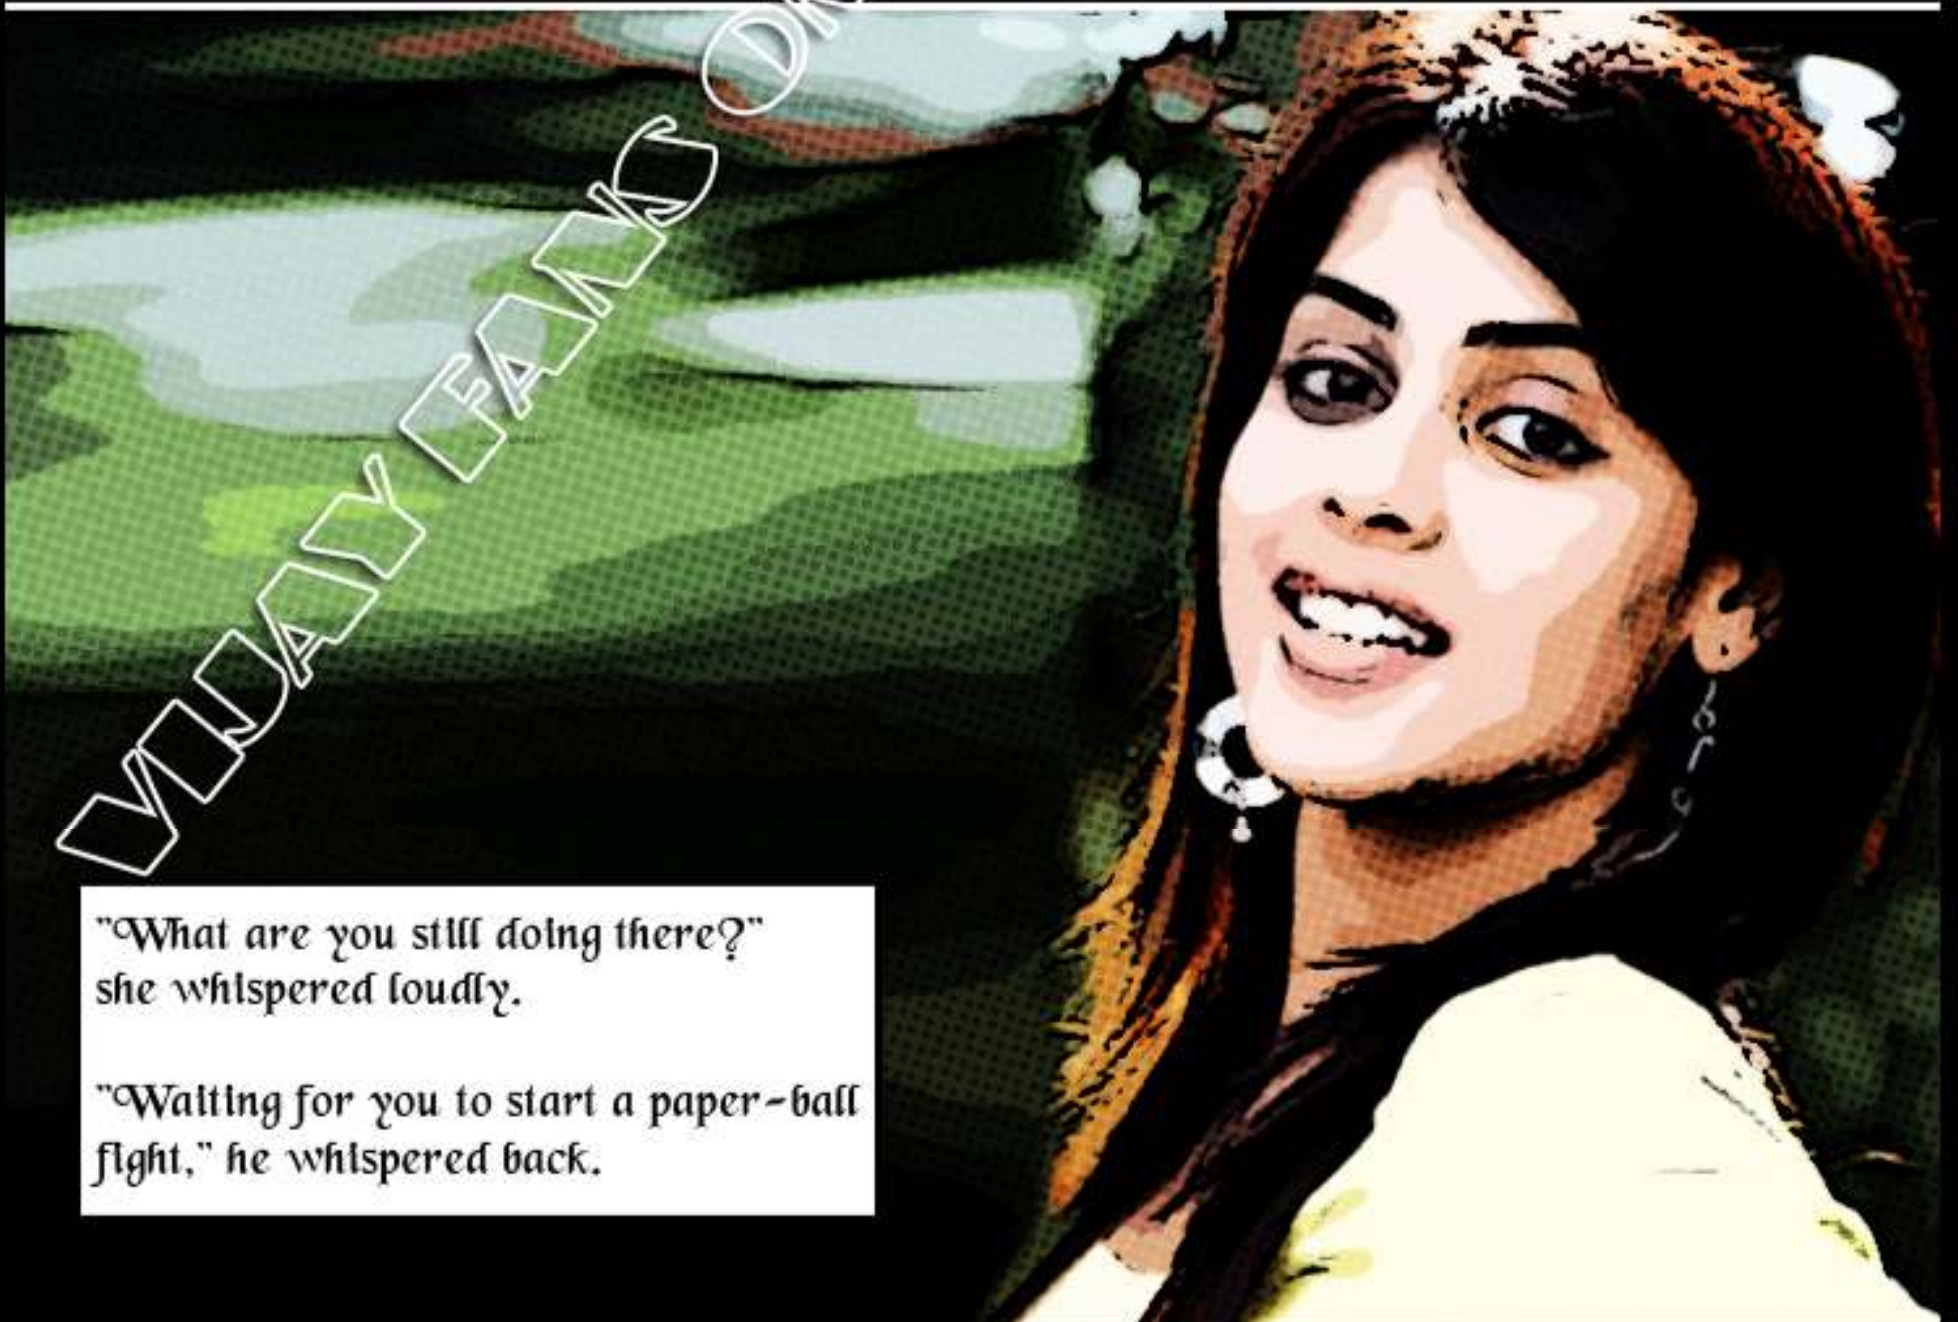

Sachin was there for some time, just thinking. Their conversations were always like this - a little joking, a little teasing and a lot of demanding. He had never let out my feelings for her anytime.

But somehow, he felt that something had changed "since she had turned up at his door that night". He felt like pouring out everything at that moment.

VFOC

He was still in his reverie when a paper ball landed on him. He looked up. She was standing in her balcony.

"What are you still doing there?" she whispered loudly.

"Waiting for you to start a paper-ball fight," he whispered back.

VFOC

"We can do that tomorrow. Go home now. It's way past your bedtime!"

"Ok, mommy," he grinned back. "I'm going home now!"

Sachin was an extravagant gift-giver, and he felt it would definitely be his downfall some day. He made her wait for it, but finally bought her the book.

VFOC

That, and half-a-dozen other omnibus collections of various authors, including a copy each of 'The Complete Works of Shakespeare' and 'The Complete Short Stories of Charles Dickens'. All he got for it was an "I told you so."

He started spending a lot of time at her place after that. Mostly because he wanted to read all those books, and she wouldn't lend them to him. "I'm not as stupid as you, ape-man. I'm not falling into the same trap I laid for you. Plus, you dog-eat your books. You're not doing that to these masterpieces. So if you want to read them, you read them here. And if you want to mark your place, use a bookmark."

So that's what he did. She'd even make him wash his hands before he touched the books. It was as if they were sacred.

