

GIANT PACARANA

No. Encountered: 1 (1d4+1)

Alignment: Neutral

Size: L

Movement: 30

Dexterity: 7

Armour Class: 7 (13)

Hit Dice: 3

No. of Attacks: 1/1 (bite)

Damage: 4d6

Saving Throw: 15

Morale: 5

Experience Points: 41

Treasure Class: -

The males are sometimes known as the bull rat, this creature is a herbivore that defends its territory with aggression, weighing near a ton and standing 4 to 5 feet at the shoulders and 10 foot long. Their skull is two foot long and their front teeth are powerful, like much like a beaver it could cut down trees.

The rodent's fearsome front teeth and large size are used to fight over females for breeding rights and is also helpful defending against predators, including carnivorous marsupials, sabre-toothed cats, short-faced bears and terror birds. The large rodent lives in many of the estuaries and delta systems and within forest communities, and eats soft vegetation and wood.

Sniffing the air is an ox-sized beast with a rat-like head and terrible foot-long incisors.

Special:

★ Keen Scent; allows it to be surprised only on a 1.