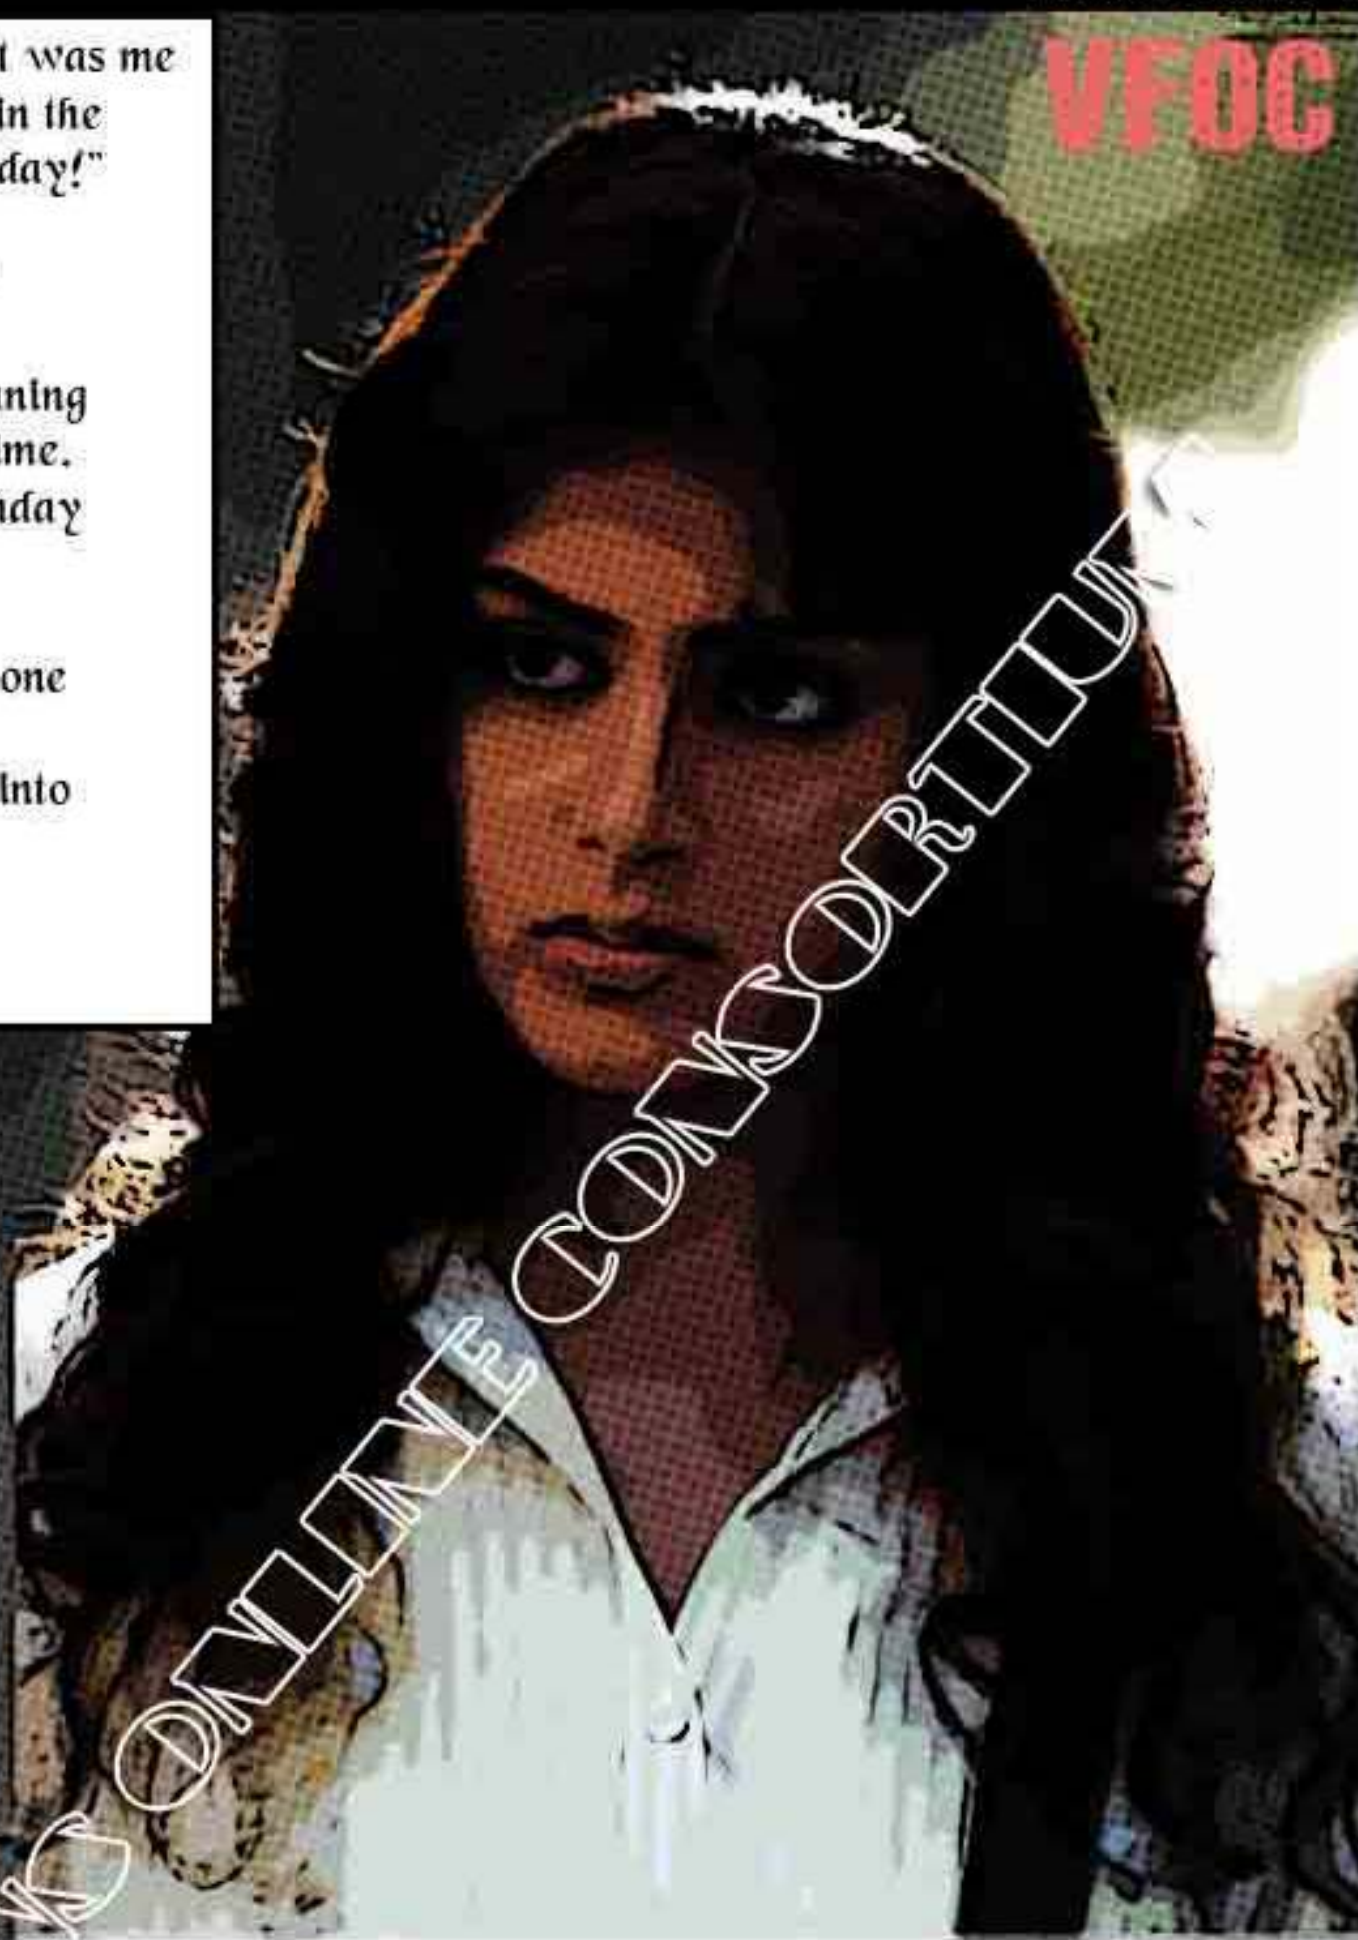

"Need I remind you that it was me that bought you the books in the first place? For my birthday!"

"So? They're mine now."

"Well, then. I've been meaning to ask you this for a long time. Where exactly is my birthday gift?"

"It was in your tummy at one point of time. It's probably been washed into the sea by now."

"Huh?"

"Remember the cake I baked you on your birthday?"

"You what? You can't bake cakes!" That was a mistake. She looked hurt.

VFOC

"You what? You can't bake cakes!"
That was a mistake. She looked hurt.
"You baked me a cake?" She didn't say a word. She just shrugged.

Sachin was stunned. "But you never told me."

"You didn't ask." That was typical of her.

"It was fantastic! And you wasted most of the icing on me!"

"The cake was for you, dumbo."

"How long did it take you to make the whole thing?"

It had been a two-layered vanilla-chocolate cake with three flavors of very creamy icing. She had done all that

VFOC

"Well, the chocolate cake took an hour and fifteen minutes, and so did the vanilla. Then cutting them up and putting them together took another 15 minutes. Each flavor of icing took 20 minutes for preparation, and then putting it on the cake took another half hour. Cleaning up the mess took an hour."

She seldom claimed the credit for anything, but once she started bragging, there was no stopping her. However, he wasn't thinking about that right then.

"You spent over five hours on that cake?"

VFOC

"A little over four hours preparing it, and an hour cleaning up. Yes."

He was speechless. He didn't know how to react. She hated cooking

"I forgot to mention," She continued, "the hours I spent the week before that, practicing. Even the birds wouldn't touch the first three cakes!"

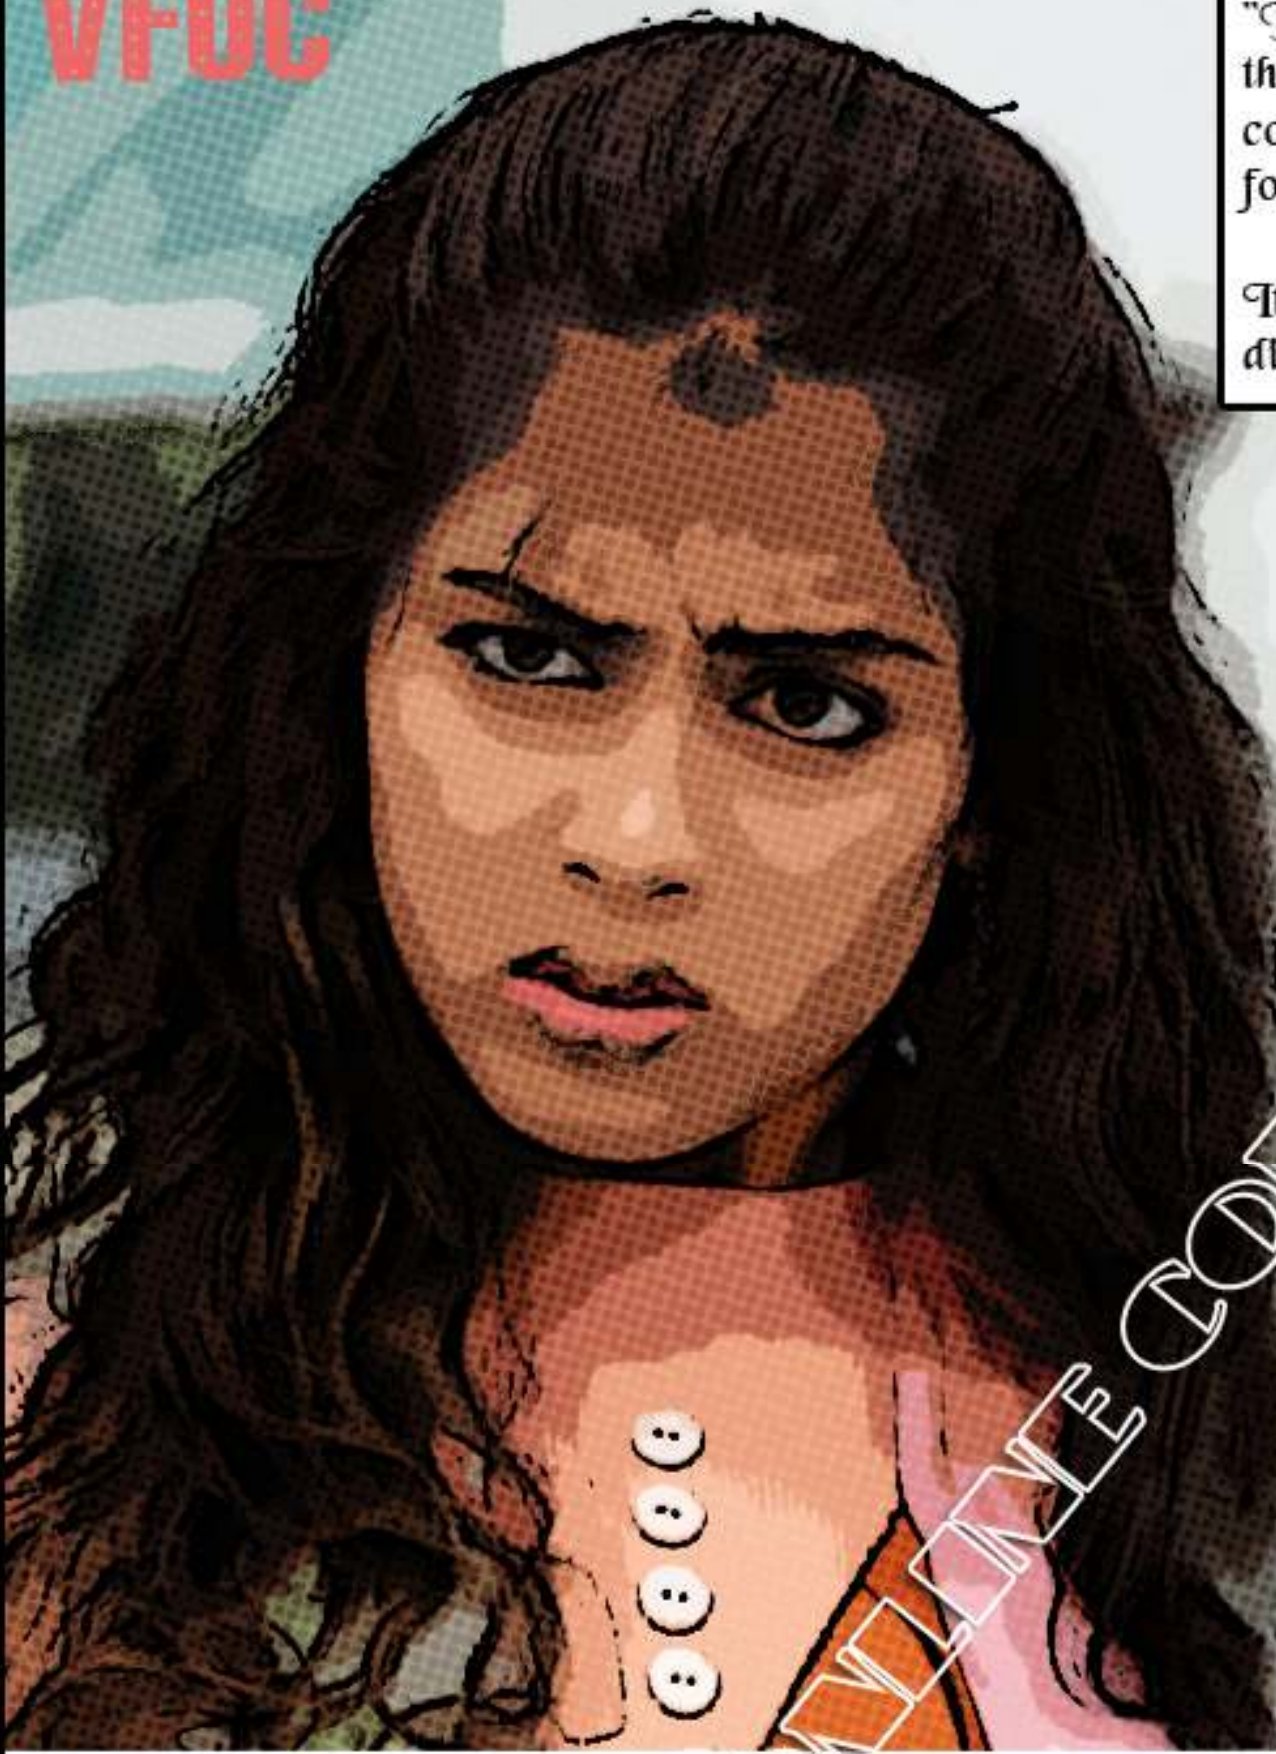

He couldn't help but ask, "Why?"

VFOC

"Because the first one got burnt, the second one was only half cooked, and in the third one, I forgot to add sugar."

It was just like her, to try to divert the conversation.

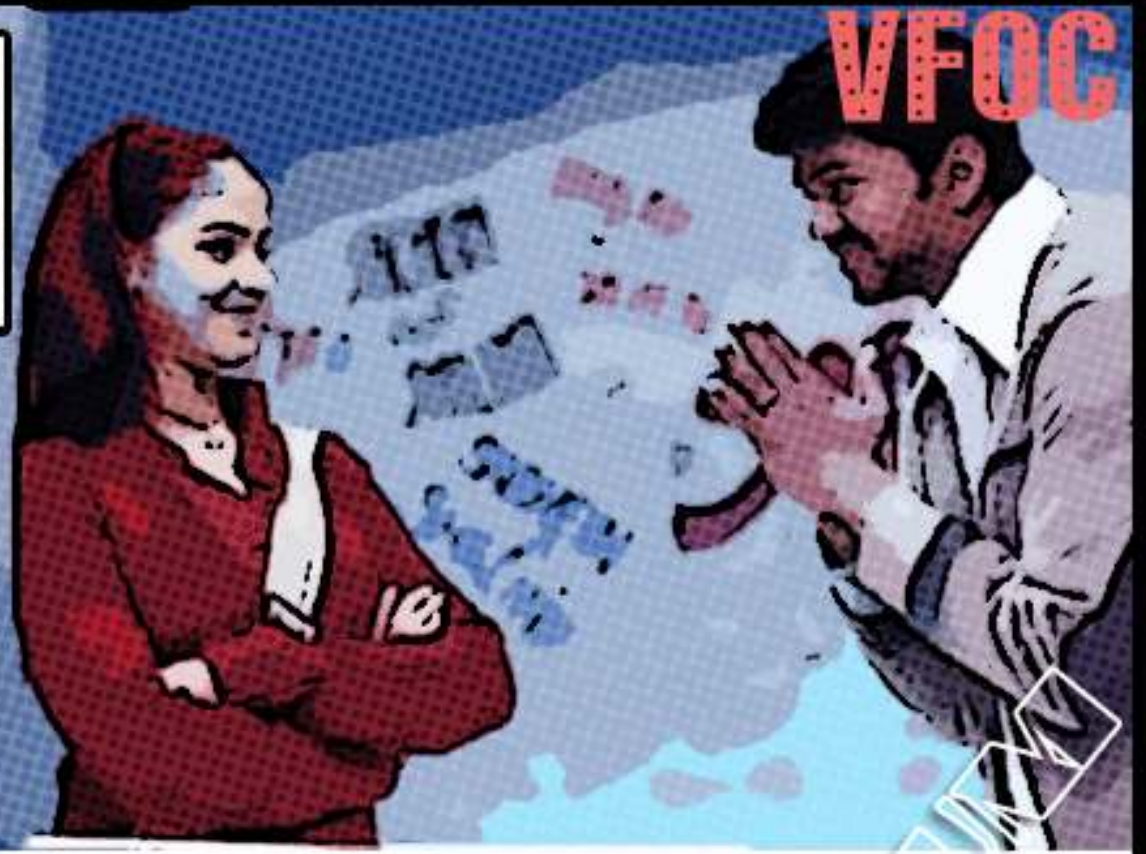

"I mean why did you spend so much time on baking me a cake?"

She looked at me like he had asked her why the sun rises in the east.

VFOC

"For your birthday, stupid. Of course, I also wanted to beat every gift you've ever got me. Try beating this one." She was grinning like she'd won the world championship.

As far as Sachein was concerned, she had. He had never spent a week making her anything. Not even spent an hour making her anything. Getting her a gift normally involved him taking her to the store, letting her choose and use his credit card.

Suddenly, he felt cheap. "Thanks," was the only thing he could say. "Thanks a lot."

"Hey. Are you getting senti on me again?"

VFOC

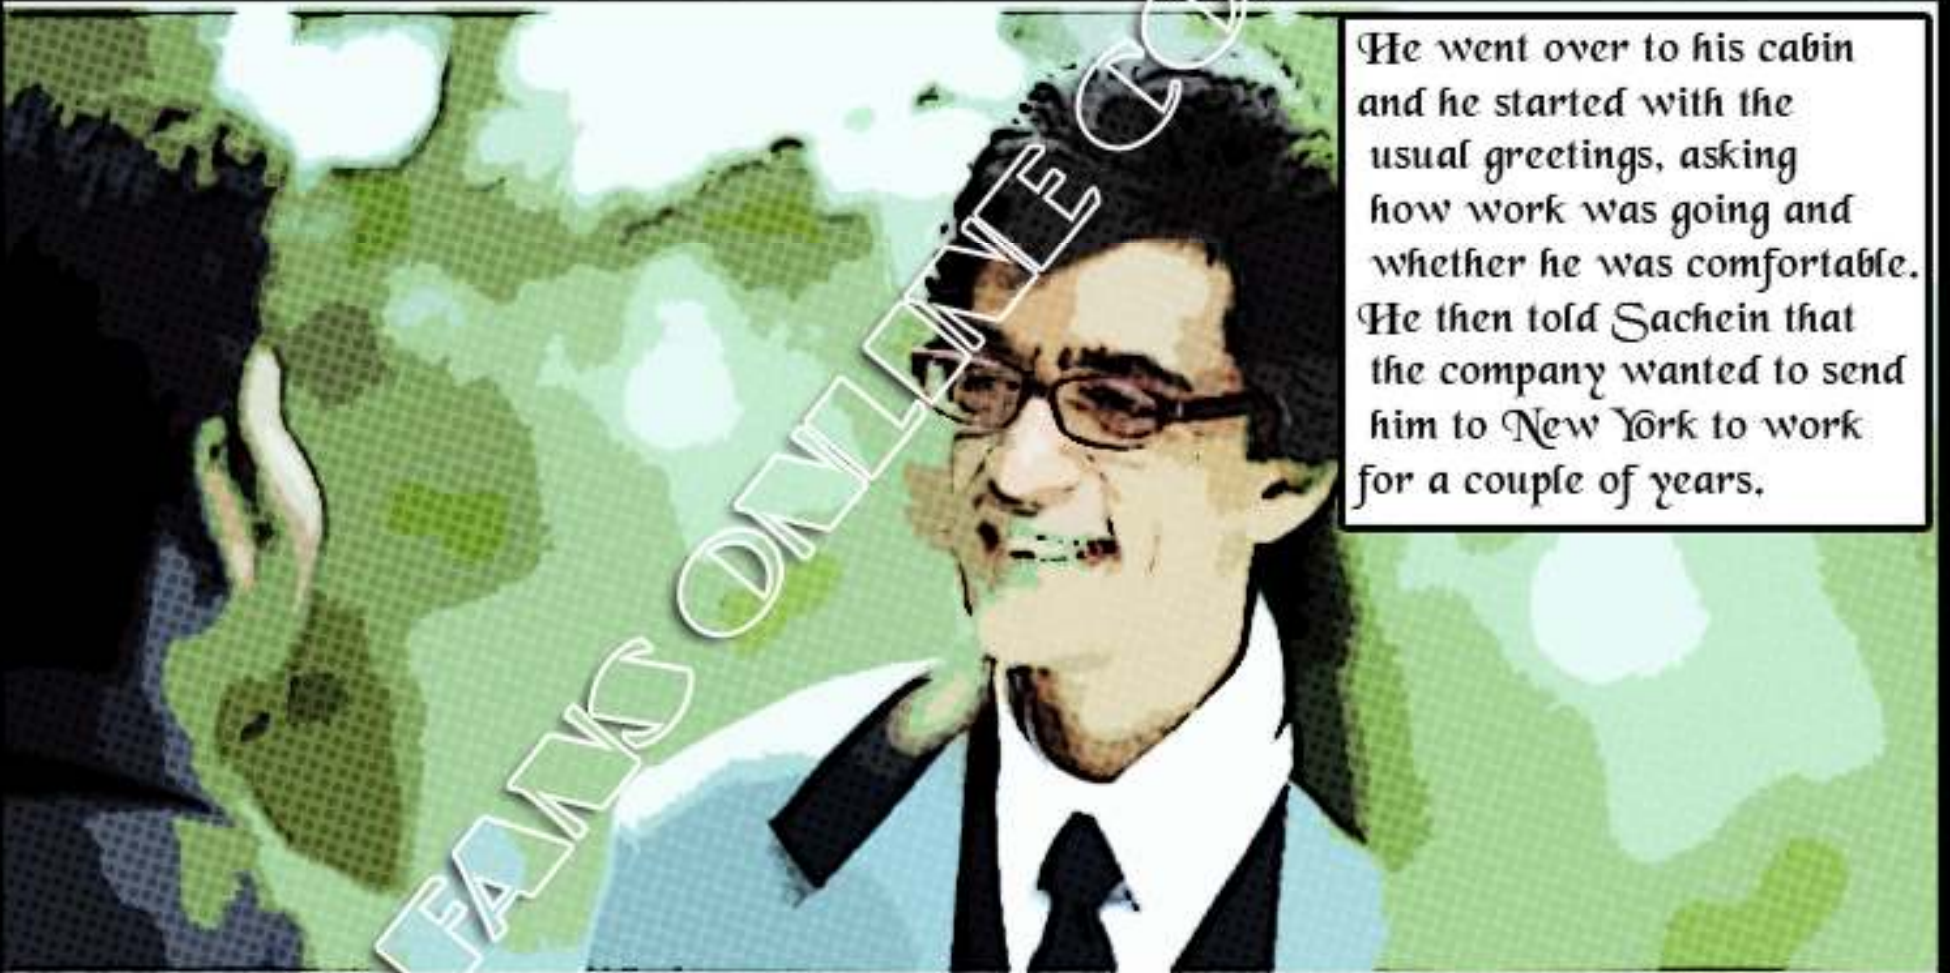

He was. He again thought of pouring out my feelings for her that very moment, but what if... if she says 'No'? What if she puts an end to this friendship? He didn't want to take any chance of losing her in his life.

He might have laughed at the thought of her being a dream girl at his first meeting with her. Now he cannot think of anyone in his dreams other than her.

VFOC

Sachein was still mulling over his feelings for Shalini the next day at work when his boss asked to speak to him

He went over to his cabin and he started with the usual greetings, asking how work was going and whether he was comfortable. He then told Sachein that the company wanted to send him to New York to work for a couple of years.

Normally, this wouldn't have made much of a difference to him. He could work anywhere and didn't have too much love for visiting places foreign.

VFOC

But right then, the first thought that came to him was that he would be away from Shalini for two whole years.

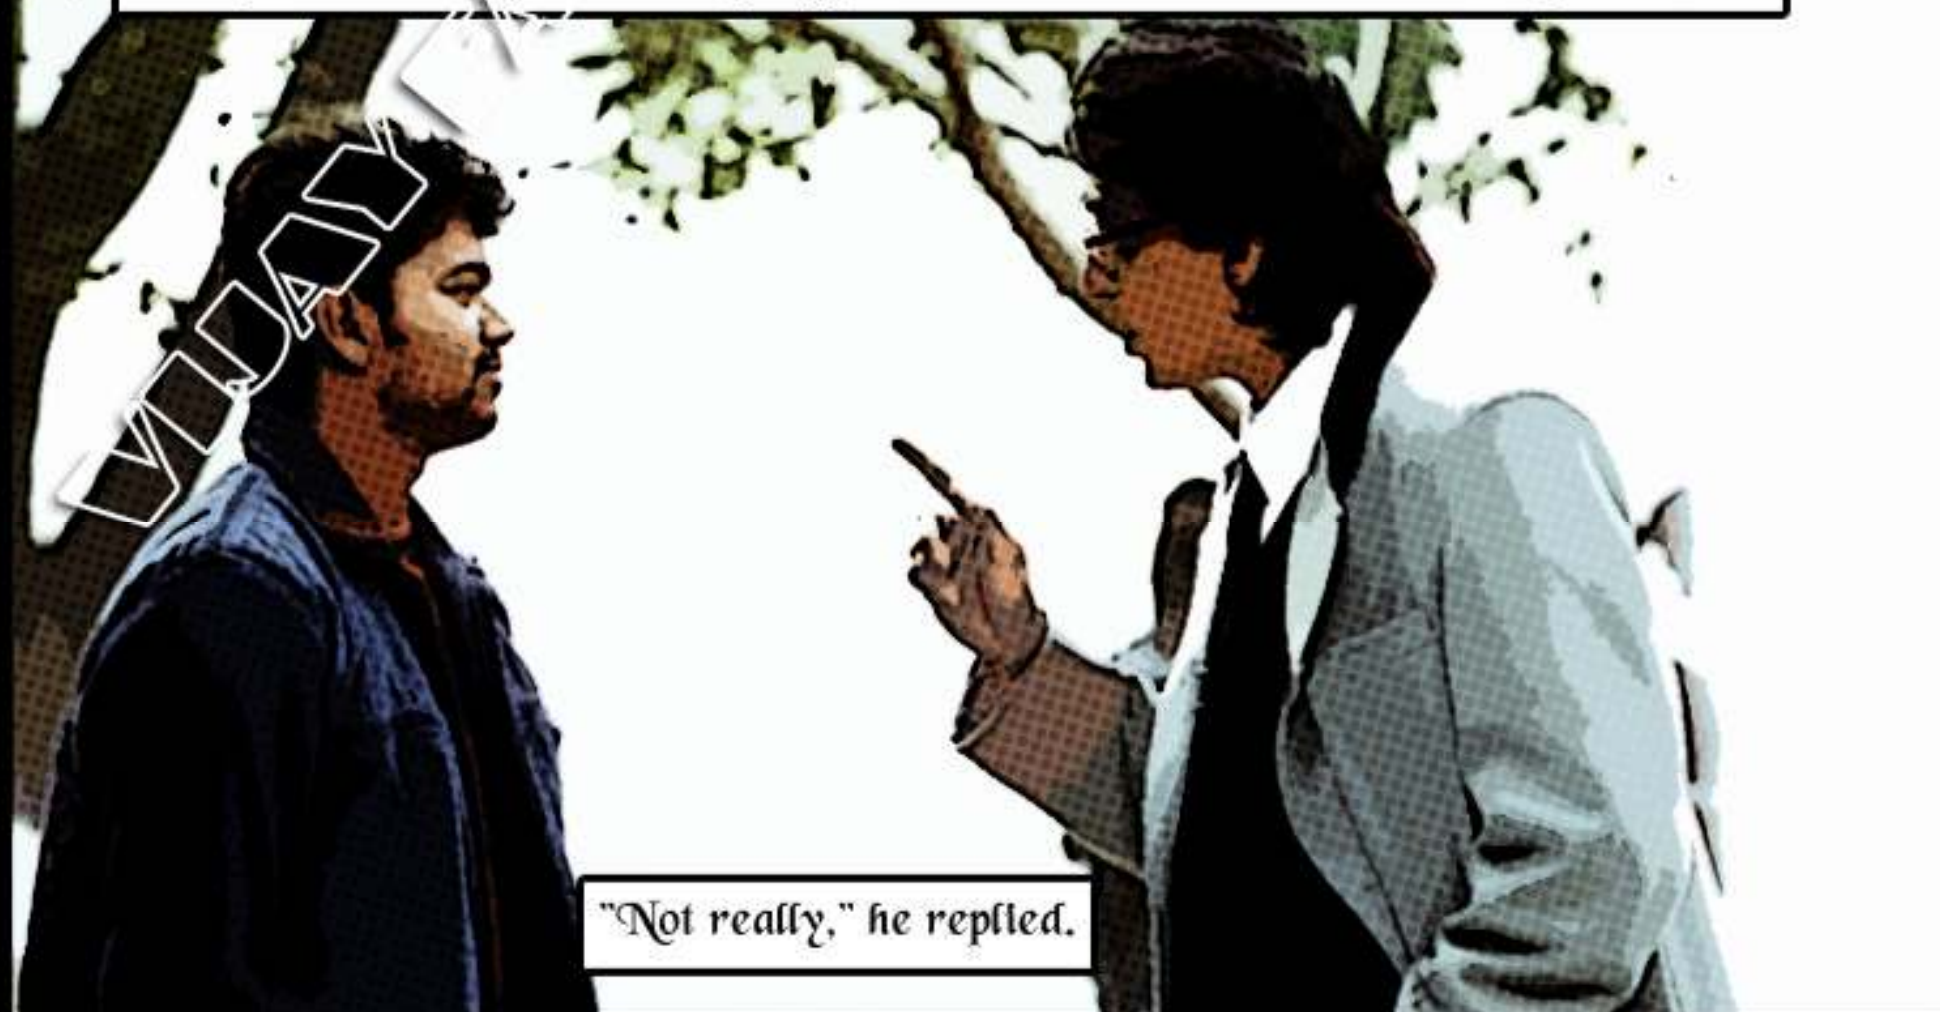

Twenty-four hours before, he would have been disappointed to lose her company. But right then, he was devastated.

VFOC

That was when he knew he was madly in love with her. He had crushes before. Lots of them. But this was different.

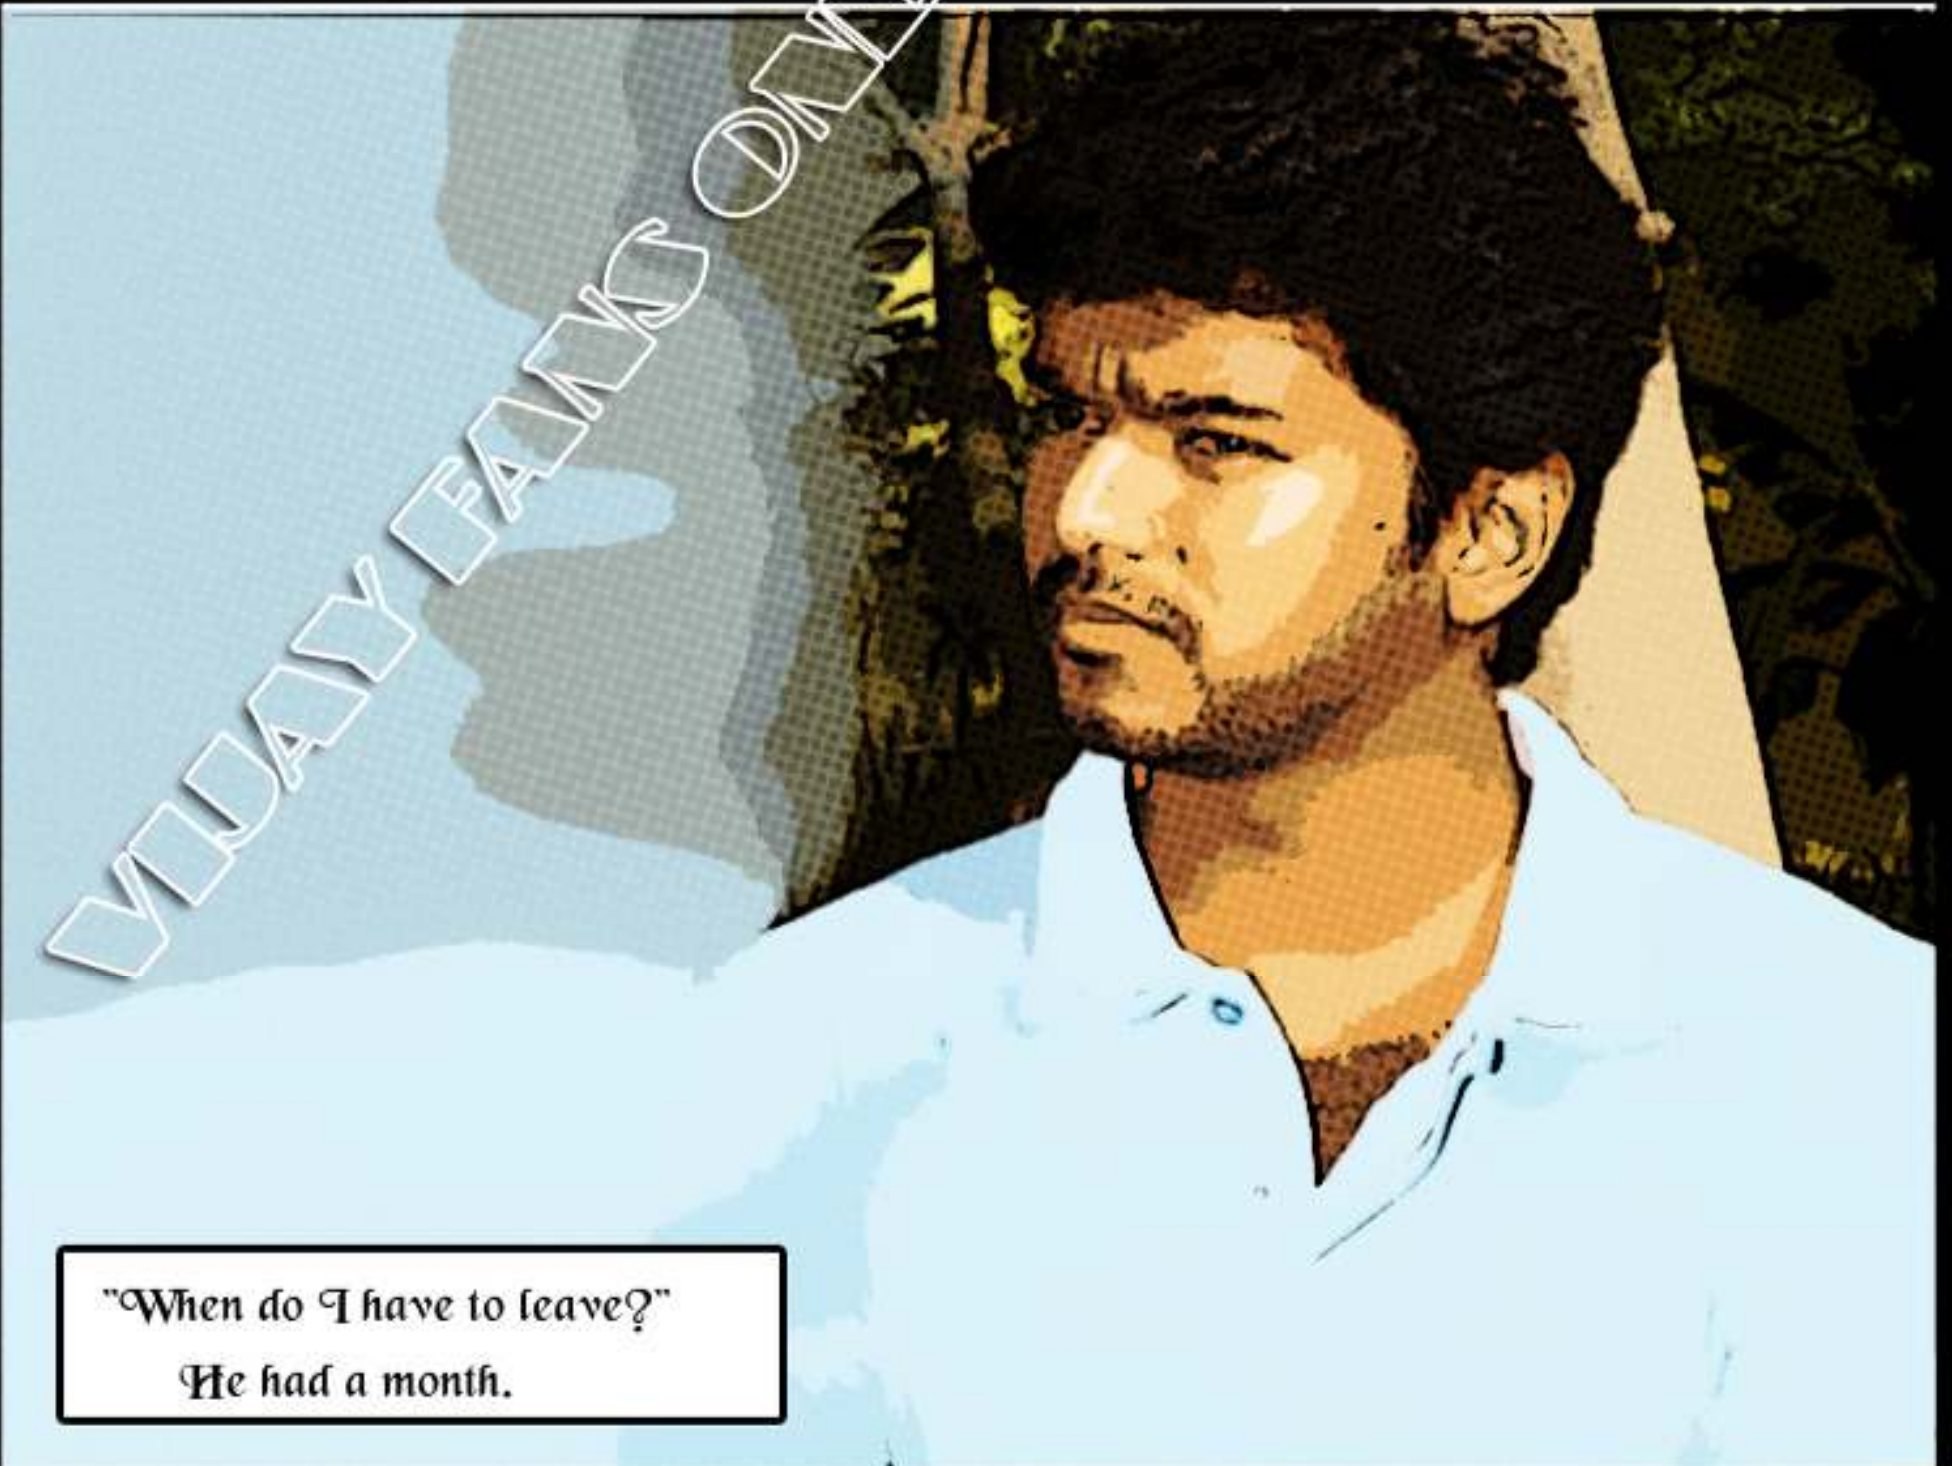

"Do you have any problem in going?" his boss asked, since he hadn't responded.

"Not really," he replied.

VFOC

What else could he say? That he was in love, and couldn't bear the separation?

"When do I have to leave?"
He had a month.

VFOC

"Wow! New York! Great! I've heard it's a fantastic city! Did you know it snows there in winter?"

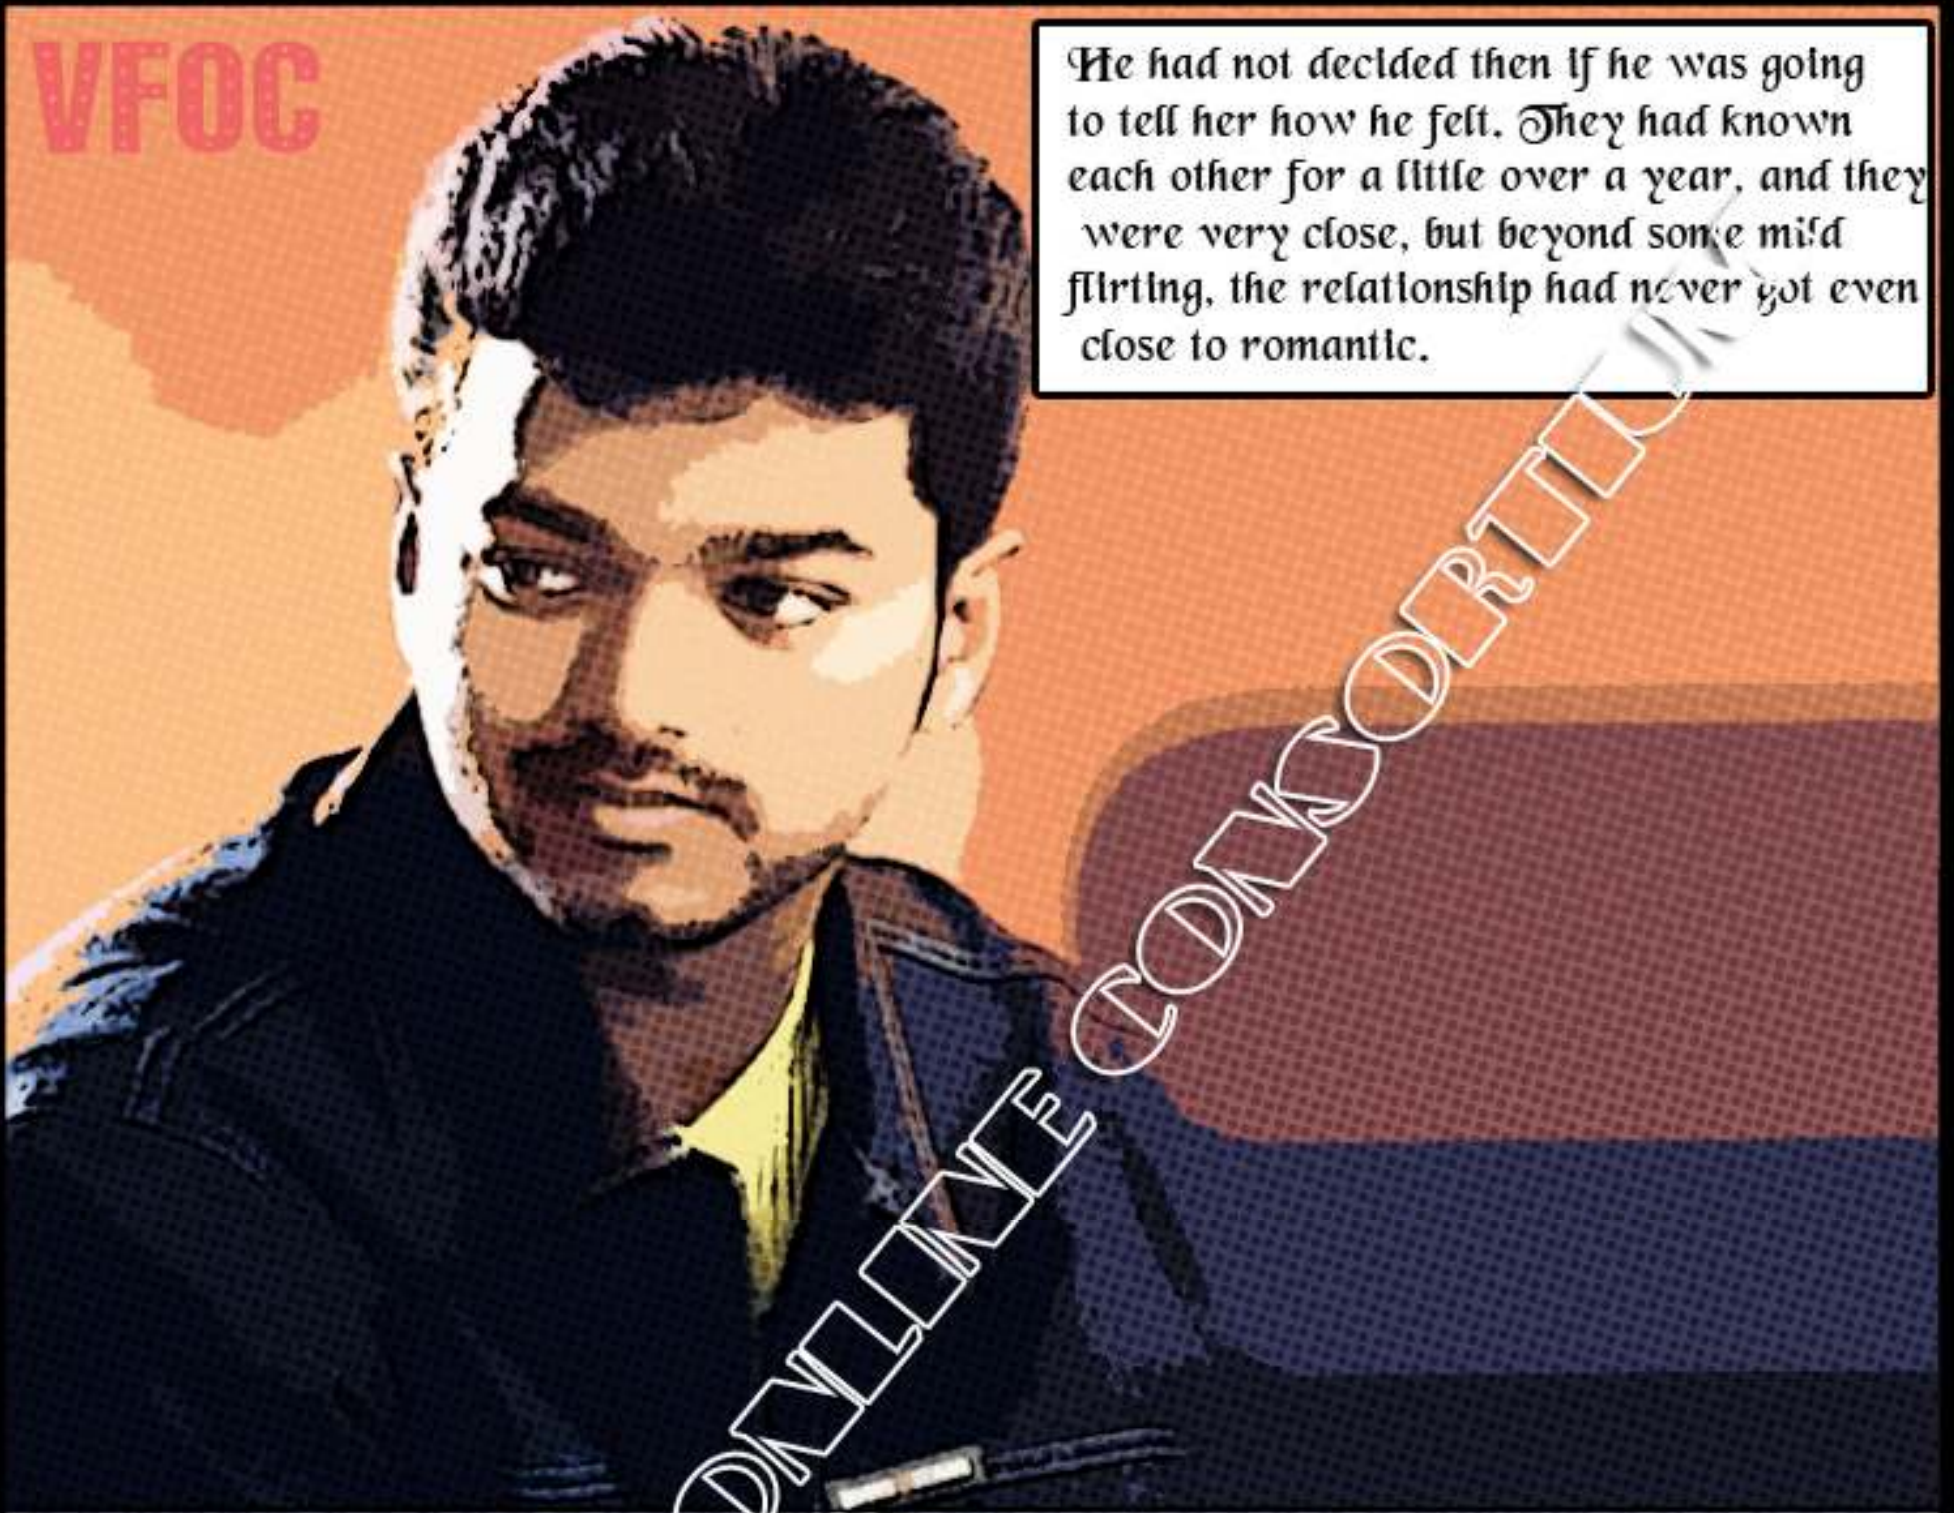

Shafin was obviously very excited about his going. She didn't seem to share his disappointment on what he now saw as 'separation'.

VFOC

He had not decided then if he was going to tell her how he felt. They had known each other for a little over a year, and they were very close, but beyond some mild flirting, the relationship had never got even close to romantic.

Now he felt like she means everything to him. That was, of course, since he found out she had spent a week baking him a cake. It's funny how small things seem to make such a big difference.

VFOC

"What happened?" she asked. "You don't seem very happy."

"Oh," he replied, "It's just that it's so sudden, that's all. And you know I was never all that interested in going to America."

"What an idiot. Go see the place. I've heard the women there are amazingly beautiful." She had a sly smile on her face. He wanted to tell her he didn't want to lay his eyes on another woman again, if she was with him. But he didn't.

VFOC

He realized that he had only another month with her. She'd rejected every guy who'd asked her out ever since he knew her.

He didn't want the same to happen to him, and didn't want to make it awkward between them.

He didn't want to risk that month.
He wanted it to be the best time he had ever spent with her.

VFOC

After he came back from the US, he might not even get to meet her again. Two years was a long time and anything can happen.

They ate out almost every night. They visited some of the best restaurants in the city. She also helped him shop for warm clothes, formalwear, shoes, toothpaste and a million things he would never have thought of on his own."

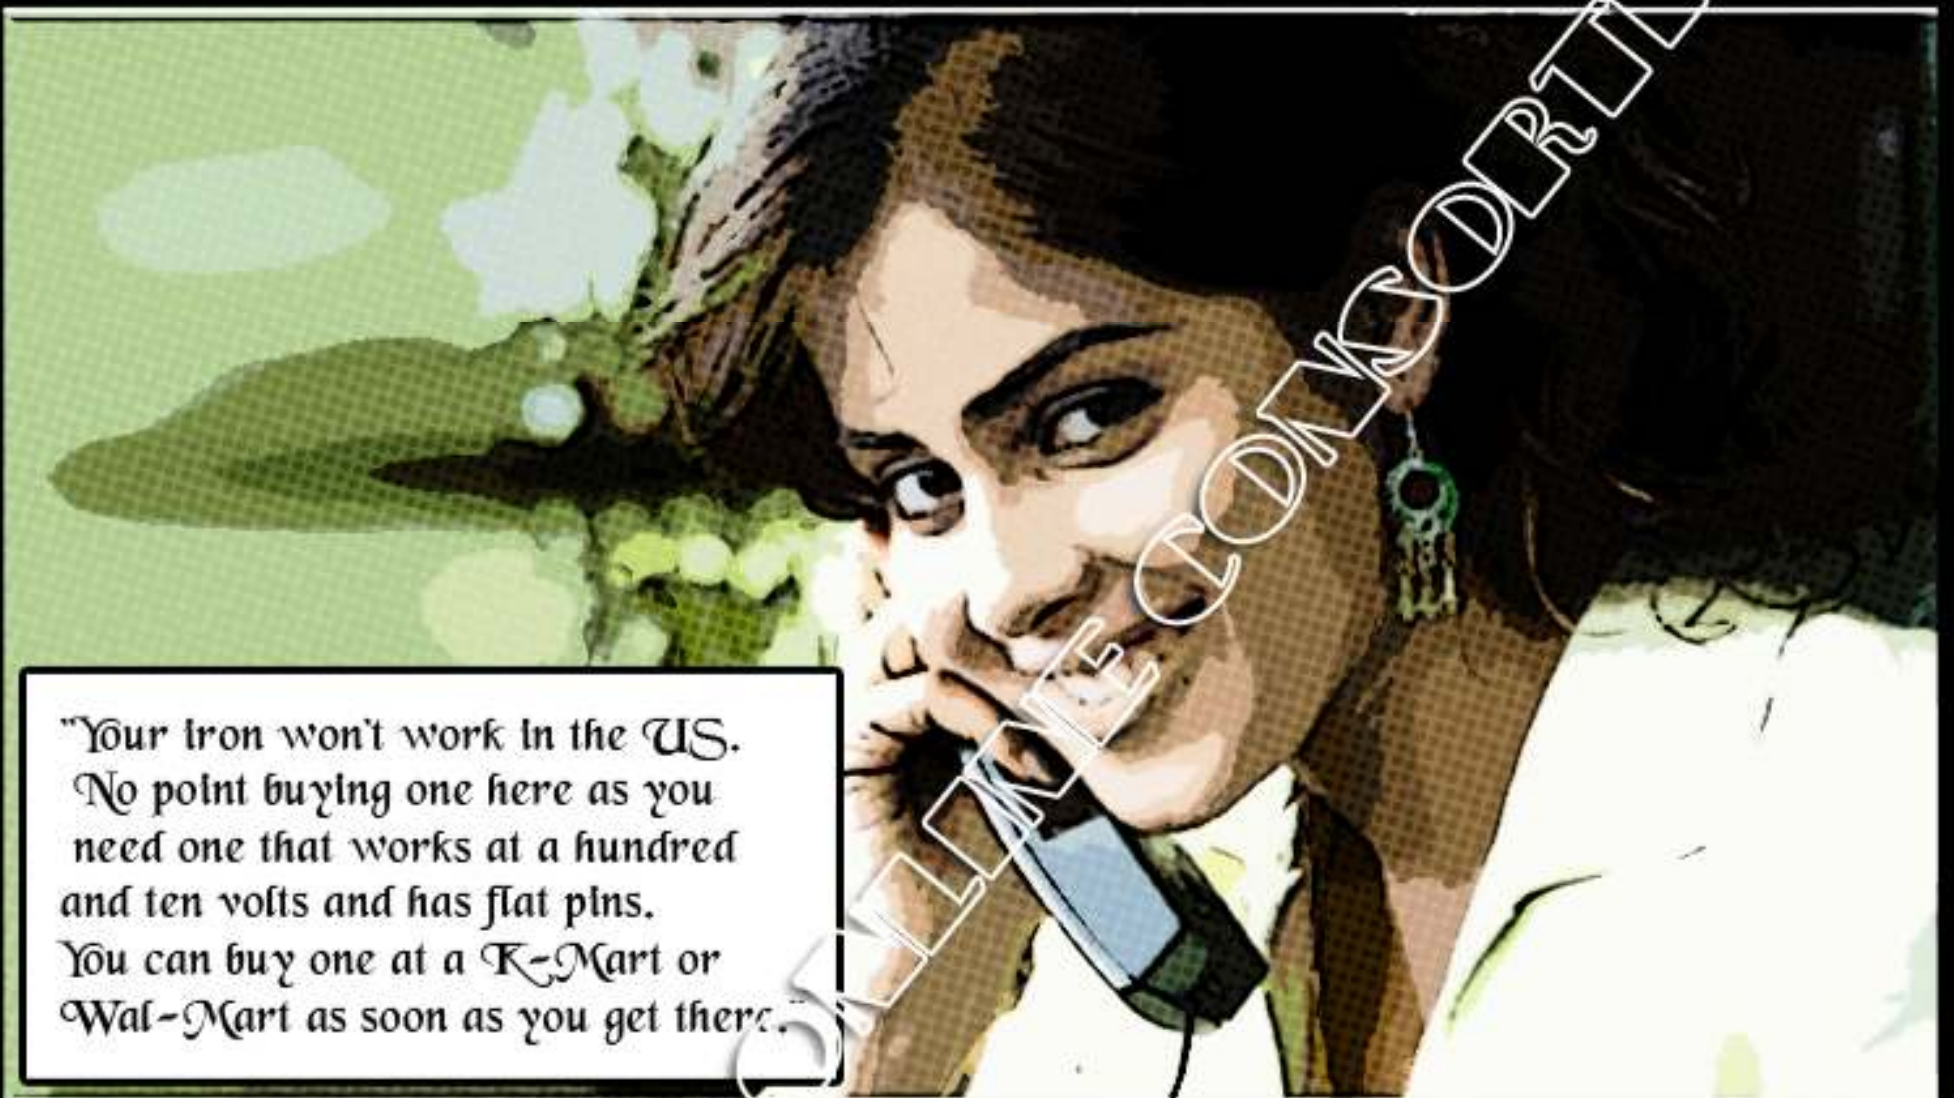

VFOC

"You need to buy a nail-cutter."
He shared one with his roommates

"I've prepared a list of must-have medicines that you should carry."

"Your iron won't work in the US.
No point buying one here as you need one that works at a hundred and ten volts and has flat pins.
You can buy one at a K-Mart or Wal-Mart as soon as you get there."

"You need at least two pairs of formal shoes and at least ten pairs of dark socks. The East Coast has a formal dress code. And you won't do your laundry more than once a week or two."

VFOC

"How many ties do you have? And which trousers do your blazers go with?"

"Better get a haircut before you leave from here. Knowing you, you'll postpone the first haircut for too long."

She'd call him up at one in the morning to tell him to add 'one more item' to his list.

And with every passing day, he was falling more deeply in love with her.

VFOC

The month swept by quickly. The day he was supposed to leave, he asked her to come with him to the airport.

"Of course, dummy. You think I'd let you go just like that, or what?"

After packing his bags for him and checking the lists for the hundredth time, she finally pronounced me "Good to go."

VFOG

They reached the airport four hours early to beat the rush, because it was an international flight. She got a visitor's pass to sit in the waiting area while he went ahead and checked-in his bags.

Shallni had got a spring balance from somewhere and so he knew his bags were well within the weight limit. He finished the formalities and came to sit with her..

There was only a few hours left before he had to go for his security-check. They decided to get something to eat at the food court..

VFOC

And all the time, the one thing that was going through his head was that, after this, he wouldn't see her for at least another two years.

"Hey, Champ. Why so glum?" She saved 'Champ' for special days. Normally, it was just 'dumbo', 'bozo', 'ape-man', 'matchstick man', 'weirdo', or if she was very irritated with me, 'nutcase'.

"I don't want to go," he said.

"I don't want you to go either."

"No, you don't understand," he couldn't hold it in any longer.

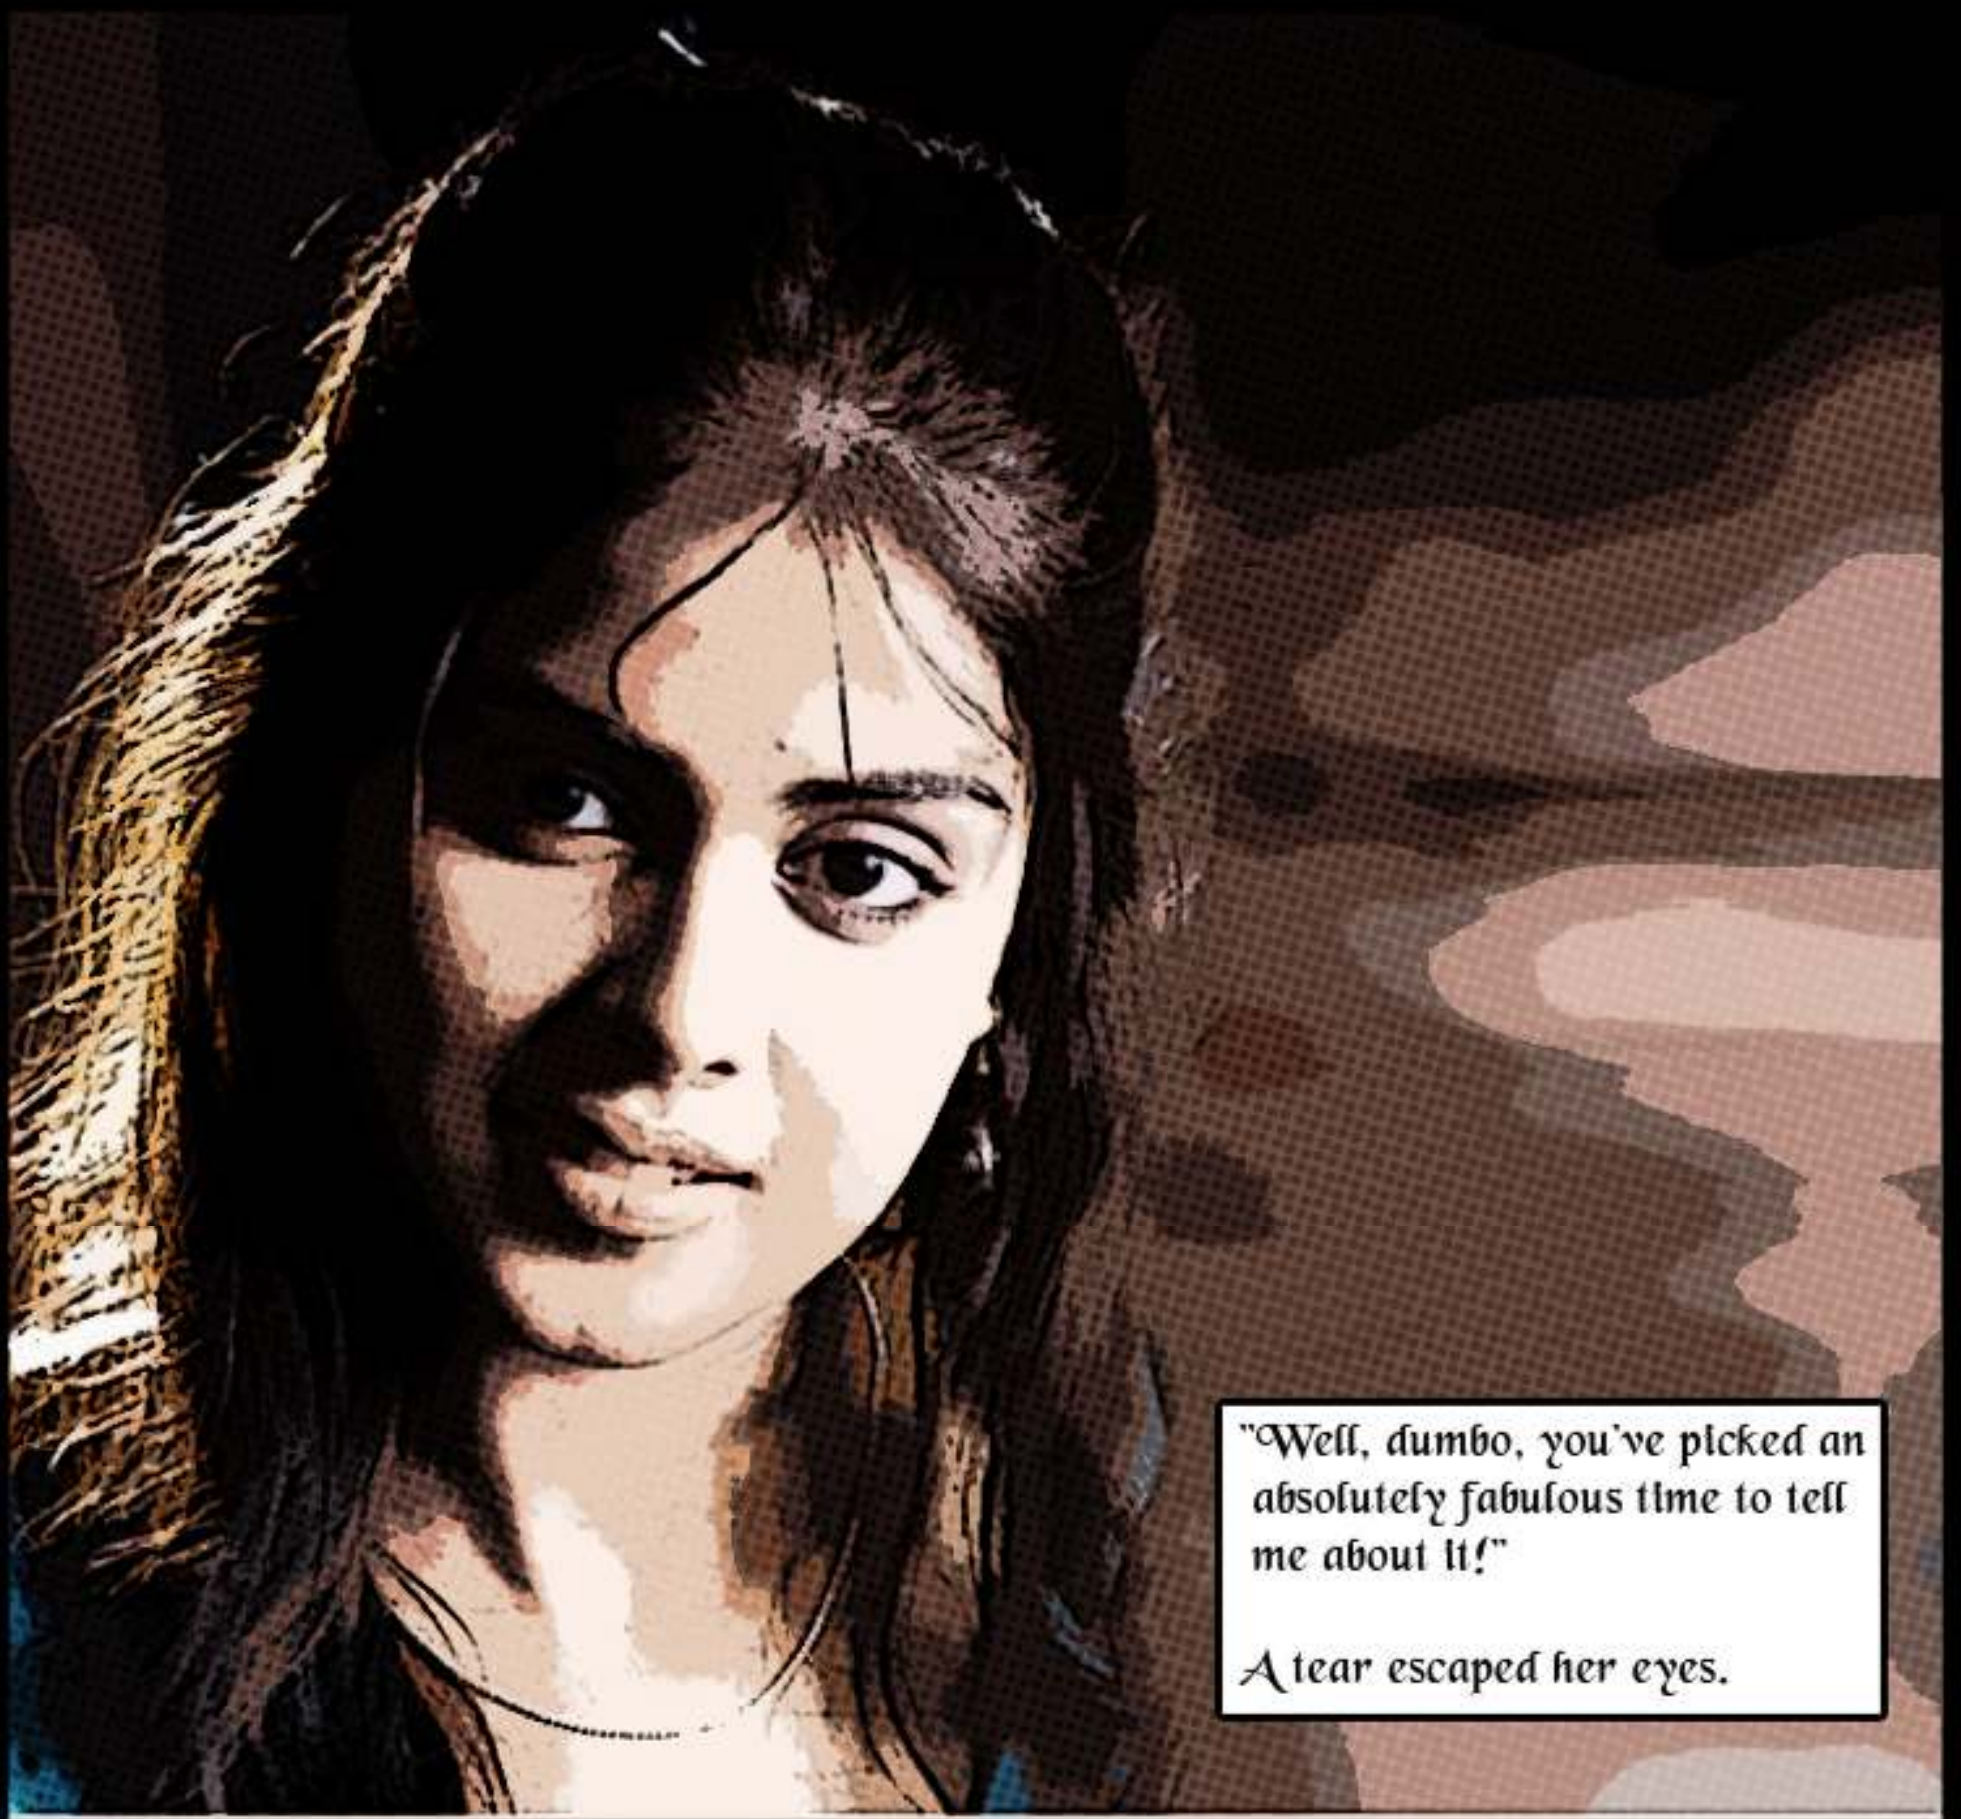

"I can't stand the thought of living without you by my side."

She stared at him. There was a strange look in her eyes. He couldn't read it.

He felt that if not now, then it would be never. Whatever might be her reply, he was determined to tell her how he felt for her. Probably, this would be a last chance.

"I am madly in love with you, Shalini."

At this, a sound escaped her lips that sounded like a cross between a sob and a laugh.

"Well, dumbo, you've picked an absolutely fabulous time to tell me about it!"

A tear escaped her eyes.

He tapped his fingers with tense on the table. It was all he could do to stop himself from wiping it off her cheeks.

VFOC

"How long have you felt this way?" She seemed amused, though she was definitely crying. He didn't know what to make of it

COMICS CONJUNCTION

"From the day I found out you had baked me a cake."
His inner heart was yelling 'Why to go!'

She laughed.

VFOC

"That's all it took? Well, bozo, I guess a way to a man's heart is certainly through his stomach! Hold it. A month? You waited a month?"

"Actually I felt my love for you, the day I saw you in rain for the first time. And a lot of times after that. And for the past one year, the feeling has grown so much. And now I cannot imagine anything without you." He couldn't stop voice getting broken.

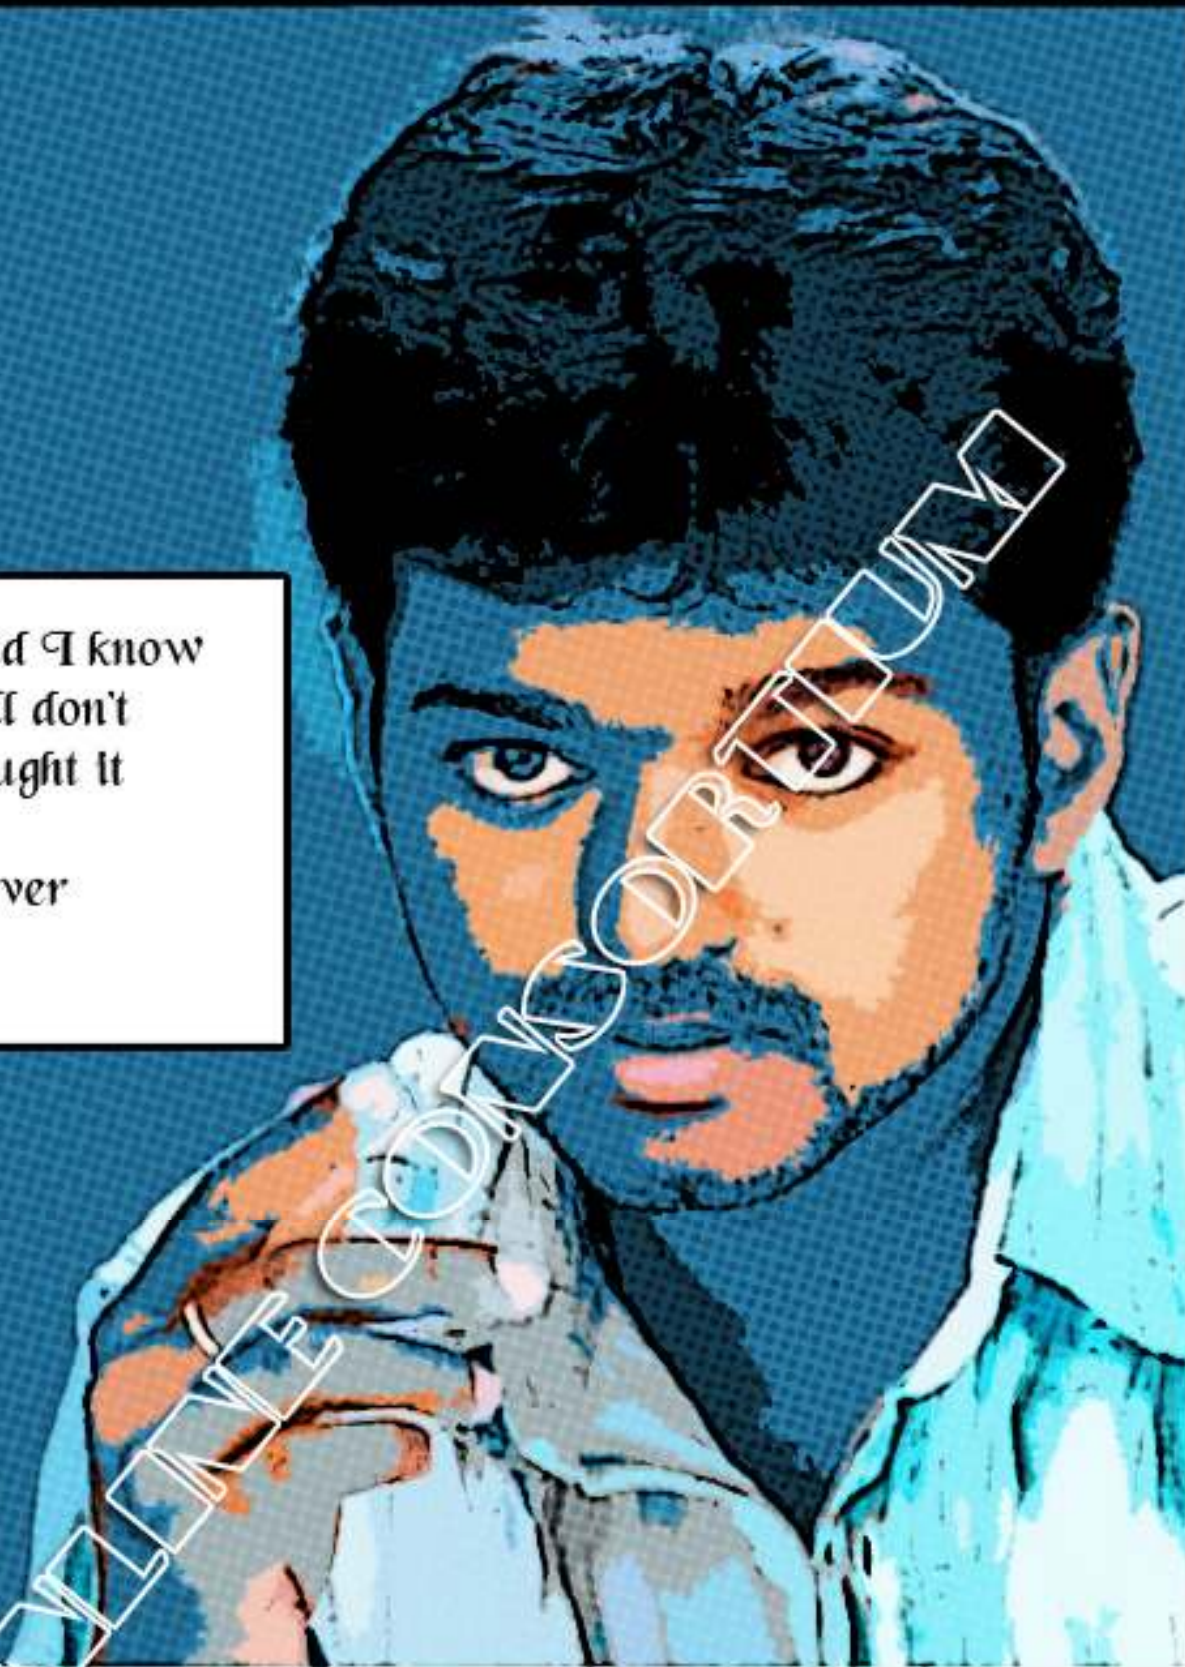

"But, you were the one who kept saying that If you really liked a girl you wouldn't waste a day in telling her!" She was smiling widely now. It looked funny, with her eyes all wet.

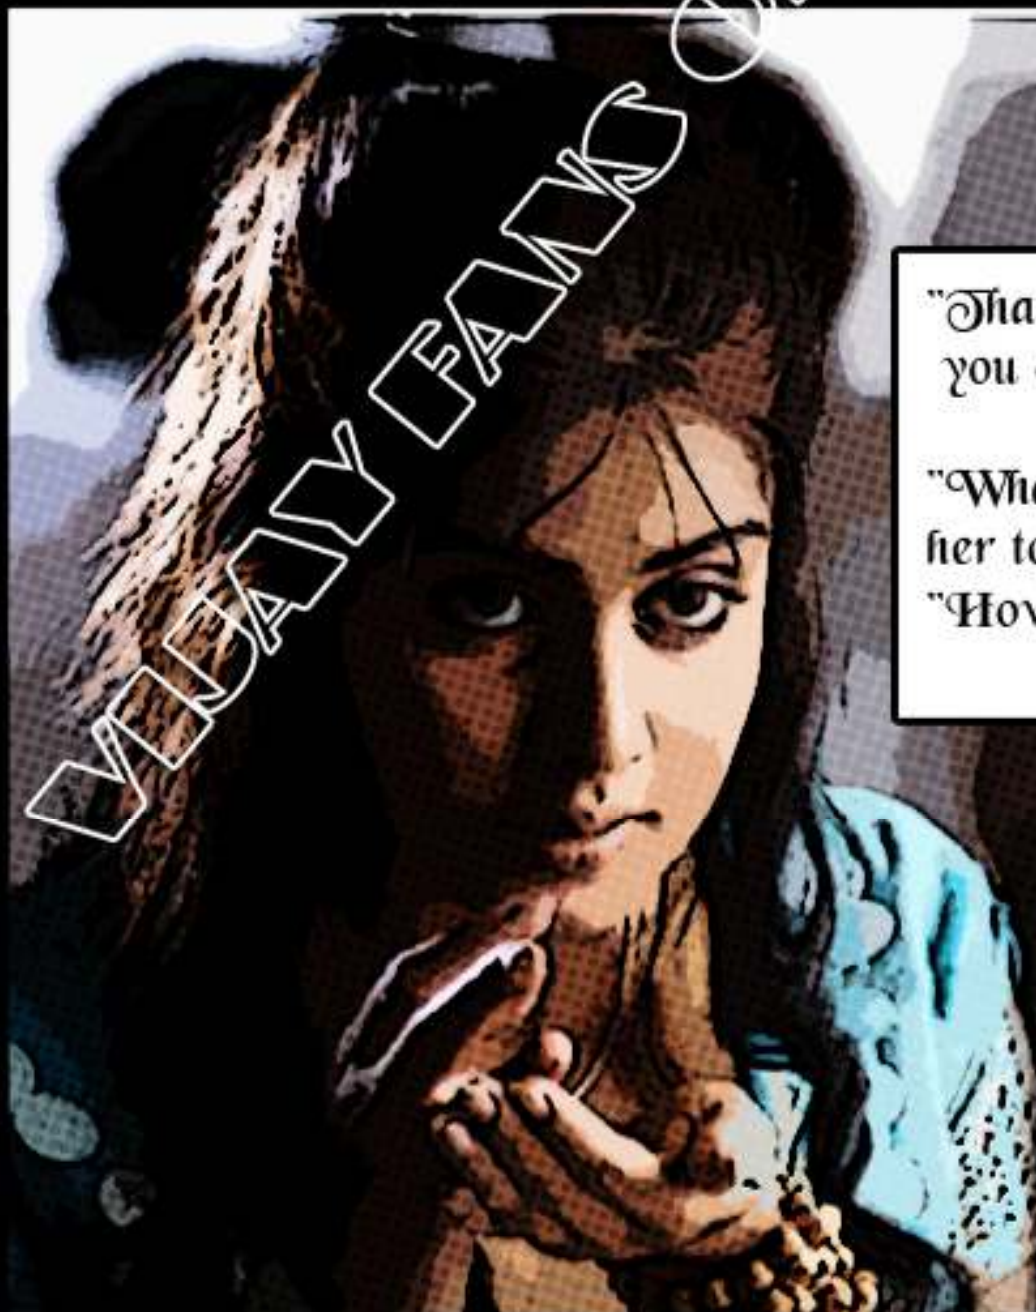

VFOC

"Well, I was confused. How did I know how you'd react? In fact, I still don't understand your reaction. I thought it would change things between us. You've rejected every guy who ever proposed to you!"

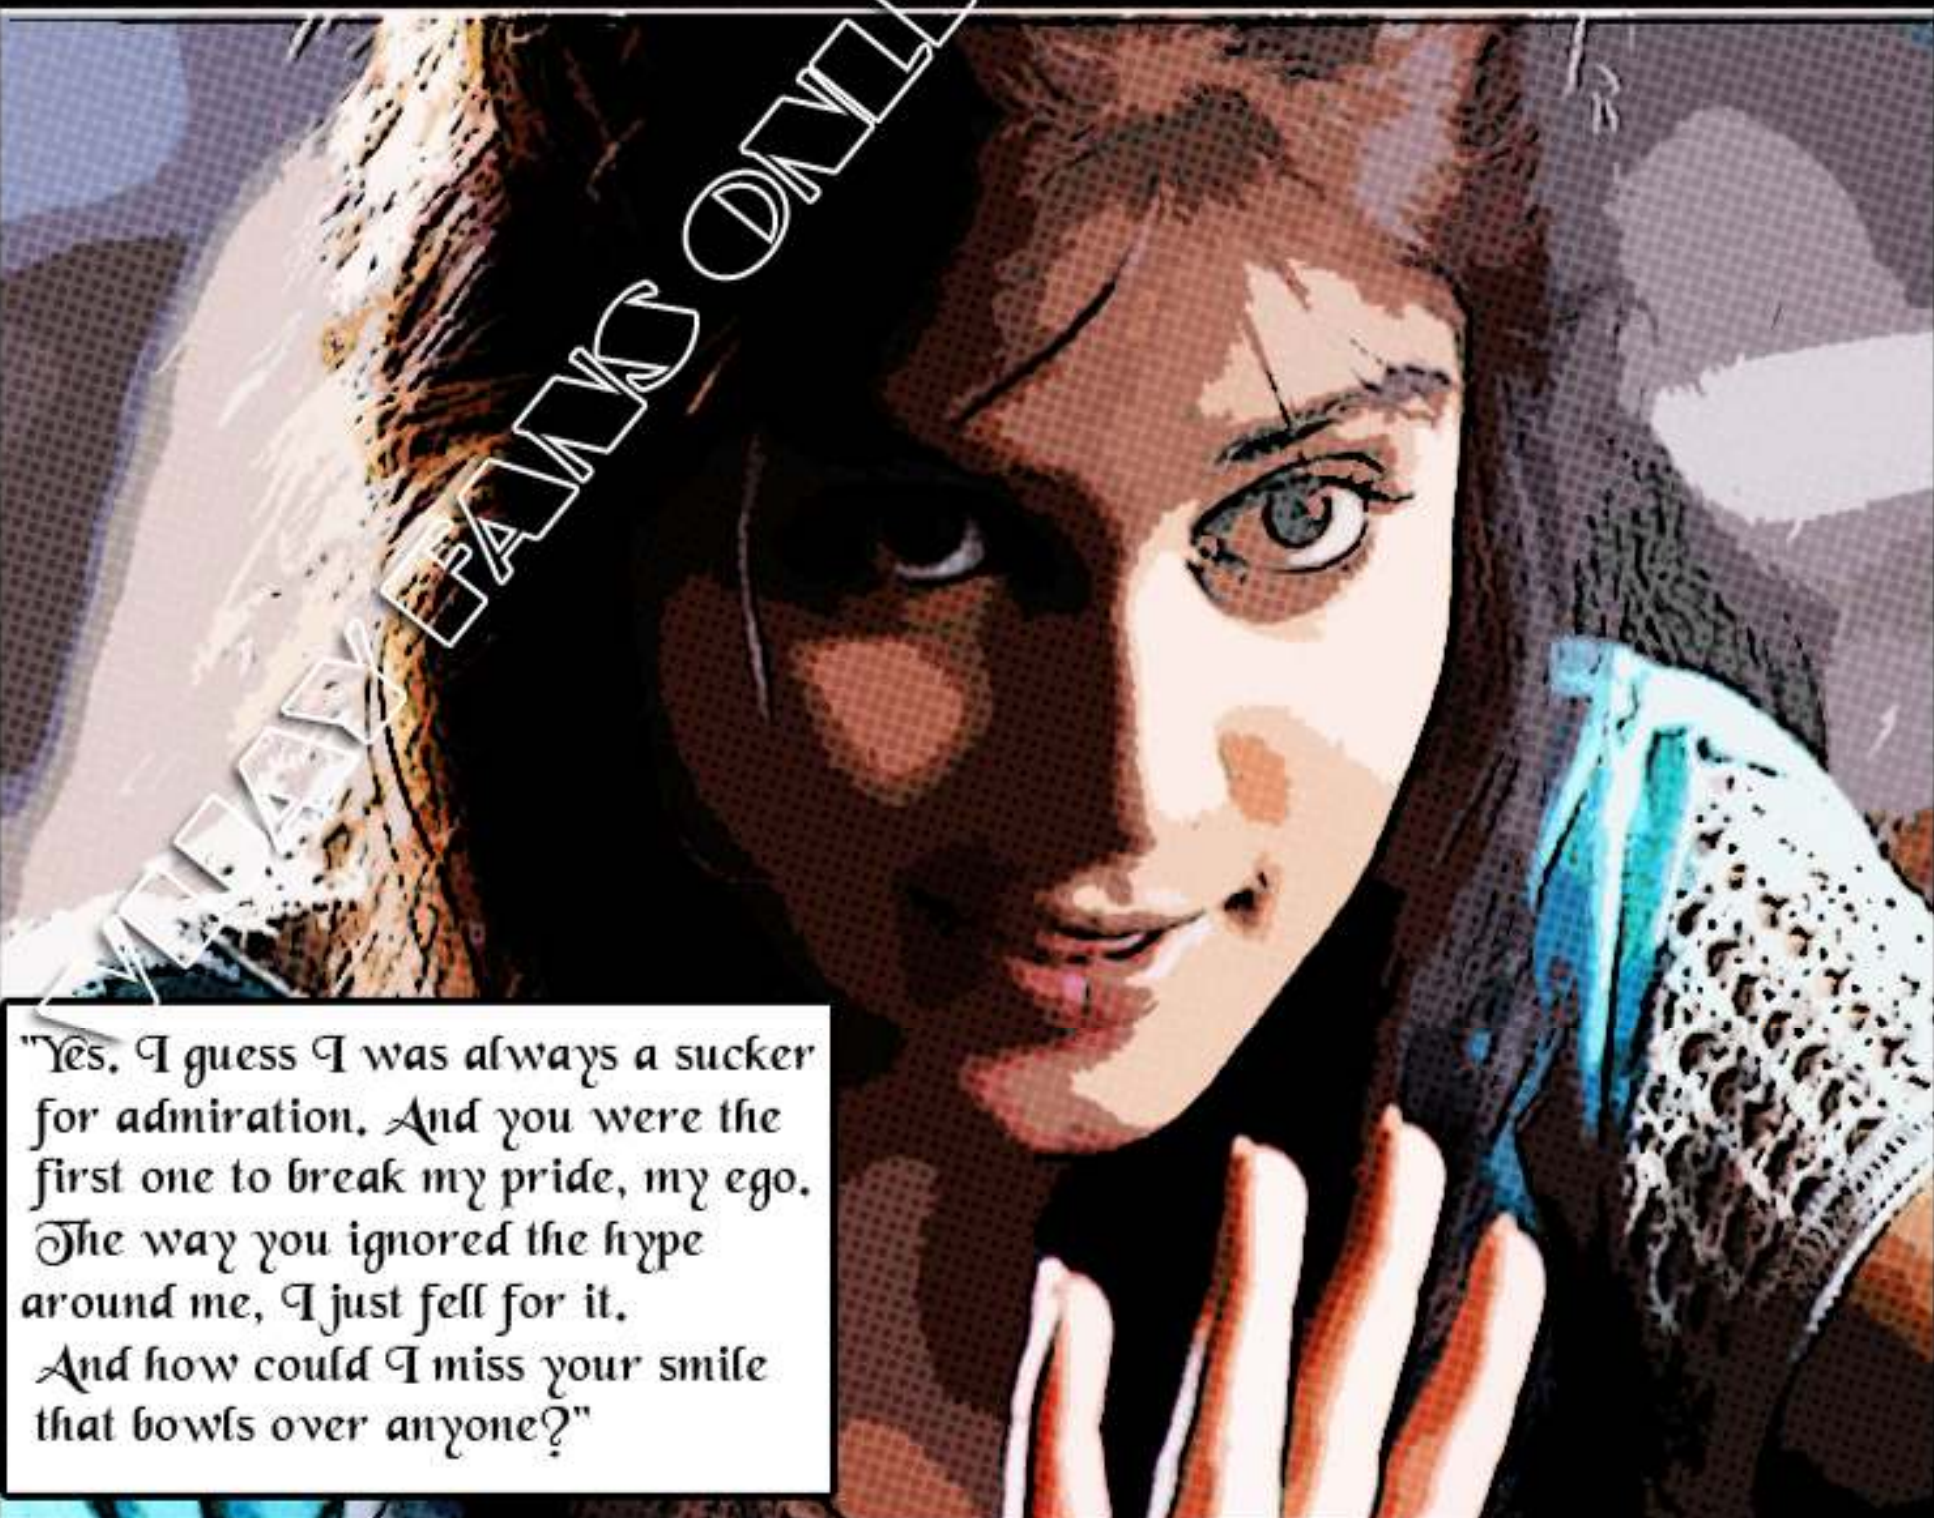

"That's because I'm in love with you, you overgrown idiot!"

"What?" Somehow, he had never expected her to say that. She was in love with me?
"How long have you been in love with me?"

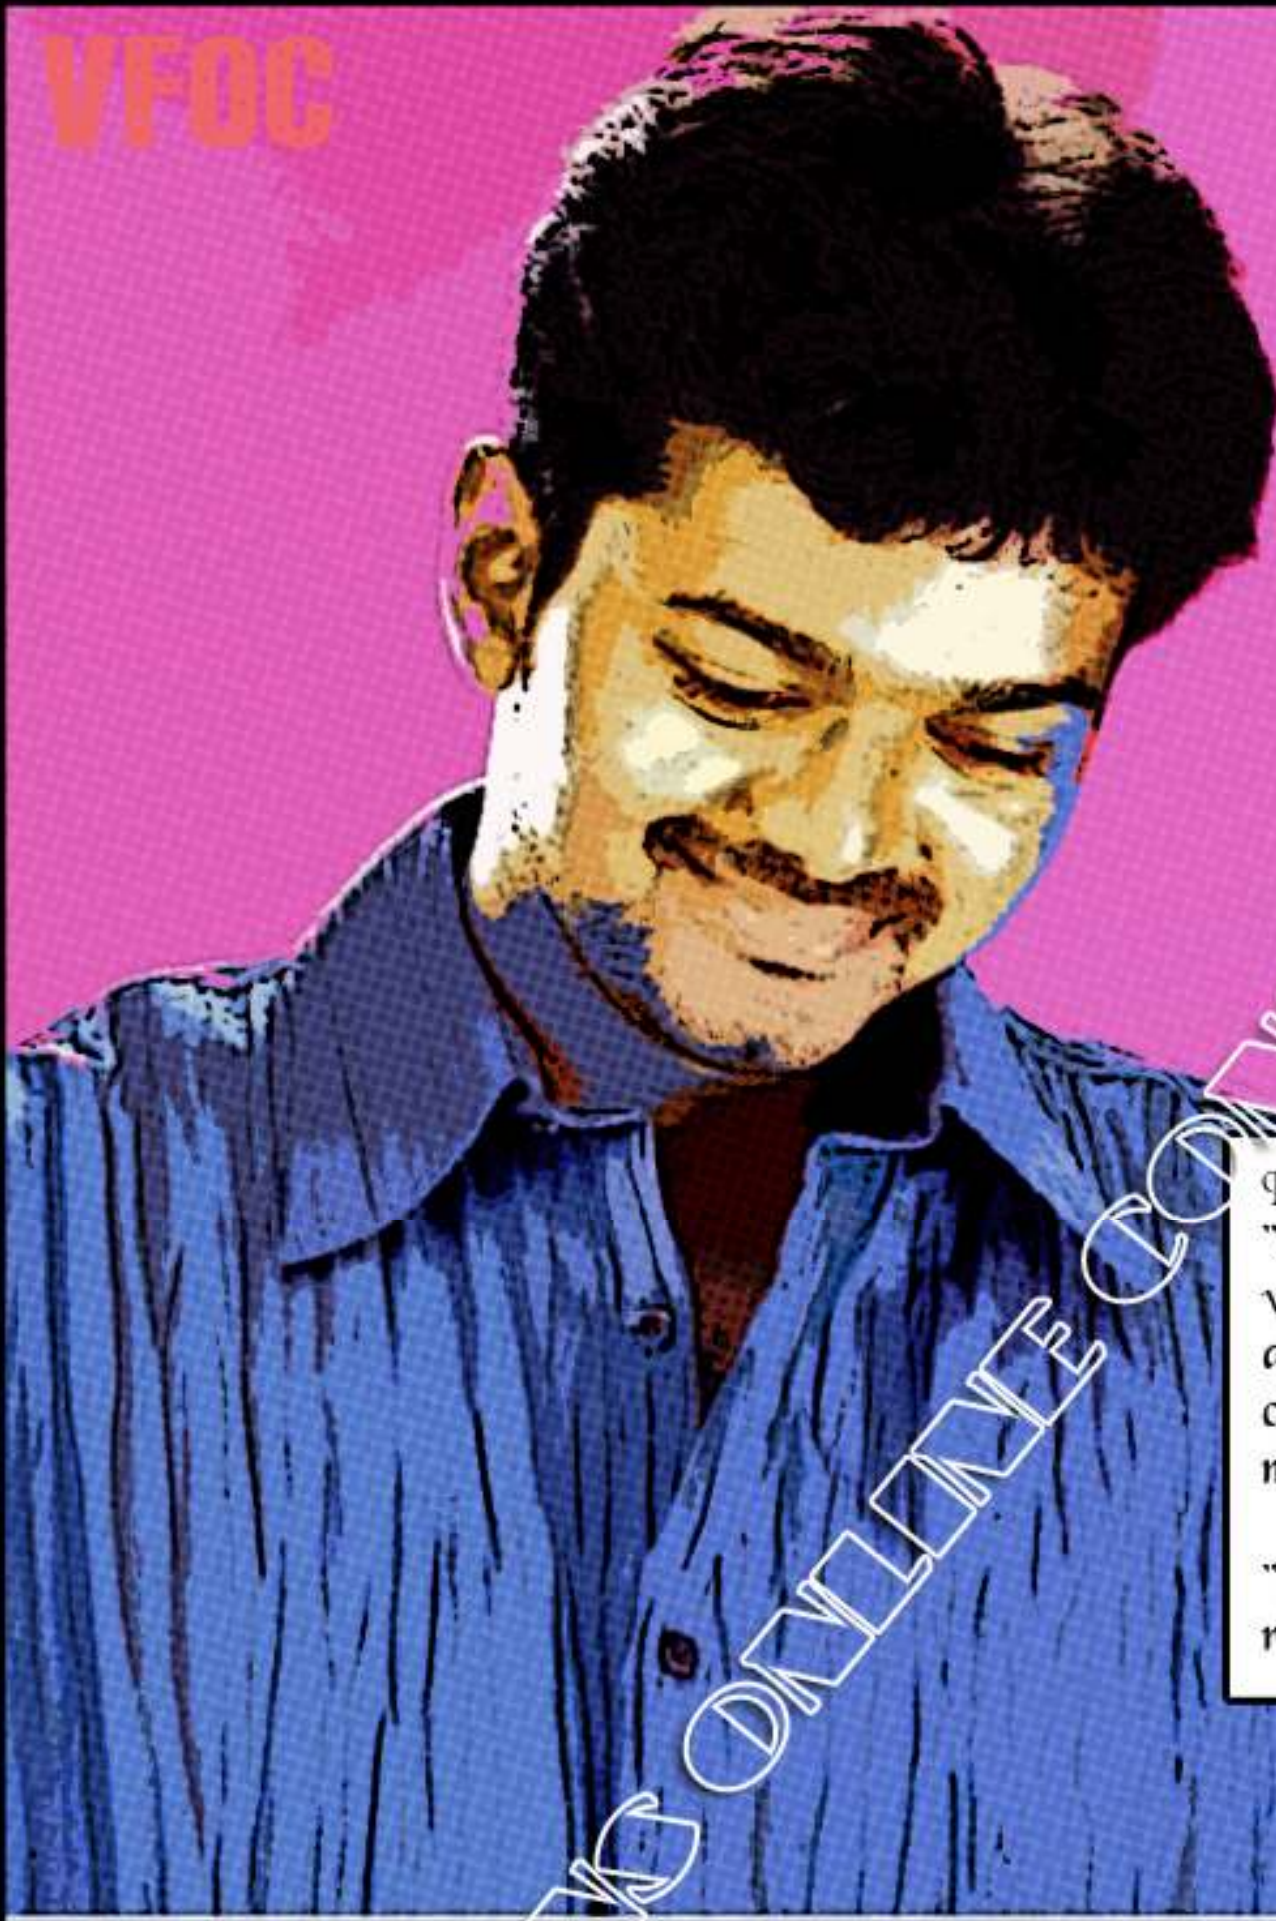

VFOC

"Ever since the day you made fun of me being a dream girl,"
"But that was the first day I met you!"

"Yes. I guess I was always a sucker for admiration. And you were the first one to break my pride, my ego.
The way you ignored the hype around me, I just fell for it.
And how could I miss your smile that bows over anyone?"

VFOC

He smiled. He was flattered. "All this time you've been in love with me and you never said anything! Then you go and complain that I waited a month!"

"You guys are so bad at reading a girl's mind."

"You women are so good at keeping your thoughts a secret! Even Einstein couldn't figure you out."

"Einstein was a nerd. Casanova, on the other hand, understood us very well."

VFOC

"I love you."

"I know." That moment was magic.

He looked into her eyes and took her hands in his. Physical contact for them had been limited, until then, to a punch in the arm, a slap on the back of the head, or giving each other a 'high five'.

"You realize, don't you," she said, "that this is our first date?" Leave it to her to notice the little things.

VFOC

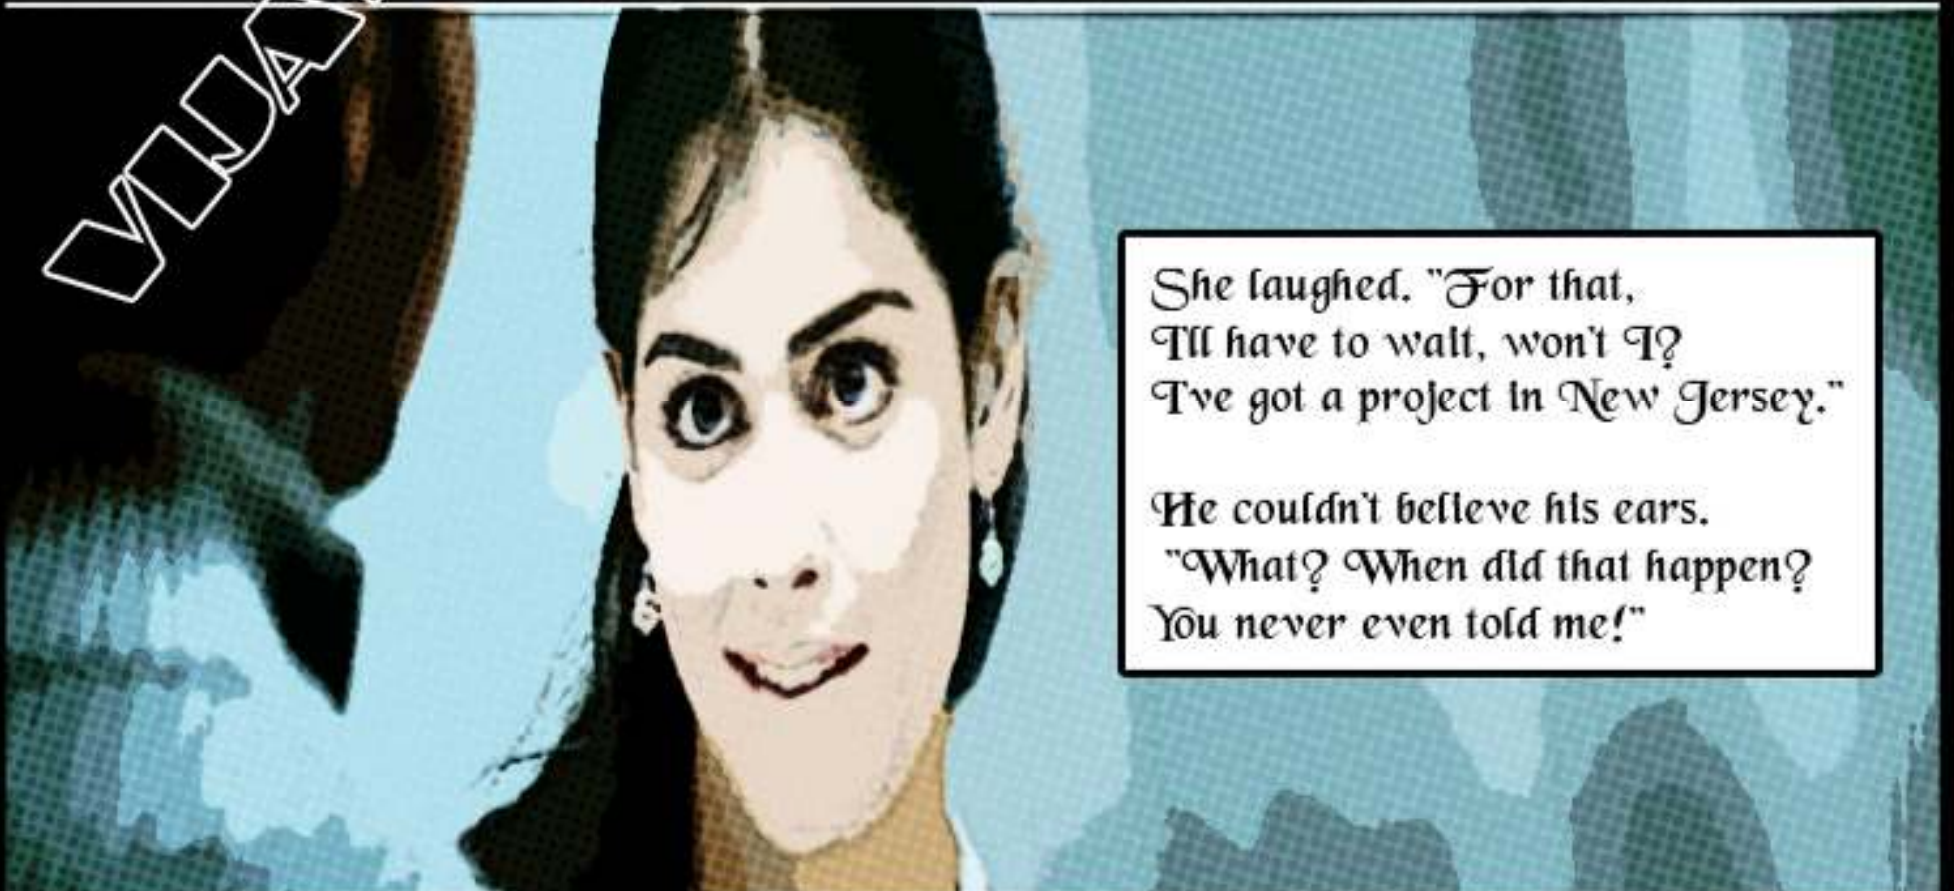

"I really don't want to go."

He had always maintained that love is a bucketful of emotions. He wasn't exactly delighted to be proved right.

"Don't worry. I'm coming there in a couple of months."

"How? On a dependent visa?"

She laughed. "For that, I'll have to wait, won't I? I've got a project in New Jersey."

He couldn't believe his ears.

"What? When did that happen? You never even told me!"

"Well, I wasn't sure you'd propose before you left. And I couldn't exactly sacrifice you to those New York women, could I? I had to watch out for myself. So I went on a project-hunting spree. There is an opportunity coming up for a project in about two months."

VFOC

"Someone is coming back to India, so I'll be taking his place. They want me there for a little less than two years." She was beaming. "I realized I had struck gold!"
 "And if I'd not told you how I felt? When were you planning on telling me about it?"

"Around a month before I reached there. I had to make it look natural. Or you'd think I was desperate."

VFOC

"Well, you are desperate!"
This was incredible. All he had done in the past month had been to mope around,
listen to sad songs and write her letters that he never intended her to read.

"You've been scheming all this while!
How come you didn't lay a trap for me
a year ago?"

"I tried giving you hints, dumbbo, but you just wouldn't pay attention!"
She was laughing.

"You're the only guy I ever spent any time with.
Wasn't that a big enough hint?"

That was true. She would happily join a group of boys to go to a cricket match, but now he realized, only if he was one of them.

VFOC

"What if I had rejected you?"

He was extremely flattered that she'd been crazy about me for a year. His ego was swelling.

"You must be kidding!" she was clearly amused.

"I get proposed to every few days.

You are the one who's been rejected more times in the last year than I can count on two pairs of hands!"

She really knew how to burst his bubble.

"Hey," she said softly, "don't look so dejected. I said 'Yes', didn't I?"

He grinned. "Yes, you did. And you've made me a very happy man."

The announcement for security check for his flight was made by then.

VFOC

He knew its time to leave.

"Shall I leave?" he asked.
"Yeah, you are getting late",
her eyes were still wet.

"Can I ask something?" he said.
"What?"

VFOC

VFOC

"Hmm...
atleast love me?"

She blushed and hugged him...
It was a moment when their friendship turned into love.

And they LOVED happily ever after...
